RIVER PACT PLEA SOUNDED

League of Southwest Convenes With Attendance Scant; Engineer Urges Development

BY CHARLES F. HAYDEN
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA BARBARA, June 7.—An open conference called by the League of the league of the Southwest to discuss Colorado River problems and Indian affairs of the Southwest opened a three-day session this morning. It is the first meeting arranged by the league since the tubulent gathering in Riverside in December, 1921. The effects of th Riverside meeting are in evidence here in lack of recognition by the Southwestern States, in small attendance and by the absence of league officials. The conference opened with fewer than 100 persons present. It will continue until Saturday night and is in the nature of an unojcial forum.

Harry A. Merrick, chairman, stated at the outset that there will be no resolutions committee and that no resolutions will be offered.

PACT ADVOCATES ATTEND

A saving factor in a meeting, which in general appears to have aroused scant interest, is the presence here of some able and earnest men who have studied and who know the magnificent possibilities of Colorado River development and who are advocating co-operation of effort in order that some definite step toward undertaking the work can be taken. There are strong advocates of the Santa Fe pact here who believe that the program outlined by Secretary Hoover should be given full support and co-operation.

The meeting was called to order by Postmaster Rickard of Santa Barbara, who introduced Mr. Merrick as the chairman of the conference. Mayor Sloan greeted the visitors on behalf of Santa Barbara. A memorial to the late John S. Ankerman of San Diego, termed the godfather of the league, was voiced by Supervisor E. A. Hornbeck of San Diego.

Former Mayor Potter of Riverside told of the genesis of the Colorado River movement and of the tremendous value of the opportunity for development and urged co-operation on the part of all the people interested.

MINE SHIP HITS ROCKS AND IS LOST

Cardinal Goes Down Off Alaska; Rescue Vessel Also Strikes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) June 7.—The mine sweeper Cardinal, of the United States Navy, which struck today on the jagged rocks of Chirikof Island, 100 miles south of the Alaskan peninsula, will be h total loss, according to a wireless message received here tonight.

The message stated that the oil tanker Cuyama of the Navy with Rear-Admiral J. V. Chase aboard, had reached the scene of the disaster and was standing by.

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey steamer Discoverer struck a rock in attempting to go alongside the Cardinal, according to another wireless advice received here. The Discoverer was not injured, it was said, and remained standing by.

All the compartments and tanks of the Cardinal were flooded, stated another dispatch.

Young Ensigns Told to Study Law of Nations

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) June 7.—Exhorting them to a close application of the study of international law and to general lines of their profession as well so that they may be equipped to handle difficult problems that may confront the Navy, Secretary of the Navy Denby delivered the commencement address to the graduation class of midshipmen here today.

He also handed out the diplomas to the graduates, who automatically were commissioned full-fledged ensigns. Four hundred and four young men received the coveted commissions.

Discussing international problems, Secretary Denby pointed to Admiral Dewey as an outstanding example of an American naval officer, who, twenty-five years ago, found himself conqueror of a dominion and became responsible for the government of the Philippines, confronted by a most menacing situation. He could not have mastered that situation but for the fact that he was well versed in the law of the nations, he said.

Dance of States Is Finale

Washington Says Good-by to Shriners With Many Miles of Jazz

BY ROBERT BARRY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—When time came tonight for the national capital to say good-by to the Shriners, it said it with jazz.

Pennsylvania avenue, was converted into a vast dance floor with 100,000 persons participating in the "dance of the States."

There were separate sections of the thoroughfare for various States so that the city's nationally representative population might "shake a foot" with their home folks. Shrine bands played continuously, the music reaching the dancers through amplifying horns suspended on posts from the peace monument to the White House.

MILES OF PATRIOTISM

Promptly at the stroke of midnight the radio horns gave the cue and the great throng of dancers and spectators joined in singing "America." That stunt was called "two miles of patriotism."

The patriotic demonstration came as a fitting aftermath of the enthusiastic outburst provoked by Secretary Davis with an Americanization plea at the concluding session of the imperial council this morning. Explaining the purposes of the administration plan for special legislation to carry out his ideas, Davis brought the Shrine hosts to their feet shouting and cheering when he declared, "Americanize the aliens in America before the aliens allenize America." The imperial council took formal action on the Davis program.

Secretary Davis, himself a Shriner, contended the time had come for the United States "to serve notice on European governments and Asiatic powers that America is no longer a dumping ground for the offal of the world, but a melting pot for men who are morally, physically and mentally fit to be constructive citizens."

SACRAMENTO GETS CHARTER

Administrative matters were disposed of by the imperial council, the only new charter to be granted having been that voted to Bea Ali Temple, Sacramento, Cal., which has been operating under special dispensation from Islam Temple, San Francisco.

Dispensations were denied to temples in Kansas City, Kan.; Johnstown, Pa.; Fert Dodge, Iowa; Ottumwa, Iowa; Akron, O.; Cumberland, Md.; Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Danville, Ill.

The closing business sessions were called just after 20,000 Shriners and their guests had listened to a massed band concert by 6000 musicians at the American League baseball park. A hundred Shrine bands participated. Noble John Philip Sousa conducting. There was a great deal of personal ovation for Sousa, but the special recognition to him was even greater in the cheering for "Thunderer" march, which he composed for the Washington convention and which has been played again and again in the bright parades of the week.

ANGELENOS HONORED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 7. — Los Angeles Shriners were signally honored today when President Harding received them at the main portico of the White House. The great band of the Los Angeles temple was on the platform of the portico itself and ranged on either side under the roof of the portico were the chanters and the patrol. Behind the pillar of the portico were the wives of many of the Los Angeles Shriners and several thousand other visitors to Washington looked on as the men in Arab uniform from Los Angeles paid honor

NAVAL AIRMEN SET MARKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, June 7.—A new world's speed record for seaplanes was established over the North Island airways this afternoon when Boatswain E. E. Reber, piloting a Davis-Douglas torpedoplane, registered 102.68 miles per hour, according to official observers.

Lieut. L. D. Webb was second in the tests this afternoon, reaching a speed of 102.78 miles per hour. Lieut. Webb flew the M-O monoplane recently added to the aerial equipment of the North Island naval air forces.

He soared to a height of 18,400 feet, encountering a temperature at that altitude of 2 degrees below zero, in striking contrast with the balmy air of North Island, from which he started. The air was so rarified at 18,400 feet above the island that the air in the pontoons of the machine was all sucked out and when the T-5 began to descend the pressure of the atmosphere from without caved the pontoons in. Lieut. Ofstie's flight established a record.

Another record was set by Lieut. Earl Brix, flying a torpedo plane to an altitude of 13,050 feet, with an extra weight of 250 kilograms, or 551.14 pounds in the machine.

Two records were set by Ensign E. E. Bolecek in one flight in an F-5-L plane. The machine carried an extra load of 1000 kilograms, or 2204.62 pounds, and attained an altitude of 8600 feet. As he went higher than another plane which carried only 500 kilograms extra weight, he was credited with a record for that event in addition.

FRANCE TURNS DOWN NEW GERMAN PAYMENT TERMS

Poincare Repeats That Passive Resistance in Ruhr Must End as Prerequisite

BY VINCENT SHEEAN
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, by the Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, June 7.—Chancellor Cuno's new note on reparations is totally unacceptable to France, and it may not even receive a formal response. The short document was delivered at 6 o'clock this evening at Quai d'Orsay by the German Charge d'Affaires, translated and given to Premier Poincare within half an hour.

What progress appears in the text of the note is concerned exclusively with guarantees, which, although possessing a perfect surface of validity, contain no provision for actual collection by the Allies.

NO MENTION OF RUHR

This, in addition to Chancellor Cuno's former offer, is completely useless from the French viewpoint, because the note received today contains not one mention of the occupation of the Ruhr.

The Foreign Office made it clear after Premier Poincare had examined the note that nothing within the document would justify the government considering it as the basis for negotiations. If everything else were discounted one consideration alone would force it to be rejected—omission of reference to the Ruhr.

After the categorical declaration at Brussels yesterday as well as numerous assertions in the course of parliamentary debates here, Premier Poincare cannot enter into conversations until the German resistance in the Ruhr ceases.

The Premier has reiterated this so frequently and consistently that Germany's ignoring it now appears to be a direct flouting of France's principal condition. The Foreign Office asserted again tonight that a cessation of the passive resistance, which France considers a revolt against the Treaty of Versailles, is a prerequisite to any conversations with Germany.

NEW ASPECT PRESENTED

On the question of a response to today's note, however, a wholly new aspect to the problem is presented.

A speedy, drastic answer such as Premier Poincare dictated on May 2, a few hours after the previous note was received is impossible today. Germany's position and France's position remain about the same, but the English and Belgians have introduced a new element. Two courses seem open, according to official circles tonight.

First, a combined Allied reply—which depends on Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's amenability to Premier Poincare's agreements.

Second, no reply at all.

The first of these alternatives requires lengthy conversations, which already have been quietly under way for some time.

The second, the less likely course, will be taken if an attempt at a combined reply fails.

PREMIERS MAY CONFER

In any case, the Foreign Office is sure the answer will take a long time, perhaps including a general inter-Allied examination of the document at a premiers' conference.

Thus the German proposals, although totally unacceptable, may occasion a realignment of the present position of the Allies.

The possibility of France making informal suggestions to Germany without responding to today's document is intimated tonight by the Foreign Office. The object of this move would be to make Chancellor Cuno realise that the prime condition to negotiations is that the passive resistance in the Ruhr

FARRAR HITS LOU'S STORY OF AMNESTY

Singer Denies Condoning Miss Clifford Incident in Bay City Hotel

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Through her counsel, Samuel Untermyer, Miss Geraldine Farrar today denies that she ever condoned an incident between her husband, Lou Tellegen, and Kathleen Clifford in a San Francisco hotel, as Tellegen averred in an asserted interview today.

Miss Clifford was one of three co-respondents named by Miss Farrar in her divorce suit. Testimony given against another co-respondent, Miss Stella Larrimore, recently was withdrawn by Miss Farrar and the young woman was vindicated by Supreme Court Justice Lehman.

"Miss Farrar knew all about the incident with Miss Clifford in the Hotel St. Francis in San Francisco," Tellegen said to reporters in his home here, where he is resting after a long tour throughout the country in the play "Blind Youth."

"She showed me a clipping from Musical America when I returned from the Pacific Coast in 1918," he continued. "The clipping referred to a party in Miss Clifford's apartment when I was present. We discussed the story and Miss Farrar laughed about it and took the whole affair a as joke. Surely there were no grounds for divorce in that incident."

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Miss Farrar, was loath to discuss Tellegen's statement.

"Tellegen's lawyer was in court when Miss Farrar testified that she never had condoned any of the asserted offenses she charged against him," declared Untermyer. "If a woman was falsely accused, why didn't Tellegen deny it at the hearing before the referee. His lawyer was there.

"The clipping Tellegen refers to about the Clifford incident was purposely kept from Miss Farrar by her secretary."

PRISON AND FINES FOR OIL FRAUDS

Pleas Changed to Guilty by Two on Trial in Government's Texas Drive

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

FORT WORTH (Tex.) June 7. The government won its second victory in the drive against asserted fraudulent oil promoters when J. W. (Hog Creek) Caruth and L. G. Reynolds, Jr., unexpectedly pleaded guilty today to charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of the Caruth Oil Companies. The trial which started yesterday was brought to an abrupt close when the two defendants announced through their attorneys that they wished to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and plead guilty to the charges in the indictment.

Judge Bledsoe of Los Angeles sentenced Caruth and Reynolds to a year and a day in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., and to pay a fine of $5000 each.

This brings to a close until the 25th inst., the government's drive against the asserted fraudulent promoters. One of three cases will be called then for trial, according to Mr. Zweifel, that of A. F. Luse, Frederick L. Haskins or the oil men indicted in connection with the Pilgrim Oil Company, namely Harry E. Hicks, Warren H. Hollister, George M. Richardson, George M. Lucas and H. E. Robinson.

The next case will be tried before Judge Robert E. Ervin of Birmingham, Ala.

FILM NOVEL DISTORTED

Historical Works Inaccurate

Motion-Picture Heads Hear Heated Accusation of French Official

Basil King Questions Motive of Conference; Champions Authors' Cause

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Discontinuance of the filming of historical novels was urged on American motion-picture producers by Julien Jacques Champenois, attached to the French ministry of public education, in an address before the international congress of motion-picture producers today.

Motion-picture audiences abroad and especially in France were greatly irritated by the inaccuracies of many historical novels produced in the United States, he said. It is believed in many cases, he declared, than an attempt is being made by Americans to cartoon or ridicule the situations historically depicted.

IMPUDENT MONGRELS

M. Champenois said this situation had been especially true since the war, which left in its wake a tendency to make slight international incidents seem great. It has been the source of a great deal of trouble and many unpleasant incidents, he added.

The French representatives expressed surprise that American producers did not realize the unsoundness of combining fiction and fact. It was almost impossible, he asserted, for a foreigner to get the true significance of historical facts of a nation.

M. Champenois declared that historical novelists and playwrights with the exception of Sir Walter Scott and Prosper Merimee were "impudent mongrels." It was not enough, he said, to base historical novels on fiction and high school text-books.

HISTORICAL CRIMES

"Many a historical crime," he complained, "has been committed in the name of local color. There is a great deal of accuracy in details, but the spirit of the production is all wrong. Yet withal, children, uneducated and half educated persons accept these stories as textually true. And the most dangerous fanatics are the persons who believe utterly and are guided by what they read and by what they have seen on the screen."

Rev. Father John B. Kelley, speaking for Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, warned producers to beware of extremists in and out of the ranks. Those in the ranks, he said, had a tendency to economy as well as literary pride.

"Decadence," he asserted, "is the forerunner of decay and decay is the synonym of death.

KING SPEAKS

"Establish yourselves as exponents of the truly artistic and thus protect yourself against the fanatical marauder who, through civil legislation would cripple your influence and eventually would bring decay to yor industry which has a noble commission."

After several speeches by motion-picture producers and directors telling what the companies hoped to do, Basil King, author, demanded to know whether the meeting had been called to benefit authors, who were trying to make artistic motion pictures, or merely was a clever publicity stunt for producers.

"Is it worth while," he asked, "for the author to have anything to do with the motion picture at all?"

The question which aroused the most interest was:

"Is literature being turned into an industry or are movies being turned into an art?"

It was contended by several

OPPOSED TO STAGE UNIONS

Margaret Anglin Believes Rules Will Not Work if Applied to Art of Theater

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Miss Margaret Anglin, actress, who recently produced the "Hippolytus of Euripides" at the University of California Greek Theater, in a statement today to the Associated Press, explained her attitude toward the "closed shop" as applied to the stage, difficult to return on the next whistle and pick up acts like a bod of bricks."

Miss Anglin, in a published interview on May 21, was quoted as saying: "Artists are not bricklayers. They cannot be controlled by a union or union rules. Neither can emotions be controlled. Personally my ability as an actress would be impaired if I were held down by ironclad rules. I want to be free to express my emotions."

In her statement today Miss Anglin says she is not opposed to labor organizations nor to persons who are affiliated with them, but she does not believe union rules "could be made to work successfully with the art of acting." She added:

"So far as trade unionism in the theater is concerned, and in this I allude to the stage hands' union, I have rarely had anything but fair play, and when a difference has arisen it has been the fault of individuals, not of the organization. I employ and seem to make happy many members of the Actors' Equity Association. But I did say that it was my personal belief that the rules which applied to other unions, such as plasterers, carpenters or bricklayers, could not be made to work successfully with the art of acting; that if a whistle were blown in the middle of a rehearsal it would be

BY RAYMOND G. CARROLD
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—How much is annually swindled from the public in get-rich-quick stock promotion schemes that fountain-head in New York City? Three estimates have been made by responsible persons, and in totals that are staggering.

The lowest in the $600,000,000 estimate in a compilation put out under the mantle of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, with an added opinion that oil and mining were still the chief fields of easy money for the stock sharks.

Dist.-Atty. Banton of New York county, formerly of Texas, who has been thrusting savagely at the whole stock-selling machinery by going in person before successive legislatures demanding State supervision over brokers similar to that exercised over banks, says $700,000,000 is his minimum figure. He will appeal again for remedial legislation at the next Legislature.

The Better Business Bureau of New York, which is all shot through with ideals and high principles of reform, estimates that upward of $1,000,000,000 is a conservative estimate of the yearly take from the public by bogus stock promotions.

That an awakening has come to pass—even though the "locking of the door" is long after many horses "have been stolen"—is further demonstrated in an appeal to branch managers and customers' men in New York Stock Exchange houses from Seymour L. Cromwell, president of that exchange, asking them "to participate in the movement which is now well under way to rid the country of those thinly disguised thieves who utilize the brokerage business for their own gain and for the robbery of the people."

The New York Stock Exchange is not an incorporated body, but a strictly voluntary association, organized in 1792 by a group of brokers meeting under a buttonwood tree at what is now 70 Wall street, and later in the old Tontine Coffee House. The membership is limited to 1100 members and seats have sold as high as $100,000. This exchange does no business itself, but provides facilities to its members and oversees their conduct. An elected committee of forty members is the governing board.

Next in importance of the stock-selling machinery is the Consolidated Stock Exchange called the "little stock exchange," which was organized as a mining exchange in 1875, alternating its name and field in 1886. It deals chiefly in securities listed upon the big exchange, but also in shares not listed there and some mining and oil shares excluded from the big exchange. It has 1225 members and seats sell from $650 to $2000. Most of the big failures of last year were Consolidated Stock Exchange firms.

Lastly we have the comparatively recently formed New York Curb Market, called the "baby stock exchange," a pick-up from the open air market of Broad street, which wen tunder roof as a market particularly and specially for unlisted securities. It has 550 members, and a seat there has had $9000 bid for it.

The latest big wire house to go under was affiliated only with the New York Curb Market. An inside story concerning its inception eleven years ago has to do with the Chicago Branch office of a concern that closed down with dignity three years ago. The men in charge of this branch Chicago office over the week-end divorced themselves from the parent stem, which was connected with the Consolidated Stock Exchange, and started up bright and early Monday morning on their own. The man they deserted is laughing his head off in New York today.

The first census of New York City was taken in 1653, by Peter Stuyvesant, Dutch Governor of New Amsterdam, who counted noses and pipes on Manhattan Island and recorded just 1120 of population. In 1664 the English came and by 1673 the population had increased to 2500.

In 1774, shortly before the American Revolution flared up, New York had 23,000 residents. After independence was won, the population increased very rapidly, but it was not until after the Civil War in 1875 that the city crossed the 1,000,000 mark. In that year the canvassers counted 1,041,886 here. Since then, and with the expansion into the greater city in 1898, population went forward in leaps and bounds, until now the 6,000,000 and then some.

The advent of the famous City Hotel in 1815 established the line between the ancient tavern and the modern type of hotel in New York. It stood on Broadway a block above Trinity Church, and in the early nineteenth century was looked upon as a wonder of the city. Before it the hostelries of the town were usually of th etavern type, accommodating overnight lodgers and featuring eating and drinking facilities.

The tavern began to pass with the waning of the stage coach, and in 1836 was completed the famous Astor House at Broadway and Vesey street. One tavern that held on, like the Delmonico's restaurant that shut up last week, long after its days were over, was the old Shakespeare tavern at Nassau and Fulton streets, which was famous as a rendezvous for ship captains. But it finally gave up in the fifties.

The comparative sizes of hotels then and now is best shown by the Astor House, which came down a decade ago, having on one night provided 647 persons with beds, while last night 3414 guests slept in the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City's largest hotel.

RECORD POLICY FOR MRS. FIELD

personal friends in order that they might reap the benefits of the large commissions, mentioned the Field case in connection with that of S. S. Kresge of Detroit, millionaire proprietor of a string of 212 five and ten-cent stores who recently attempted to negotiate a $50,000,000 policy on condition that the commission should go to Wallace Scott, a personal friend. When insurance men raised strenuous objections Kresge withdrew his application.

SPECIALLY LICENSED

In mentioning the Field case, the paper pointed out that Jones, although an old insurance broker, had been granted a license by the New York Life Company especially to write the Field policy because of his acquaintance with the Field family. He will receive full commission on the policy held by that company and part commission on each of the other policies distributed among the other companies.

Arthur B. Jones of Evanston, manager and trustee of the Field estate, denied tonight he knew anything about the transaction or that he knew Robert L. Jones.

Three years ago Capt. Field took out a $1,000,000 policy in Chicago, making the total amount of insurance he carried at that time $1,065,000. He had filed applications for $300,000 more. He was the first client of a newly organized insurance brokerage firm formed by two of his overseas "buddies," Lieut. Harper Meriton and Sergt. Paul M. Hurd, who served with the same outfit with him in the One Hundred and Twenty-second Field Artillery. All of the policies were in favor of his wife.

RICH IN OWN RIGHT

The Fields have three children, Marshall Field IV, Barbara and a girl baby born in February.

The taking out of large insurance policies to cover the inheritance taxes in New York State has become a popular proceeding with millionaires and certain brokers now specialize in this one type of insurance. The New York law requires that inheritance taxes must be paid within a year and it is often found inadvisable to break up an estate or convert a portion of it into cash within that limited period.

Until Mrs. Field took out her policy, Mrs. Mollie Netcher Newbury, owner of the Boston Store, a Chicago department store, was credited with being the most heavily insured woman in America.

SUMMARY OF GERMAN TERMS

System of Annuities Estimated to Total 1,200,000,000 Marks Annually Becoming Effective in 1927 Offered in Brief Memorandum

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, June 7.—Germany's amendatory reparations note which was handed to the Entente and United States government this afternoon, proposes a system of annuities estimated to total 1,2000,000 marks annually if an inernational loan is not available for immediate capital payments.

The annuities would become effective in 1927 and their number and amount would depend wholly on the degree of Germany's economic recovery. The memorandum declares an inevitable requisite to a practical solution of the reparation problem is the early convocation of a general conference to which Germany would be admitted on an equal basis.

DOCUMENT IS BRIEF

The document is brief and wholly devoted to elucidation of the mooted points on which the creditor nations had requested amplifying statements. It makes no mention of the political situation, the Ruhr occupation or the question of abandoning the passive resistance and indulges in no recriminations. Neither does it refer to the conditions under which Germany is prepared to carry out the payment of the annuities.

The memorandum reaffirms Germany's good will and readiness to meet her reparations obligations and asserts the conviction that the entire problem should be submitted to an impartial inquiry, the verdict of which, it declares, would be accepted by the German government.

As a guarantee for the annuities, the German government pledges the Federal railway system, which would be capitalized at 10,000,000,000 marks, yielding an annual bonded interest of 500,000,000 marks.

GOVERNMENT MONOPOLIES

A further 10,000,000,000 marks would be guaranteed by a gold 5 per cent mortgage, security for which would be furnished in physical holdings of industry, agriculture and shipping and the gold obligations assumed by banking and commercial interests and private real estate. This levy, it is estimated, would also yield 500,000,000 gold marks. The additional 200,000,000 of the annuity totals would be raised by increased customs duties on articles of luxury and the creation of a government monopoly in tobacco and spirits.

GERMAN TERMS ARE REJECTED

cease. If it made an offer containing a pledge to this effect, even if the figures named were insufficient, Germany would have a chance to get France seated at a reparations conference table.

WASHINGTON PLEASED

WASHINGTON, June 7.—An official text of the new German proposal to the Allies on reparations was before State Department officials today, transmitted by the German Ambassador, Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, as a matter of information. While official comment was withheld, there can be no doubt that the clause in the German note declaring that a method of payment could be determined only by "direct consultations with those who are to receive payments" attracted wide attention in official circles.

The note was handed to the State Department by Dr. Wiedfeldt in the same way as it was presented by German diplomats at all foreign offices and its receipt does not call for any acknowledgment or diplomatic correspondence. The purpose of the German government in transmitting copies to all governments is merely to abide by the customs of diplomatic courtesy and to make sure that all governments have an official translation of the German proposals in their archives.

In view of the position taken by the American government before the occupation of the Ruhr, the German declaration for a direct, oral discussion of methods of reparations payments could not fail to attract attention here.

AMERICAN SUGGESTION

The American suggestion to the French prior to the occupation of the Ruhr was that a conference of the interested nations be called to seek a business-like solution of the problem. The German suggestion contained in the current reparations proposal from Berlin is in line with the theory that impelled the American government to make its formal suggestion for such a conference.

No official would discuss details of the German proposal nad the official text received at the State Department was not made public there, although copies were made available at the German Embassy. It was obvious, however, that the flat declaration of the German authorities that they saw no way of arriving at a permanent adjustment of the reparations tangle except through the medium of direct consultations with the governments which are entitled to receive reparations payments under the Treaty of Versailles, impressed official observers here as marking a step in advance in the treatment of the situation.

Allied reactions to the German suggestion that the problem be attacked in a businesslike way were awaited with interest here. Hope is entertained that it will lead to discussions which may bring about the initiation of conferences between Germany and her creditors that might lead to an ultimate agreement and help stabilise European conditions.

The Washington government, however, has no part in the reparations matter at present and the question of whether the United States would be a participant in such conversations as the German note suggests could not arise until there had been an agreemnet to hold the consultations outlined.

CONSIDERED ADVANCE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, JUNE 7.—Dr. Friederich St. Hamer, German Ambassador, this afternoon presented the German note replying to the last Allied note turning down the German reparations proposals to the British Foreign Office, and at the same time the note was presented in identical form to the Allied capitals and Washington.

Although official comment here cannot be obtained owing to a convention that doplimats must not talk until hey have had an opportunity of conferring, it is understood the note is regarded in British circles as a great advance from the previous German offers, and the British particularly are pleased at the adoption of Secretary of State Hughes's suggestion to refer the German ability to pay to a commission of impartial experts.

EL CENTRO, June 7.—With a considerable portion of his head and brain missing, H. Tamaki, victim of a shotgun in the hands of K. Omine, was still alive today, forty-eight hours after the wound was inflicted.

His case is puzzling physicians and nurses who have examined him. It is asserted that such wounds as Tamaki received are almost invariably fatal within a few hours, if not instantly.

The shooting is asserted to be the outcome of a Japanese love love triangle. Omine is in the County Jail awaiting the result of the wound in Tamaki's head.

to the Chief Executive of the nation. Potentate Louis Cole of Al Malaikah was in command.

The band struck up a patriotic selection and President Harding appeared in the great entrance doorway with a gesture of hospitality and greeting. When the band had finished the greeters started in to convince the Chief Executive that he had a lot of friends in California and after singing two more songs, the band again aroused the echoes in the historic corridors of the White House.

THANKED FOR VISIT

President Harding then called Potentate Cole to his side and warmly thanked him for the visit, saying that he regretted the physical impossibility of greeting each one personally as there were then more than 5000 Shriners gathered about the White House. He closed by saying, "Gentlmen, I am planning to return your call in Los Angeles eight weeks from today and I shall be delighted to see you again there."

Another great honor came to Los Angeles today when Motley H. Flint in recognition of his twenty-one years of continuous service was elected an emeritus member of the imperial council. This means he has the position for life and gives Los Angeles five votes in the deliberations of the council. There are only twenty men so honored in all of North America.

CHICAGO BECOMING VERY DEVOTIONAL?

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, June 7. — Judging from the amount of "sacramental" wine consumed here, Chicago is four times as religious as New York. Chicago uses 218,000 gallons of sacramental wine every month, ostensibly for church purposes, according to the record of withdrawals in the office of the director of prohibition, but the officials intimate that a large proportion of the wine never reaches the churches, and a still larger percentage never gets to the congregation.

New York, with considerably greater population than Chicago, only withdraws 40,000 to 60,000 gallons a month for sacramental purposes. The prohibition agents here say there has been a remarkable increase in the names of Chicago churches. They also have discovered that many of the people named on the lists requesting wine have never qualified as members of the churches.

Gus J. Simons, the new director of prohibition, who took office Tuesday morning, says he has sixty definite cases in which the prohibition laws have been openly and flagrantly violated in the matter of withdrawing large quantites of wine for sacramental purposes, and action will be taken at once to limit these withdrawals to actual members of congregations.

EDITOR IS ACQUITTED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SYDNEY (N.S.W.) June 7.—Malcolm Bruce, editor of the Worker and Labor, candidate for Southwest Toronto in the provincial elections, today was acquitted of a charge of sedition. The prosecution failed to substantiate the allegation that he had declared at a labor meeting that he hoped to see the red flag substituted for the Union Jack.

PLEA FOR RIVER WORK SOUNDED

conference that he has just completed a 10,000-mile tour of the Southwest observing hydroelectric conditions and opportunities. By means of lantern slides he showed both the opportunities for power development and the use to which it can be put. Seventy per cent of the potential horsepower of the country is in the West, he said, therefore the West will become the country's great industrial section.

Urging that the Santa Fe pact be ratified without change Dr. Sibley said:

"There is no single natural resource in the seven Southwestern State that can be made to bring, by wise treatment, greater blessing to the people now living in this district and to the untold millions of people who may receive support from this vast region than the putting to practical use of the Colorado River and its various tributaries for the service of man.

"Virtual unanimity prevails among the leaders in the seven States involved that, due to differences in seasons, crops, soil and physical conditions of climate involved, it is wise to separate the Colorado River drainage into two areas, the upper basin and the lower basin, as defined in the proposed Santa Fe treaty now under consideration.

BENEFITS PREDICTED

"The waters of the Colorado River basin under wise adjudication are ample to bring under cultivation all irrigable lands of reasonable approach from the main waters of the river.

"The Colorado River basin, involving as it does interstate and international problems of flood, irrigation, power and possible navigation, is a problem requiring the full co-operation, not of a single State, but the closest co-operation of the several States involved and the Federal government.

"The raising of funds for the completed development of the river, involving as it will a sum probably exceeding $1 000,000,000, requires the completest co-operation of public and private finance.

"Hence it would seem that the proposed Santa Fe Treaty should be adopted 'as is.'

"Immediately thereafter the seven States and the Federal government should unite in combined action in bringing to life a permanent Colorado River Commission, composed of men of the most brilliant attainment and constructive ideals in problems similar to these to be met with in the Colorado River development, and men thoroughly representative of the seven States involved and of the Federal government. This commission to have full and complete authority to supervise the distribution of the waters of the upper and lower basins and in particular to have supervision over the building of dams in the canyon district and the disposition of power franchises to private and business enterprises that may desire its use.

"The continual aim of the commission should be to so encourage all factors involved in the great Colorado River development in such a manner that broad policies of use for this great public resource may be instituted at once and the wealth of water and power it contains be brought to western homes, farms and industries by the fullest co-operation of Federal, State, city and private enterprises."

DESCRIBES STETSON PLAN

A detailed description of a project to control the river and develop power on a wholesale scale by the erection of a monster rock-filled dam at Boulder Cahyon was given by W. G. Clark, New York engineer. Mr. Clark was heard by a somewhat larger audience than attended the morning session.

The plan described by Mr. Clark has been referred to as the Stetson project, it being sponsored by G. Henry Stetson of Philadelphia. This project contemplates either an 800-foot dam, a 1000-foot dam or a 1200-foot dam, the 1000-foot dam being most favored. The plan has been presented to Congress and is under consideration. The cost for building the dam 1000 feet high, developing power, but not transmitting it, would be about $130,000,000 and for a dam 1200 feet high would be $190,000,000. Eastern capitalists, Mr. Clark said, have agreed to underwrite the bonds necessary to build the dam if the Federal government will guarantee the interest for the eight or ten years during construction, these interest payments to be repaid after power has been developed and distributed. The cost of the power delivered on a 200-mile radius would be three tenths of a cent per kilowatt hour. The plan contemplates the delivery and sale to existing organizations engaged in power distribution and is not designed to enter into competition with any such organizations.

FAVOR FEDERAL BOARD

This project would submerge the so-called Diamond Creek project. Mr. Clark said that the advocates of the Stetson project favor the organization of a board of engineers by the Federal government to pass upon all dam projects.

George H. Maxwell of Phoenix, executive director of the National Reclamation Association, expressed objections to the Santa Fe compact and to the construction of a dam at Boulder Canyon. As an alternative he proposed that first a small dam for flood control only be built at Topoc. He said this could be done within three years. He proposed that the government be asked to appropriate a sum of money to survey the entire river and to consider the Glen Canyon project. Mr. Maxwell said Glen Canyon offered many advantages over Boulder Canyon because it takes water from a higher point in the river and would enable Arizona to irrigate more land. In connection with the Glen Canyon project, Mr. Maxwell suggested a high line canal from the river across Arizona and California to a point near Indio, where he said a large amount of power could be developed.

ALLIES ARE IN CONTEST FOR TANGIER

Both French and British Desire Country Because of Its Location

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, by the Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, June 7.—Tangier, which twice in the twentieth century brought Europe on the verge of a general war, has become the most important strategic question the French government faces.

A determination not to permit England to seize what the government newspapers call the "only first rank strategic base in Europe or Asia not belonging to England," directs the fullest attention of the Foreign Office and War Office toward the Tangier conference in London on the 19th inst.

The nomination of the head of the French delegation is delayed, but indications this evening show that Rene Viviani, who is at present at Geneva trying to outwit Lord Robert Cecil, will be sent to London to try to outwit Lord Curson and Lord Derby. M. Viviani's health may prevent his going, but Quai d'Orsay wishes to send one of the most competent negotiators France possesses.

The English proposal to "internationalize" Tangier as the internationalized Straits will meet with uncompromising opposition from France.

The position of the Poincare government is that Tangier became a French protectorate despite Germany in 1904 and France will not yield her prospective Gibraltar to anybody.

INTRODUCES BILL TO LIMIT MINISTERS

CHIHUAHUA LEGISLATURE HAS SUCH MEASURE UNDER CONSIDERATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, June 7.—A bill to limit the number of ministers of any one denomination in Chihuahua to twenty-five and providing they shall be native-born, has been introduced in the State Legislature, Rev. Father L. G. Soule of Guadalupe mission, Juarez, has been informed. He predicted the measure would be fought vigorously.

The bill is a copy of that which precipitated a riot in Durango City last week in which ten persons were killed and seventeen injured.

There are forty Catholic priests in Chihuahua. Under the proposed law all ministers will be licensed by the State and municipal presidents will be required to keep account of the number in their jurisdiction.

PULLS NOSE OF WOMAN DEFENDANT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Judge Hebel had just opened his court today when Mrs. Veronica Hodgkowski walked over to the table where sat Mrs. Francis Budzinski and her son Edward. Seizing Mrs. Budzinski's nose firmly between thumb and finger, Mrs. Hodgkowski gave it a lusty tweak.

The victim squealed, the court gasped and arose and spectators and attorneys began clambering on chairs. Shifting gears, Mrs. Hodgkowski tweaked her victim's nose in another direction until it began to look like a water-soaked frankfurter sausage. Mrs. Budzinski squealed still louder and two bailiffs fell upon her tormentor and pried her loose.

"You can't pull that stuff in this court," stormed the judge. "You're in contempt of court. Bailiff, put her in a cell and I'll pass sentence later."

So the nose-puller was hustled over to the County Jail, while the pulse applied cold cream and other salves to her injured proboscis.

Caterpillar Army Delays Oregon Train

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ALBANY (Or.) June 7.—Caterpillars that are reported to be devastating the Coast mountain region between Eddyville and Blodget, on the Albany-Newport road, last evening delayed the Albany-Newport train en route here one hour and twenty-five minutes.

One man is reported to have been driven from his home near Eddyville by the insects. The caterpillars have destroyed all orchards in their path.

The caterpillar army was more than an inch deep on the railway tracks and the trainmen exhausted their sand supply in attempting to make grades in the devastated area. The horde is marching eastward, the trainmen say.

Institute Lists Noted Figures

England, Germany Are Represented

International Affairs Will Be Discussed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WILLIAMSTOWN (Mass.) June 8.—Statesmen and publicists from England, France, Germany and Italy will address the third session of the Institute of Politics, which opens at Williams college on July 25, according to Harry Garfield, chairman of the institute.

Ramsay Macdonald leads the list of guests from abroad, but the principal point of view will be presented by Sir Edward Grigg, former political secretary to Lloyd George. Canon Ernest Barnes, professor in the college of Paris, will represent

BERLIN LEADER

Count Harry Kessler is the speaker from Germany, the first ever invited to lecture at Williams. Count Kessler served as Germany's first Minister to Poland and is known in Berlin as one of the famous "Die Wieder" democrats.

From Argentina comes Dr. Estanislao Bunge, distinguished international lawyer, who has been Minister of Foreign Relations in successive cabinets. A brief series of public lectures will also be given by Sir Paul Vinogradov, professor of Moscow, now professor of jurisprudence in Oxford University.

Another innovation at this year's session will be the establishment of so-called "open conferences." It is said all active debate on international affairs at the institute has been carried on by the members of the regular round table conferences, which are limited in enrollment.

MAY DEPARTURE

The open conference, meeting several times weekly throughout the institute's session from July 25 to August 25, will be led by William R. Culbertson, vice-chairman of the United States Tariff Commission. "Current foreign opinion as affected by international trade and finance" will be the topic under discussion. United States policy as to the distribution of raw materials and foodstuffs will receive special attention, and the Department of Commerce, the Bureau of Mines, the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Agriculture will send representatives to Williamstown to show the government's point of view in these matters.

The second conference will deal with foreign relations of the British Empire, under the direction of Phillip H. Kerr of London, Eng.

Among the round tables which will be held as usual for study and debate among special expert groups of the membership unusual interest is expressed in the conference to be conducted by Boris A. Bakhmetiev, former Russian Ambassador in Washington. Another new conference leader this year will be Dewitt Clinton Poole, chief of the division of the eastern European affairs in the Department of State, Washington, D. C. His subject will be "the conduct of foreign relations under modern democratic conditions."

NEAR EAST PROBLEMS

"Current Problems of the Near East" will be presented by Prof. William L. Westerman of Cornell University and for the first time in the history of the institute specific attention will be devoted to the League of Nations under the direction of Royal Meeker, United States Commissioner of Labor Statistics.

Conference leaders of former years who will conduct tables this year or Leo S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan-American Union, Prof. Jesse S. Reeves of the University of Michigan and Prof. George H. Blakeslee of Clark University.

Completing the premise of his original guaranty, Bernard M. Baruch of New York City will again defray the expense of the institute's third session.

NEW YORK IS OUT FOR CONVENTION

Starts Drive to Obtain 1924 Democratic Gathering

City's Business Men Ready to Give Huge Bonus

Drys Are Shocked at Idea of Wet State Session

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Factional cleavages in the Democratic party and their bearing on candidacies and issues in the 1924 Presidential campaign, are being shadowed by the drive undertaken in this vicinity to induce the national committee to hold the Democratic National Convention in New York City.

"Why not hold the convention in New York," inquired the New York World, staunch and powerful party organ, upon hearing that Chicago, St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco and other points west were going to bid for the big conclave. Thereupon The World got busy booming the idea and now reports 100,000 business men in New York, Connecticut and New Jersey rounded together to produce the influence, the bonus or whatever else is necessary to have the convention staged in the nation's metropolis.

Norman E. Mack, Democratic National Committeeman for New York, has been delegated to bring home the bacon from the meeting of the national committee in Washington next winter, but it appears he has made no great headway up to date in procuring pledges of committeemen to vote for New York.

One argument against holding the convention in New York was destroyed when the 1920 convention was sent to San Francisco. Theretofore, it had been contended, that a central gathering place in the interior of the country must be chosen as it would be unfair to require delegates from either coast to cross the continent at great expense of time and money.

VALUE OF CONVENTIONS

How much New York is prepared to pay for the concession not even The World has presumed to state. Usually the city winning the Democratic convention undertakes not only to pay the convention expenses, but to make a handsome contribution to the campaign fund. San Francisco won in 1920, when its sponsors tossed a $125,000 certified check on the conference table. San Francisco made money on the convention and did not rob folks, either.

In Chicago a Republican convention is relied upon to bring from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 to the hotels, theaters and stores. A Democratic convention is rated at a lower value commercially, as to how much lower opinions vary.

Raising the bonus, however, will be the least of New York's difficulties in obtaining the convention. The World scarcely had launched its campaign when William Randolph Hearst, speaking for the nonce as a Democrat, began to view the suggestion with alarm. It would be dangerous to hold the convention in the very lair of Wall street. There would be no telling what would happen to the Democratic lambs from the Wooly West. The Wall street wolves might gobble the convention nominations and platform. The Hearst alarm is echoed by the followers of William Jennings Bryan who was unwilling to proceed at Baltimore in 1912 unless the convention was purged of the presence of Thomas F. Ryan and other Wall street influences.

DRYS ARE SHOCKED

A new difficulty has developed with the repeal of the New York State prohibition enforcement law and the rise of Gov. Smith to the leadership of the wet democracy. The prohibition Democrats are shocked at the suggestion of a party meeting in this unregenerate and abandoned spot, which they doubt not will be flowing with liquor by the summer of 1924. For some reason they fear that the nomination of a dry candidate and the writing of a dry platform would not be prompted thereby. Impressed by the outcry from dry precincts, the Democratic Times observes judicially that Al Smith's signature to the State prohibition law repealer destroyed whatever chance New York may have had of getting the national convention.

The McAdoo supporters, with some exceptions among New York women, prefer that the convention be held in the West. Mr. Hearst prefers San Francisco, and when functioning as a Democrat, even figures on taking the California delegation away from McAdoo. As a third party man, however, Mr. Heart does not care where the "reactionary, boss-controlled" Democrats go and advises Mr. Ford to care less. The Underwood partisans are willing to have the convention anywhere in the East or West, provided it is not too Far West where the drys and the radicals abound.

NO PAY FOR GUARDS WHO ATTEND CAMP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—Members of the California National Guard attending the annual encampment and training school to be held next month at the government reservation near Salinas, Monterey county, will not receive wages of $1 a day from the State while in camp as heretofore. Company and unit commanders of the guard have been notified by Adjt.-Gen. J. J. Borree of this fact.

Lack of funds due to reduced appropriations in the budget bill passed at the recent session of the Legislature is known to have made this retrenchment necessary, although Borree is said to have offered no detailed explanation in his letter for the cut. Employees of the Adjutant-General's office refused to discuss the matter for publication.

Edison Company Awarded Gold Medal for Service to Public

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—The Southern California Edison Company employees' benefit fund is richer by $1000 and that company has the distinction of winning the first gold medal struck off for the Charles A. Coffin foundation as an annual award to the Electrict Light and Power Company of the country making "the most distinguished contribution to the development of electric light and power for the convenience of the public and the benefit of the industry during the year 1923."

The contest was open to all of the electric light and power companies of the country and a large number competed. The Charles A. Coffin foundation was created a year ago by the general Electric Company. The income of the fund being "made available for encouraging and rewarding service in the electrical field."

John B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company, accepted the award which was made in Carnegie Hall before the convention of the National Electric Light Association. President Smith of the association made the presentation.

WORLD COURT RIGHT STEP, SAYS HARDING

PRESIDENT WRITES BISHOP GAILOR IT WILL FURTHER PEACE AND STABILITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—President Harding today made public a letter he has written to Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, Bishop of Tennessee, and head of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal church, in which he declared that World Court adoption is the best thing that America can do for world benefit.

In his letter to Bishop Gailor President Harding said:

"It is a great satisfaction to have received your note of May 7. You know we are all human enough to have the feeling that the man who agrees with us is the broad-minded and really intelligent person. Not many days ago I made the observation to my newspaper callers that I did not believe any man could confront the responsibility of a President of the United States and yet adhere to the idea that it was possible for our country to maintain an attitude of isolation and aloofness in the world.

"It is my concern first that there should be an effective recognition of this fact, and that those who, because of their positions, are earliest compelled to realize this situation, may be assured the understanding and sympathetic support of the great intelligent population of our country. Beyond that I am keenly desirous that the right course shall be found, whereby our favored country may make its largest feasible contribution to the stabilization of civilization, while at the same time surrendering none of the advantages and independence which we enjoy.

"After much of thought, study and conference I reached the conclusion that our adherence to the program of the International Court represented a compliance with these conditions. It is a longer step than some would wish us to take in this direction. On the other hand, it is a less advance than some others would wish us to take, but to me it seems to meet the requirements of our peculiar situation, and permits us to say to the world that we are ready for our part in furthering peace and stability without entanglement or surrender of cherished policy to which we are long and strongly committed. I am much gratified to know that in taking this attitude I have seemed to you to deserve the commendation you have so cordially extended."

MURRELL PLANS TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

YOUTHFUL ADVENTURER HELD ON CHARGE OF THEFT AND MURDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Sidney Murrell, 22-year-old adventurer, who is being held here by Federal authorities to await removal to London, Ont., where he is wanted in connection with a bank robbery and murder, said today that he would fight extradition. He would base the fight "on technical grounds," he said.

Local officials are awaiting the arrival of officers or of information from the scene of the crime before preparing a petition for extradition.

Murrell told newspaper men that he was a close admirer of Roy Gardner, mail bandit, who figured in a number of sensational escapes. He met a number of Gardner's friends, he said, while in the vicinity of the State prison at Florence, Ariz.

Murrell was taken into custody in Ely, Nev., several days ago while riding in a stolen automobile, belonging in Susanville, Cal. He proved that he did not know of the theft of the car at the time he purchased it. The London charge was revealed while he was held for investigation in Susanville. As his extradition is an international matter he was brought here and placed in charge of the Federal authorities.

RENO HAS UNUSUAL JUNE FALL OF RAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RENO (Nev.) June 7.—Thirty-eight-hundredths of an inch of rain fell into Reno in fifteen minutes at noon today, and for a few minutes it was like a deluge. Then it cleared up. The fall in that short period was said at the weather bureau to be equal to the normal rainfall for the month of June.

SUSPICIONS OF BANDITS INCREASING

Refuse to Release Captives Without Guarantees; Trouble Brewing in Peking

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1923, by the Chicago Tribune.]

TSAO CHUANG, June 7.—About 700 bandits already have been enrolled in the army, while the total will reach 2000 to $2500. The bandits refuse to release the foreign captives until satisfactory guarantees are issued, because a few years ago bandits were taken into the army and decapitated on their arrival at the provincial capital.

There is a controversy also over the rank of officers; Sun Mei Yao, 23-year-old leader, insisting on a brigadiership, with Chuo Chi Tsai, who is the real brains of the bandits, as second in command. The latter was with Chang Ching Yao, and brought a battalion here joining the bandits after Chang's defeat.

Private telegrams reiterate that a serious international situation is developing in Peking, possibl yJapanese aggression over the Changsha incident. Messages from Peking are delayed twenty-four hours, due to political supervision there.

PUBLIC PURCHASING POWER CURB URGED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—A considerable outflow of gold from the United States in the future was predicted today by H. A. E. Chandler of the National Bank of Commerce in an address at the opening of the annual meeting of the National Monetary Association.

"If the public could appreciate the fact that our large surplus gold supply could not be utilized for credit extension without causing inflation and consequent deflation, an important lesson would be taught," he said.

The earliest practiced step toward stabilization of monetary credit and price conditions lies in an early return to the gold standard of those nations formerly using the gold basis, the association was informed in a report of its research committee, of which Carl Snyder of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York is chairman.

Firm opposition was shown in the report to any device leading to impairment of monetary standards and to further inflation of purchasing power in the hands of the people.

TECHNICALITY MAY HALT TRIAL OF FIVE

INTERESTED PARTY PRESENT AS GRAND JURY VOTES INDICTMENTS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—A motion that the indictments against five officials of the Bankers Mortgage and Discount Company of San Francisco charging a violation of the State Securities Act be quashed on the ground that John P. Beale, Deputy State Corporation Commissioner here, was in the grand jury room illegally when the indictments were voted, was made to the court today when the defendants appeared for arraignment. Arguments on the motion were set for tomorrow.

Counsel for the defendants said in the motion that none but duly qualified officers of the county who must also be residents thereof may be present when a grand jury votes an indictment. Beale is not such an officer, they contend, but, a resident of Alameda county.

Later a Deputy District Attorney announced that the defendants had been re-indicted on the same charge in order that there would be delay if the original indictments were thrown out.

GOVERNOR EXPLAINS POSITION ON PARDON

TELLS DISTRICT ATTORNEYS HE IS NO "SOB SISTER" AS TO CRIMINALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YOSEMITE, June 7.—Gov. Richardson, who is here attending the annual convention of the California Press Association, addressed the California district attorneys' convention here today and told the delegates that he was no "sob sister" when it came to pardoning criminals.

"The man who wants a pardon must show me what the judge, the prosecuting attorney and the individual jurors think of his case," the Governor said. "I wont pay any attention to petitions signed by all jurors on the same piece of paper because some men are so weak they will sign anything out of sympathy, even after they voted for conviction.

"My secretary has standing orders to get the individual expressions from each juror in such cases."

Atty.-Gen. Webb told the convention that a recent court decision compelled the district attorneys to continue work without an increase in help, despite the increasing work, and urged them to do their best despite the handicap.

BLAMES PHYSICIAN FOR DEATH OF WIFE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. GEORGE (N. Y.) June 7.—Physicians and surgeons throughout the country are keenly interested in the suit of Pasquale Durrante of St. George, for $100,000 damages against Dr. Donato V. Catalano, whose negligence Durrante charges was responsible for the death of his wife on May 20, 1922. Members of the medical profession crowded the court room when the action opened before Supreme Court Justice Carswell and a jury here today.

Five days before Mrs. Durrante died, according to the complaint, Dr. Catalano diagnosed her illness as gall stones and prescribed accordingly. That night, Durrante said he called the physician on the telephone and told him he thought his wife was suffering from appendicitis. Durrante says the doctor told him he could not call that night and advised him to apply ice to his wife's abdomen.

The next day Dr. Catalano agreed with Durrante's diagnosis and order her removed to St. Vincent's hospital. She was operated upon but complications had set in and she died.

REVOLT SPREAD IS POPE'S FEAR

Vatican Believes Murder Antichurch Move

Alfonso's Crown Endangered by Reform Wave

BY V. DE SANTO
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, June 7.—Pope Pius has been painfully impressed by the assassination of Cardinal Soldevilla y Romero at Saragossa, Spain, who was considered one of the strongest pillars in support of Catholicism in that country at this time when reaction is spreading rapidly. In Vatican circles it is feared that this is the beginning of a powerful campaign to reduce the authority of the church in the political and social life of Spain, and to bring about the separation of church and state.

When the Pope received the news he wrote telegrams of condolence addressed to the papal nuncio at Madrid, Mgr. Tedeschine and the Vicar-General at Saragossa. In his messages he expressed great indignation over the crime.

POPE OPPOSES MOVE

The Pope was informed that the crime was political. The present anti church movement started a few years ago for freedom of religion in Spain is now assuming a militant attitude. The Pope is decidedly against the reform of the Spanish constitution which will allow other religions to build their own temples in Spain, for he is convinced that the people feel no necessity for this. It is said that there are only fifteen or twenty-thousand Protestants in the whole kingdom of Spain. It is they who are making the most trouble about freedom of religion.

PROTEST EXPECTED

It is expected in Vatican circles that the Pope will make a strong protest to the Spanish government and that he will request the closest watch upon the anti-Catholics who are described by the Vatican as the leaders of an insignificant minority who, however, if they are not watched, may cause a great deal of trouble.

In political circles in Rome there is an even graver view of the situation. It is said that the spirit of revolt against too much Catholicism in political affairs is only a part of the reform wave, which is sweeping over the country. The crown of King Alfonso is said to be in danger.

MOTHER WINS ARTS DEGREE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—In spite of the fact that she has three children and had to do almost all of her studying in the subway and on trains, Mrs. Katherine Bouton Clay of Newark not only was graduated from Barnard College yesterday with an A. B. degree but she received honors in modern languages and had some of the highest grades of the whole class. This summer she is going to study Italian and after she has visited with her husband and children for a few years intends to get her master's degree.

Mrs. Clay said that although she had worked hard to keep her home going and get her education at the same time, the real heroine of the last two years, while she was at Barnard, has been her 11-year-old daughter Katherine. The little girl has been a mother to her 8-year-old brother John and her 6-year-old brother Richard.

MARATHON DANCING IN LIGHT AGAIN

Chicago Judge Asks Time to Consider Plea for Order to Allow Contest

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Whether milady's ankles or mi-city's combined executive and judicial forces shall determine if Marathon dancing is physical and legal suicide is the latest question that Judge Hugo M. Friend has been asked to decide.

Judge Friend, who in his college days was a Marathon runner, asked those most interested today to give him two days to think it over. He will give an opinion Saturday morning.

The question was put to him in the form of an injunction by Harry Kaufman, a dance promoter. He filed a bill in the Circuit Court, asking that the city of Chicago in general, and Mayor Dever and Chief of Police Collins in particular, be restrained from interferring with the seven-day terpsichorean Marathon that he has scheduled to open in the Coliseum Annex the 12th inst.

This afternoon resulted in a conference between Chief Collins, Corporation Counsel Busch and Assistant Corporation Counsel Grossman, when it was decided to force the dance Marathon problem to a Chicago showdown. "Marathon dancing is something new, and there is no specific statute covering it." Attorney Grossman informed Judge Friend when making his preliminary motion for continuance.

"The section of the Illinois statute referring to riots, however, applies to it as does the Mother Hubbard gown. It covers the subject without specifically touching it when it says that 'any person who does a lawful thing in a violent or unlawful manner perpetrates a riot.'

"There is no question," he continued, "that dancing to the point of exhaustion is doing a lawful thing in a violent manner. The court cannot allow an injunction to authorize murder and yet Marathon dancing is murder by slow degrees."

Promoter Kaufman announced he would fight the city's every move.

Japan Retiring Army Officers by Wholesale

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, June 7.—Up to the end of last month it is estimated that 850 officers belonging to the Japanese army, including seven generals, have been placed on the retired list. Another 300 officers are due for retirement in pursuance of the government's military retrenchment scheme and these will include four generals, seventeen lieutenant-generals, and thirty-three major-generals.

The retired officers have entered the economics department of the Tokio Imperial University for the purpose of qualifying themselves for civilian work. They declare that as military men they have been living in a totally different world and it is absolutely necessary for them to return to the school benches if they are to make any success in civilian life. Several of them are of mature age, and it is a question whether they, who have been used to issue orders that were immediately obeyed, would enjoy the discipline of the university class rooms.

All of them were given retirement allowances varying in amount according to their rank and the number of years they had served in the imperial forces.

JOHNSON WILL BOX McAULIFFE

Preliminaries for Firpo-Willard Fight Are Signed Up by Rickard

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Tex Rickard completed today the card for the heavyweight boxing show at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, on the night of July 12, when Luis Angel Firpo of the Argentine and Jess Willard, former champion, will meet in a twelve-round match to determine a challenger for the title held by Jack Dempsey.

Floyd Johnson of Des Moines and Jack McAuliffe II of Detroit—the men conquered by Willard and Firpo in the heavyweight carnival at the Yankee stadium for the benefit of the milk fund several weeks ago — have been matched in the twelve-round semifinal contest.

Two eight-round encounters have been arranged, the first between Jim Herman of Omaha and Cliff Kramer of the Pacific Coast, and the other between Young Bob Fitzsimmons of Newark, N. J., and Tom Roper of Chicago.

Seals Hold a Contract on Boy 'Phenom'

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7. The story of how Eddie Montague, a 16-year-old schoolboy phenom of San Francisco, was signed up "in reserve" by the San Francisco club in the Pacific Coast League to forestall his being appropriated by the major leagues when he ends his school days was made known today by the club management. Eddie is now "playing the bench" when he has a chance to visit the ball park, and will join the training squad next spring. Eddie was recommended by Willie Kamm, who was sold to the Chicago White Sox last year for $100,000, and plays at Kamm's old position at third. He holds down the difficult turn "in wonderful shape," according to the club management.

As a token of good luck Eddie wears the glove that was used by Kamm in his last season on the Coast.

HERMAN-KAPLAN WILL TRY IT AGAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Ct., and Babe Herman of Los Angeles, featherweights, who boxed an eight-round fight after the Criqui-Kilbane championship contest last Saturday, have been rematched for twelve rounds at Queensboro Stadium next Tuesday night.

Strong Arm of Law Helps Prexy McCarthy

SUSPECTS WILL TELL ABOUT IT

Must Appear and Testify in Federal Court

Killefer and Relatives Are on the List

Famous Purchase of Seattle Will be Aired

William McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast League and central figure in the baseball war now raging on the Coast, opened a counter-attack on Charles Lockard and Wade Killefer, owners of the Seattle club, and William Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Angels, and Joseph Patrick, president of the Angels, through the league attorney, Harry I. Stafford, yesterday, when he obtained an order from Federal Judge William P. James, instructing the above four to appear in the office of Court Reporter W. F. Bedall on the morning of June 14 concerning the sale of the Seattle ball club.

Besides Wrigley, Lockard, Patrick and Killefer, the order also states that John Doe Killefer, an uncle of Wade, who is said to have signed papers in the Seattle transaction; James Hoge, Seattle banker, representative of the Western Union, Postal Telegraph and Federal wire services are asked to make depositions.

Stafford's move was a counter to Lockard, who recently filed suit in a San Francisco Federal Court demanding that President McCarthy be forced to seat him as a Coast League director.

Judge James issued his order yesterday to force all those interested in the sale of the Seattle club to bring all books, telegrams and other matters pertaining to the purchase of the club before Bedall and make out depositions to be used in court when Lockard's case is brought up in San Francisco, June 25.

Yale Faculty May Call Off Freshman Race

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW HAVEN, June 7.—Yale faculty announced today that the Yale-Harvard freshman crew race, scheduled as one of the events of the annual regatta on the Thames on June 22, would not be permitted unless the identity of the instigators of the freshman riot last night were made known.

The Harvard rowing management, with which the Yale Athletic Association had signed an agreement for the race to be rowed, will be notified of the action calling off the race and the Harvard freshman crew, which has trained four months for the event and has already left Cambridge for its quarters in New London, can have its choice between disbanding and picking up a race with some other college rival.

Yale's agreement with the railroad company to run with the race, for which observation train tickets are now being sold, will be canceled. The faculty notified freshmen three weeks ago that if another outbreak took place in the university hall or commons their athletic privileges for the remainder of the year would be canceled.

Joie Ray Out to Establish Mile Record

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) June 7.—Final arrangements for the race against the world's record for the mile on Saturday at the Harvard Stadium when Joie Ray has promised to make his superlative effort, were completed today. Four mile specialists will attempt to set a pace which will enable the Illinois speedster to break the record of 4 m., 12 3-5s., established on the same track in 1915 by Norman S. Taber.

Ray will run scratch while Patrick Kennedy of Yonkers, N. Y., will start from the 35-yard mark. The other competitors and their handicaps follow: Patrick J. Mahoney, Boston Athletic Association, 90 yards; John N. Waters, Harvard freshman, 100 yards, and Walter L. Chapin, Harvard sophomore, 160 yards.

Walter Golvin Will Continue With Seraphs

Walter Golvin, alternate first baseman for the Los Angeles club, will continue as an Angel, according to a statement issued yesterday by Oscar Reichow, business manager of the local club.

Contrary to original reports this deal never was closed, and Los Angeles was not particularly anxious to make it, although feeling some obligations to the Chicago Cubs because the latter had sent this player here.

Although Golvin would not be needed provided Griggs does not meet with an injury, he is a valuable man to have in reserve. Except in such a contingency, his going or remaining probably would not affect the Angel pennant prospects. The deal has officially been declared off.

In the second round of the doubles, Mrs. Sheppard Barron and Mrs. Covell defeated Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Hale 6-3, 6-2.

Williams Out of Game With Pain in Back

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—Cy Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals, this season's home run king, who retired in the fourth inning of today's game with St. Louis after complaining of a pain in his back, told the Associated Press tonight he probably would be out of the game several days. He said he did not know what caused the ailment.

LANDIS IN LIMELIGHT ONCE MORE

Declares Former Vernon Player, "Chicken" Hawks, Free Agent

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) June 7. — Nelson (Chicken) Hawks, first baseman with the St. Paul American Association club, has been declared a free agent and ineligible to play with St. Paul, the New York Yankees and the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast League during the rest of the 1923 season, it was announced here today. This information was received here today from K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, by John W. Norton, president of the Saints.

Hawks, with Vernon last year, was playing there "under cover" on a gentleman's agreement between that team and the Yankees. He was the property of the Yankees. The Saints bought him from New York, but the papers had to go through Vernon, which involved technical difficulties which caused Commissioner Landis's ruling. French and Doyle, two other Vernon players sent to the Coast by the Yankees, also were said to be involved in the case.

English Pros Are Victorious on Golf Links

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

AYR (Scotland) June 7.—George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, the British professionals, today defeated Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, Americans, four up and three to play in a four-ball foursome on the Western Gailes course, which is adjacent to the scene of next week's open championships at Troon. The course is stiff and straight hitting is necessary. All the players were strangers to the course and frequently wandered off the fairways.

The struggle resolved itself into a pitching and putting contest. The Americans were one up in the forenoon after 13 holes had been halved. The scores of the first round were Hagen and Sarazen 70, Duncan and Mitchell 71. The scores for the fifteen holes in the afternoon were Duncan and Mitchell 54, Hagen and Sarazen 59. The prize was $750.

JIMMY MURPHY PLANS A TRIP

Will Show Europe Just What Real Speed Is

Arrives Home to Prepare to Make Journey

Says Spark Plugs Put Him on Bum in East

BY PAUL LOWRY

Jimmy Murphy and Harry Miller, who put Los Angeles on the map in the recent 500-mile motor festivities at Indianapolis, reached home yesterday ready to go to work on new cars which are to be built for the Grand Prix and other foreign races.

MANY PLUGS

Though the world's speed champion only finished third at Indianapolis, Harry Miller, who built in Los Angeles six of the first seven cars to cross the line in the big classic, says if it hadn't been for spark plug trouble, Jimmy would have been out in front fighting for the lead with Tommy Milton all the time.

James Anthony changed no less than eighteen spark plugs and he stopped once to see what was the matter with Cliff Durant when the latter's car developed ignition trouble on the back stretch.

SEVERAL ORDERS

Miller has a commission to build a car for Count Zubrowski, the Polish gentleman driver, and another for Martin de Alcsaga, the Spanish enthusiast, who started at Indianapolis but who failed to finish. Murphy's old 183-cubic-inch car is to be cut down and a 122 motor installed. The cars for Zubrowski and Alcsaga will be two-seaters, as Monsea rules call for mechanics. The body on Murphy's car which he drove to the world's record of 115 65-100 miles per hour at Beverly will not have to be changed.

There is a so-called "gentlemen's race" shortly after the Grand Prix, which calls for 183-cubic-inch motors, so Jimmy will take along the big motor so he can take part in the race. Zubrowski also will have two motors, and these will be changed between races.

NOT TOO GOOD

Miller had very little to say for the foreign cars which raced at Indianapolis. He said they all operated on the principle that the race is not to the swift and none of them had any speed, though the Bugattis were the easiest-riding cars on the track. The entry of the four-cylinder Mercedes cars was purely a business proposition, he stated, as the Germans brought along a flock of Mercedes to sell.

Murphy had a lot of praise for Howdy Wilcox, who drove a large portion of the race in Tommy Milton's car, and says that Wilcox, without detracting from Milton's glory, has not been given enough credit for what he did. Wilcox picked up two laps while he was at the wheel and practically assured Milton of first place.

Murphy's campaign is an extended one. Following the Grand Prix and the "gentlemen's race," he plans to drive at Brooklands, in England, and then to take a run down to Barcelona, Spain, where a new track is being built, with the first race scheduled for November 4. If his plans work out Jimmy will be back here about a day before the Thanksgiving race.

Quite a congregation of relatives and friends were on deck to meet Murphy and Miller when they stepped off the Santa Fe yesterday afternoon, among them being Judge and Mrs. O'Donnell, Jimmy's uncle and aunt, Mrs. Miller and a couple of inquisitive reporters.

Aha—They're Home Again

BENGALS EVEN UP SERIES

Midget Vernon Hurler Shows Last Season Form And Allows Indian Sluggers But Five Hits

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Vernon reversed the scenery on Seattle in the second game of the series, and got back into the winning column by a count of 5 to 0, after a protracted absence therefrom. Loss of seven games out of nine by his club, made Bill Essick both daring and ingenious. While in this mood he resorted to the Frank Merriwell stuff, benching Smith and Gorman, and sending an infield which was three-quarters kindergarten into the fray. The kids put up an airtight defense behind Jakie May's fine pitching.

Blake held his own until the fifth, when some of the older hands popped him cruelly.

It is reported that if the present combination doesn't continue to win, Essick will send for Jackie Coogan.

Several of the Vernon veterans were given a legal holiday. Dissatisfaction with the manner in which the older hands failed to bring home the bacon prompted Bill Essick to transfuse a number of rookies into his baseball machine. Hoary wisdom and sage experience gave way to reckless, heedless youth.

Where once was the stiff stubble of maturity there bloomed the downy pin-feather of the broiler.

WAS NECESSARY

Essick's teething infield consisted of Rod Murphy at first base, Matt Bott at second, Jack Warner at third and Ray Flaskamper at short. Rod didn't really belong in this class, but it was necessary to have a chaperon in the infield, and Rod would do for this purpose as well as anybody else. When things grew unsteady Mr. Murphy would simply cluck, and this reassured his young associates.

Although this paregoric arrangement performed neatly, and with infantile limberness, it remained for the athletes with sage experience, hardening arteries and some spavins to transact the real business. That's generally the way. Son writes a neat, refined hand, but it can't be cashed for as much at the bank as dad's homely scrawl.

SOME SLUGGING

Some slugging by Chadbourne, Murphy and High sent the first runs of the game across in the fifth. Three counted. Up to this time the Bengals had not been able to bounce Blake's delivery much. Bott started the fifth by

SHELBY IS LILY WHITE

At Least That's What the Citizens Are Willing to Admit

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) June 7.—Officials, officers of the Chamber of Commerce and citizens generally of the town of Shelby, where the Dempsey-Gibbons bout is scheduled for July 4, rallied today to defend Shelby's fair name against the attacks of Atty.-Gen. W. D. Rankin of Montana. "Shelby must be cleaned up or there will be no fight," was yesterday's edict of the Attorney-General.

"Shelby is clean," was the answer of the little Montana oil town today. Addison K. Luck, Federal prohibition director in Montana, who is here after a visit to the scene of the Independence Day bout, said it had improved wonderfully in the past few weeks.

Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, declined to comment on the Attorney-General's stand, other than to say that every boxing law of Montana, had been and would be met, and it was entirely up to Shelby's officials regarding the town's morals.

Tommy Gibbons, accompanied by his wife and three sons, was established in training quarters at Shelby today. He will start training tomorrow.

At Dempsey's camp a general lay-off was declared for today. This morning Dempsey took a long run, covering ten miles of road along the Missouri River. This afternoon he rested at camp, nursing the cut over his left eye inflicted yesterday when he was butted by a Pacific Coast boxer during a work-out.

Jack McAuliffe Pays Fine and Can Box Again

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, June 7.—Jack McAuliffe, Detroit heavyweight, is back in the good graces of the Michigan Boxing Commission. Jack went to Commissioner Campau's office today and paid the $200 fine which Campau imposed upon him and the commissioner at once lifted his suspension. McAuliffe, according to his manager, lost his head and threw Martin O'Grady of Los Angeles to the canvas because the latter was hanging on. McAuliffe was too anxious to knock O'Grady out.

Campau did right in fining McAuliffe, according to fight fans who witnessed the bout. He roughed and shoved O'Grady all around the ring at times. Campau also revoked the license of the Avenue A. C. for paying McAuliffe off on Monday night after the commissioner had told him that the money was to be held up.

European Davis Cup Teams Dangerous

OLD WORLD TO DISPLAY SKILL

French Tennisers to Take on Argentinos

Little Known About Team of South America

Expert Thinks Cochet Will Show Improvement

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN,
World's Champion Tennis Player, 1920-21

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The old world against the new! It is very much so in a tennis sense, for France, the land where tennis was born, will play a new nation in the game when she stacks up against Argentina in the semi-final round of the Davis Cup European zone.

Little is known of the Argentine team. I have heard that the two native stars, Carlos Caminos and A. J. Villegas, are exceptional players. Undoubtedly Ronald Boyd and W. Robson are dangerous. France, on the other hand, did not show to the advantage I expected in her match with Denmark. Cochet was driven four sets by Tequer, while La Costa was beaten. It was only the pressing into service of Samazielh that saved France from serious difficulties. I was surprised that Borotra was not used instead of Samazielh against Denmark when La Costa failed. I believe that Argentina will be quite strong enough to force France to bolster up her present team.

It is hard to say much about the actual competition by matches in the French-Argentine tie because so little is known of the Argentine players. But I have several hunches of which I will write: First, I believe that Cochet will be greatly improved over his Denmark match. From all accounts he was far from his best. He should win both of his singles handily. La Costa was reported to have injured a tendon against Denmark, but he should be quite himself by the time France meets Argentina. If not, then Dorotra or Samazielh will take his place. In either case I think that France should win one of the two singles. I lean strongly to France for the doubles, and believe that Argentina should meet defeat four matches to one.

The other semifinal round tie is rather lopsided, for whichever team wins between Spain and England will advance easily over the winner of Italy and Holland. The absence of Col. Kingscote's name in the list of English candidates and the indication of Lycett, Woosman, Wheatley and Lowe as the final selection for England makes me favor Spain as the winner of their meeting and ultimate finalist.

Neither Italy nor Holland could successfully cope with De Gomar and Flaquer of Spain, nor yet with Lycett or any other member of his team. It seems a pity that the draw should have been so lopsided. Certainly India, England or Ireland would have made a better semi-finalist than either Italy or Holland. I am a great believer in the seeded draw, even in team matches. I think that the success of this method has been conclusively proved in America, and I am sure that it will become world-wide in use within a few years.

STERLING PLAYER

The meetings in the European zone in the early rounds uncovered unknown and unguessed strength in Denmark. Teguer, carrying both Cochet and Samazielh to five sets, proves himself a player of sterling ability.

I look to see several new and interesting figures rise to prominence in the Davis Cup matches this year. The man I expect to see set the tennis world by its ears is Fukuda of Japan. Watch him closely before the season is out. I think Argentina will give us a real player. I am afraid that La Costa of France has not yet arrived, but time will be his salvation. Cochet and Manuel Alonso and Zenzo Shimidzu will continue to mount the rung of the tennis ladder.

My next article will be the final round of the European zone.

HAGEN AND SARAZEN LOSE TO ENGLISH

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AYR (Scotland) June 7.—Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, American invaders, were defeated today by Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, leading British golfers, by a score of 4 and 3. The match was a special four-ball affair being a result of a challenge issued by the British team.

QUARTET OF SPEEDSTERS IN HURDLES

State to be Represented Well in Timber Races at Chicago Meet

California will be represented by the greatest quartet of hurdlers ever assembled at the Chicago National Intercollegiate Athletic Association meet next week at Stagg Field. With Otto Anderson of U. S. C., Charley Daggs of Pomona and Lane Falk and Swede Leistner of Stanford, Eastern timber toppers will have a hard time breaking into the points in the hurdle events.

These four, without a doubt form the speediest quartet of hurdlers on the Pacific Coast and should be able to clean up at Chicago. All four are able to step off the 220-yard low stick event well under twenty-five seconds, with Otto Anderson rated as the fastest of the flock. The high barriers find the slowest man of the lot able to do 15.3s. and with Charley Daggs having the fastest time, 15s. flat, to his credit.

For once the dinky Bovard Field track will prove a blessing in disguise. As there is no 220-yard straight away on Bovard Field, Otto Anderson has to run the low hurdles around a sharp curve. Having become quite proficient at topping the barriers and going around a curve at the same time, Otto will have an advantage in the low hurdles at Stagg Field, as there is no 220 straight away and this event will have to be run around a curve. As Charles Brookins, Iowa's world record holding low hurdler, is much slower on a curve, Anderson's Bovard Field experience may give him enough of an advantage to trim the holder of the world's record.

HOPPE AND McCANN IN MAIN BOUT

Young Carpentier to Meet O'Brien at Hollywood Legion Arena Tonight

Young Dick Hoppe, who recently plastered Tuffy Wing and Teddy O'Hara in four-round fistic duels, will pull on the leather tonight for an engagement with one Frankie McCann in the main event at the American Legion Hollywood arena. Hoppe has startled the Coast fans of late by his remarkable exhibitions of fisticuffs, but McCann has proved beyond a reasonable doubt that he's no slouch with his mittens. That the fans are all smoked up over tonight's event between the 130-pounders is indicated by the advance seat sale reported by Roy Marshall, manager of the veterans' stadium.

Matchmaker Frank Crowley is ever willing to oblige the followers of boxing hereabouts by showing some new faces. Tonight he has secured Young Carpentier, a 128-pound Stockton lad, who has make a great hit with the northern fans. Carpentier has beaten Joe Coffey, Pete Francis, Toney Gregory and Tommy O'Leary. He held Tod Morgan to a draw and won from Frankie Novey via the kayoe route. Despite his splendid record it is expected that he will have all he can handle in his bout tonight with Willie O'Brien. O'Brien whipped Sailor Walters in his last appearance at Hollywood.

Packy McMullen and Joe Medino will get together in the special event tonight to settle the 126-pound supremacy question of Southern California. McMullen whipped Sailor Denicio last week and "stole the show" in doing so. Medino also holds a victory over the gob.

Young Farrell meets Ashton Donza at 116 pounds; Frankie Demari faces Bud Manning at 116 pounds; Sailor Jones hooks up with Frankie Kress at 140 pounds, and Sailor Lyle boxes Young Lopez at 122 pounds. George Blake will referee.

From 40 to 60 per cent of the price the consumer pays for better grades of coal represents transportation charges.

Cardinals Defeat Phillies in Close Contest

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Hack Miller, the strong man, was the hero of a hard fought nip and tuck game today in which Chicago emerged victor over New York, 9 to 7, and won the series from the world's champions, two games to one.

Miller's home-run smash into the bleachers in right center, a terrific drive, tied the count in the seventh after the lead had alternated and his crashing double in the eighth sent two runners home with the deciding runs.

Charley Hollocher led the attack for Chicago with five hits in as many times up. "Irish" Meusel was the batting star for the visitors with a brace of home runs. It was the first time that any player had ever made two successive circuit drives off Alexander in his long career in the league. Score:

Claim Flaw in Illinois Boxing Law

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Contending that the Illinois antiprizefight law penalizes promoters and witnesses of boxing matches, but not the fighters, James Mullen, promoter of the recent Benny Leonard-Pinkie Mitchell contest, which Leonard won on a technical knockout, which was followed by a riotous demonstration by adherents of the fighters, declared today he was willing to pay a fine and go to a cell to prove that the law was unconstitutional.

Municipal Judge Barasa said he agreed with Mullen and continued the case until June 12, when he indicated he would find Mullen and John Callaghan, a spectator at the fight who also was arrested as a part of the test case, guilty after which the defendants could take appeal to the State Supreme Court for a ruling on the constitutionality of the law.

beating out a grounder to Crane, and May sacrificed. Flasksamper flied to Lane, and it seemed there would be nothing of pitch or moment. But those who thought thus reckoned not of Murphy, who was just getting warmed up. Rod ripped a triple to right, and two runs were across. Then Hughie High, who would have full-length whiskers if razors hadn't been invented, spanked a double, sending Murphy home. Bodie grounded to box.

Well-aged, nicely-mellowed athletes pounded Blake for one more in the seventh. These blows consisted of singles by Chadbourne and High forming a parenthesis around a double by Murphy.

Warner started a run with a walk in the eighth, which is just opposite to a flying start. Hannah singled him to the three-quarter post, and he scored on Bott's safe bunt to Welsh. This run was two-thirds rookie, and showed that the sap was beginning to flow around the bases.

The Boy Scouts all fielded nicely, with Warner's stop on Crane in the eighth, the cleverest thing since Jack Horner stuck in his thumb and pulled out a Satsuma plum. The score:

Solons Defeat Cherubs With Ten-Run Rally

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—Col. Pick and his hired help convinced local fans that they could trim the Angels at Moreing Park today, but they had an awful time doing it. After Carroll Canfield, youthful Solon southpaw, had been spotted to a ten-run lead by his mates in the second inning, he blew up gradually, reaching his greatest heights in the seventh innings when Moses Yellowhorse relieved him.

Bobby Wallace started for the Krugmen and stayed in the box all through the ten-run massacre in the second frame but was taken out for Robertson in the fourth. Robertson pitched three innings of shutout ball and went out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, Roy Hanna taking up the pitching burden and holding the locals runless.

Seven hits, a scattering of passes and some errors brought about the Solons' huge rally. The Angels began scoring in the third when Twombly counted on Griggs's homer. One each in the fifth and sixth and four more in the seventh completed the Southerner's scoring. Score:

PREPS IN TRIO OF CONTESTS

Lincoln and Jeff Clash in Feature Scrap Today at Franklin High

City League baseball teams will clash this afternoon in their last game of the season, with the Jefferson-Lincoln tussle, slated to be played at Franklin High, holding the largest share of interest. The winner of the Jeff-Lincoln mix-up will have a chance for the city championship so the game today should be a battle all the way.

However, the winner of the City League baseball crown for this year will not be determined until after the Poly-L. A. High contest, which has been postponed till Tuesday afternoon, when the old-time rivals will hook up on Bonsh Field.

Today's fracas between Coach Malette's Hallsplitters and Coach Lopez's Democrats is expected to result in a pitching duel, with Milt Nolan doing the mound honors for Lincoln and either Crossman, Greenfield or Campesi hurling for Jefferson. Providing Poly trims L. A. Tuesday, the winner of the game today will win the title, but should L. A. High beat Poly and Jeff down Lincoln, Jeff and L. A. tie for the championship. The Pioneers will capture the pennant providing they smear Poly and Lincoln trims Jeff, as L. A. High defeated Lincoln earlier in the season.

In the other games today Hollywood and Manual Arts clash on the Toller diamond in a game which Sid Foster's lads are expected to emerge victorious, and Pasadena hooks up with Long Beach on the Jackrabbits' field. Pasadena's win over Jefferson recently makes the Bulldogs slight favorites.

Your Own Goodyear Tire

You could search the world over, and find no other tire so carefully made, of such fine materials, and of such excellent design, as the new Goodyear Cord Tire.

In the same way, you would never find better facilities for the making of a quality tire than those of the Goodyear factories in Los Angeles.

These factories employ skilled workmen, tire builders drawn to Los Angeles from the rubber center of America, the home of Goodyear since its inception, to found a new rubber center for the West.

When you who live in Los Angeles go to buy a new tire, we would like to have you think for a moment of these factories and these workmen. They mean prosperity for this community. They mean new wealth, new population, new homes and new investments.

Think of that when you buy a new Goodyear Tire. You are not only buying the best tire that can be built anywhere, but the money involved in your purchase is new life blood in this growing city of which you are so justly proud.

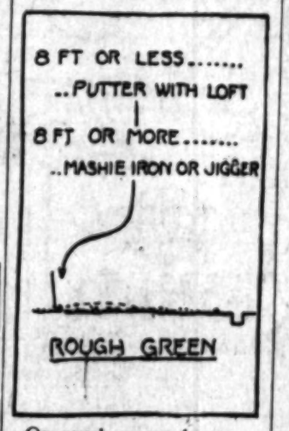
LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports



On rough or weedy greens, is it advisable to use a club other than a putter?

Answered by LAURIE AYTON

Always a consistent place winner in the big tournaments—national open, metropolitan open, western open, and sectional tournaments. Famed for his accuracy and steadiness under fire.

By all means use a club other than a putter when a green is rough or weedy. When the distance is less than eight feet to the cup I would recommend an iron putter with a bit of a loft on the blade. If the distance is more than eight feet, use a mashie iron or a jigger. Either of these clubs will give the ball a pitch and help it to run truer to the hole because of the slight loft given at the start of its travel.

Pro Tourney to be Staged Sunday Week

Lou Berrien, president of the Southern California Professional Golfers Association, announced last night that a sweepstakes for professionals will be held Sunday at the Brentwood Country Club.

Berrien also announced that on a week from Sunday the seventy-two holes of medal play to determine which professional would represent the S.C.P.G.A. at Long Island in the national open will begin.

Thirty-six holes will be played Sunday over the Brentwood course, while on the following Monday the final thirty-six holes would be played over either the San Gabriel or Pasadena courses. It was previously planned to play the second thirty-six at Hollywood but this was recently changed. The golfer with the low medal score for the seventy-two holes will be sent to Long Island with all expenses paid by the Southern California Professional Golfers Association.

Texas "Pros" Set Marathon Golf Record

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) June 7.—Dan Kenney, former professional at the Tyler Country Club, and William Lundberg, professional at the Glenbrooke Country Club, set a new world's record for marathon golf here today when they completed 216 holes. The match started at 4:30 a.m., today, headlights from automobiles being used to light the first fairway and tee.

At 8 p.m. the last hole was completed, it was necessary to use flashlights to locate the cup to which the golfers were putting.

Kenney played the 216 holes in 957 strokes while Lundberg had a total of 1002 strokes. At the close of play both golfers stated that they could continue for at least two more rounds. Aside from blistered feet no ill effects were felt.

MISS MARY FRANK MAKES NEW MARK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OXFORD (O.) June 7.—The women's intercollegiate 440-yard run record of North America was broken here yesterday by Miss Mary Frank, of St. Mary's, O., a freshman at Miami University. She ran the distance in 1:15 3-5.

The previous record of 1:16 was held by Miss Ethel Clarkson of Northwestern University.

SPORT SHRAPNEL
By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Cy Williams of the Phillies, who is giving an enlightening demonstration of how to make home runs, like Cincinnatus, Jess Willard and many others of prominence, is a farm or dairy product, albeit not of the cheese variety.

Making this circumstance doubly interesting is the fact that Williams and our own Doc Crandall grew up on adjoining ranches. For this interesting sidelight of Cy I am indebted to Oscar Riechow, business manager of the Los Angeles club, and for nearly two decades a baseball writer in the big leagues.

Crandall and Williams learned the game of baseball, at least in a rude sort of way, in Wadena, Ind., and their early education in the great national pastime actually was acquired on the farm.

The old man generally is opposed to sports, pastimes and amusements in any form. Furthermore, after the boys have finished paling the bovines and bedding down the kine they are about ready to hit the straw themselves.

But Doc's dad was something of a sport in a respectable sort of way. So he rigged up a right passable baseball diamond on his Indiana acres. It was there that Doc started playing the game. And a bit later the Crandall boys were joined by Cy Williams who lived on an adjoining farm. It was no ordeal for Cy to discard his hoe for a ball bat, and one blithe hop carried him from the potato patch to the outfield on the Crandall farm.

It was there that Cy first learned to hit home runs. He didn't learn this, however, batting against Crandall. Doc was a good hitter himself, and association helped Cy.

Cy is a tall, rangy chap, rather loose-jointed, and a trifle knock-kneed as I recall him. He always has been a good hitter, although this, after something like twelve seasons in the majors, seems to be his big home-run year. Also he is a good fielder, but not particularly shrewd on the bases.

Harry Stewart, 1807 West Seventh street, writing to this column, deprecates the tendency of fans and writers to throw up their hands this early in the race and concede the pennant to San Francisco, particularly on the basis of one series played here in which a break one way or another decided three of the games. He says:

"Suppose, for example, that Pete Kilduff happened to be put out of the game from a broken finger for a month, as happened to Krug, suppose that Eddie Mulligan became very ill with appendicitis as did Elmer Myers of the Bees, suppose Geary had an accident which affected his effectiveness as happened to Ponder of the Angels. Any one of these things are liable to happen in baseball. In a week or two the Seals would be in fourth place, and some other team, just starting to come, might be leading. So, I contend, it is all foolishness to give up the ghost this early in the season, and such talk makes me weary.

"San Francisco furthermore is assuming a very high-handed attitude in relation to the other teams. The Seals by their sale of Kamm and O'Connell receive all the high-class pitchers and other players they need, and when all set, turn around and vote for a rule preventing the other clubs from strengthening. This ought to make every other team and their supporters fight all the harder. With all their strength the Seals haven't won the pennant yet.

"Let us all get together and work a little harder, play the game and pull for our own team."

That's good spirit in a situation which calls for spirit. The writer is not much of a fan. After you have seen your five thousandth ball game you cease to be a fan. However, one hardly reaches the point where he wants to see any team, whether the home team or one in another city, enjoy unusual advantages. One, however small his interest, just naturally clings to the old-fashioned idea that pennants should be won, not at annual meetings, but on the ball field.

Whatever the purposes of the present strictures against strengthening with players from the majors, it certainly is not benefiting baseball. Stagnation is bad, and strangulation of weaker teams unsportsmanlike. The man who pays his money at the gate cares little for baseball politics, or quarrels which are largely personal in nature. His chief interest is in seeing the strongest clubs possible placed in the field, and he knows that this cannot be done with cheap, inexperienced help combed out of the Cantaloupe circuits.

HAGEN AND DUNCAN FAVORITES IN OPEN

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, June 7.—The British open golf championship which opens at Troon on Monday, has attracted more attention than any other golf tournament and for a week golf devotees have been backing their favorites with the book-makers.

Walter Hagen and George Duncan are the favorites at 8 to 1. Gene Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood and Jim Barnes are 10-to-1 shots. Abe Mitchell is quoted 12 to 1, while Ted Ray, Roger Wethered and Leo Diegel are rated at 16 to 1.

Is he a "Tire Dealer"— or Does he sell Silvertowns?

Motorists themselves draw that distinction. In every community some men are "in the tire business," while others are recognized as the Goodrich Silvertown Cord Tire dealers. The name of Silvertown symbolizes a merchant who is alive, far-sighted, prepared to serve his customers in the best way.

To these merchants Silvertowns signify the greatest value possible in tires. They have selected them as their leader because they know the advantage of the Goodrich principle of one quality, one grade and one name.

Your Goodrich dealer has back of him the entire Goodrich organization. With full stocks in all sizes of Silvertowns he is ready to take care of your tire needs immediately.

Superior Court Resentences Manuel Martinez

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, June 7.—The American plan of industrial employment, with inclusion of the open shop, was indorsed by a vote of the membership of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce, announced today. Of 169 ballots returned, only thirteen were in the negative.

The directors decided today the time not opportune for placing before the voters of Arizona a plan for a large bond issue for establishment of a paved road across the State and of one from the Grand Canyon to the Mexican border.

The high school board of education today announced that it has asked for a Federal survey of the efficiency and management of the institution, this in answer to charges of mismanagement and low scholastic standing. Statement also was made that Vice-Principal C. D. Jones would not be a member of next year's faculty.

At Nogales today, the Superior Court resentenced Manuel Martinez to death, as penalty for the Pearson murders at Ruby. August 10 was set as the date of execution at the State penitentiary. This action was in pursuance of an order of the State Supreme Court, which last week quashed a writ of habeas corpus that had saved Martinez from execution May 25.

The Mexican Consul at Phoenix states that he will carry an appeal through to the Supreme Court of the United States, on the ground that the legal rights of the accused had not been given him in an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

SIX KILLED, MANY HURT BY STORMS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Lightning killed four persons and possibly a fifth, a number were injured and two deaths were attributed indirectly to the heat wave which preceded violent thunder, rain and electric storms in widely separated parts of the country Wednesday.

Near Newton Falls, O., Nicholas Cavolich was killed when lightning set fire to his barn. His wife, who was in the building with him at the time, has not been found. William Maxwell, a lineman, was struck by a bolt and died instantly at Coshocton, O. Two of his fellow-workmen were injured.

Two farmers were killed by lightning, one near Muskogee, Okla., and the other at Burlington, Kan.

Heat prostrations in New York and other parts of the country were numerous. At Cleveland a woman fainted and fell out of a second-story window to her death.

When a heavy rainstorm began at Rockford, Ill., a 12-year-old girl started to take an umbrella to her mother and was killed by an automobile. Several children there were injured when lightning struck the house in which they had gathered.

Gentlemen:

I thought it might interest you to know that six months ago I bought lot #6, Tract 5449, Goodyear Park, on Central Ave. from you for $2,600.

A few days ago I refused an offer for $4,700 for this lot. I have also refused several times offers to lease same.

I am more than pleased with our past business relations.

Here's the Reason

Greater Goodyear Park is just across Florence Ave. from where $17,000,000 worth of industries will build on sites already bought—is just across South Park Ave. from site where $1,250,000 John C. Fremont school will start in July.

Over 500 homes either complete or under way since October 1. That means population. Population means increased land values.

REDWOODS

LIVING WONDERS OF THE WORLD

PLAN FOR AN OUTING this year among the giant Redwoods of Northwestern California. Here the Sequoia sempervirens attain their perfection. Sole survivors of a preglacial epoch, the Sequoia are among the world's foremost wonders. Thousands of these massive Redwoods tower more than 300 feet into the blue California sky; and their majestic grandeur is set off in spring and summer by the luxuriance of the ferns and colorful wild-flowers of the forest floor.

In a climate that is ideal, you can enjoy hiking, canoeing, swimming, hunting, and fishing for steelhead and trout. This vacation region has many hotels, resorts, mineral springs and charming camping grounds. A new tourist hotel at Eureka is a center for excursions into the Redwoods.

Special low round-trip fares are now in effect for week-ends and longer periods.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES

No Place Like Home

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We do not know whether the landlord put the soft pedal on the rest of the court the day he took us up to look at the house but that day it was very quiet. But we had no sooner moved in than they commenced to make up for lost time. The court is situated on the side of one of the foothills of Hollywood and there can be no more beautiful place this side of Heaven. I am sure there can be no worse noises this side of hell.

Eight houses or bungalows in the court and each one of them housed a dog. No dog was on speaking terms with the rest of the dogs in the court. Their tails did not even have a wagging acquaintance. Such dog fights. Just as you wanted to lie down in the afternoon and take a little nap then the fighting would commence. Pretty soon all of the owners of dogs would take up the quarrel. Then the neighbors' children would enter into the fray, until the center of the court would be an imitation movie mob of children, mothers and dogs. It was funny to see Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Smith fighting over their children and dogs in the afternoon and when the husbands came home at night they would all be visiting on their front porches. "You don't know how sorry I was that our dog disturbed yours this afternoon," Mrs. Smith would purr into Mrs. Jones's ear. "The old cat" they both would murmur, internally.

Then later in the evening the neverhomes would begin to arrive for breakfast. About 2 a.m. the cars of the late ones would be parked and all tooting for parking space. One night one of the richest men in the court, who patronized his bootlegger more than he did his barber, came home at three in the morning and left his engine going. Thinking that he had only gone in to say hello to his family and would be off again, I stayed awake and listened to what the spirit was saying unto the stay-awakes. Four a.m. and the engine was still going. Not being able to stand the noise any longer, I called up the police station and they turned off the gas and tagged the car. Life in an apartment-house is wide and scattered and quiet, compared with life in a court.

H. RODMAN.

A Loud Amen

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The letter in Tuesday's Times regarding the hellish "exhaust whistle" will be heartily indorsed by the general suffering public. Edward Lewis could have given most harassing details—the brain worker, the hotel guest in the business section are nearly crazy.

If it is necessary for one machine to make these fiendish shrieks, it is for all.

The City Council should give the business section protection.

M. TAMSON.

Just As Easy

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am a visitor in your beautiful city and I think I should love it if my interests were not back in St. Louis.

One thing I find very bad in Los Angeles is your poor traffic regulations. This could be adjusted very easily by enforcing the boulevard stop, the drivers would soon become acquainted with these stops and hundreds of accidents could be avoided.

Stop some of the left-hand turns and make some one-way streets. We have all of these rules at home and they work wonders with the traffic.

I hope to see these rules in effect before I return to St. Louis.

All in the Head

SAN LUIS OBISPO, June 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am much interested in this controversy in evolution.

So many detest the idea of an issue of man from the ape, but, my friends, I feel certain the species we sprang from goes lower.

Let us create, as it were—man, the brute — for until his brain has developed he must be of a beast-like order.

We've created a beast—but we have not created mentality. We've got a blank—must have a perfectly blank brain—as all knowledge save instincts is instilled through sense consciousness. Not an iota of reasoning until contact with the world creates it.

What then? Here is man — a species all to himself but absolutely lower in mental power than the lowest of the beasts or even insects. Absolutely helpless—unable to walk, search for food, control his actions until the mind (and no mind issuing until the senses have brought reasoning) is developed. All creatures reason.

We have a helpless creature, lower than the beasts—unable to think, reason; and unless knowledge is handed up to him from planes below in a way he can understand and adopt for his own use, we have a being lower than the lowest form of beast life.

I contend, therefore, man did spring from lower species as far as mentality is concerned. Physically, as soon as he was created as a man he became a species all together new — though retaining ever so many attributes of his inferior progenitors.

ROBERT C. KNOX.

Ambitious Proposal

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Allow an observant globe-trotter and experienced engineer to offer a few suggestions which might mean a great deal to Los Angeles and surrounding country.

The seashore between the Palisades and Playa del Rey is the playground of millions, but oh! how restricted are the features of this playground and how easy would it be to make this playground one of the finest in the world! This immense playground does not allow any boating or other water sports, and fishing is so restricted that it is practically nonexistent. I hear that Santa Monica has been thinking of building a breakwater and Playa del Rey of dredging a harbor. That is the real stuff. But I fear that, if acting independently of each other, the results will be extremely unsatisfactory. I would suggest that a harbor be dredged at Playa del Rey and a three-mile breakwater built, curving toward Venice. Said breakwater to be built similar to the best part of the San Pedro breakwater. A three-mile breakwater to be built at the Palisades, curving toward Ocean Park. Lighthouses at the end of each breakwater; a dozen piers to be built between Playa del Rey and the Palisades. We would then have a magnificent bay, quite enough for craft that is now located at San Pedro, Balboa, etc., yet with enough surf to make bathing enjoyable. Part of the tremendous expense would be borne by the fishermen who fish from the piers. They would gladly pay a yearly tax of $1. Yachtsmen and owners of lumber schooners, fishing boats and excursion boats, concession holders, etc., would furnish a splendid yearly tax, and the rise in value of all the property situated between Playa del Rey, Santa Monica and Culver City would be so great that the increase in taxes would be surprisingly great. And what a beautiful opportunity would be this to provide work for the thousands who are without employment! Sooner or later progressive citizens will have to consider the utter lack of interesting features of our playground at the sea, and it is my humble opinion that the plan I have outlined would solve this problem in the most satisfactory manner.

Thanking you for publishing this letter in your splendid paper,

Respectfully yours,

EMILE BOUR.

IMMIGRATION PARLEY IN HAWAII PROPOSED

REPRESENTATIVE JOHNSON IS IN FAVOR OF SETTLING PROBLEMS THERE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, June 7.—Civilization's problems of immigration and labor, for this century, at least, must come to a head in Hawaii, and a conference in Hawaii will come nearer to producing a peaceful settlement than anything else, according to a statement made today in a luncheon speech by Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, who is visiting the islands.

Representative Johnson added: "If there is to be an immigration conference, as Japan is said to have proposed, why should not the preliminary conference be in Hawaii? Here lies the bulk of the evidence. Japan is said to be willing to meet us halfway and Hawaii is halfway."

The Congressional delegation embarked on its return to San Francisco on the transport Grant this afternoon.

ASKS GOVERNMENT'S HANDS OFF BUSINESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) June 7.—A plea that the government keep hands off business was uttered before the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today by A. C. Bedford, chairman of the Standard Oil Company board of directors. The world is admittedly suffering because of mistakes committed in making the Treaty of Versailles, which places too much dependence upon political considerations and too little upon insuring that men be permitted to earn their daily bread, he asserted.

SMOTHERS IN BIN OF OATS AT ELEVATOR

June 7.—William Reynolds, 16 years of age, son of John Reynolds, manager of the Armour Grain Company elevator at Seward, near here, was smothered to death yesterday when he was overcome by the heat while working in a bin of oats and fell into several thousand bushels of the grain. It was necessary to chop and remove all the oats to recover his body.

MAY DROP BIDS FOR COAST-ORIENT ROUTE

FAILURE TO MEET SHIPPING BOARD REQUIREMENTS IS REASON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Indication was given at the Shipping Board today that the bids received for the West Coast-Orient route might all be dropped because of the failure of the negotiators to meet minimum requirements set up by Chairman Lasker.

Conferences were still open, however, between representatives of the Dollar and Pacific Mail lines and officials of the board, and hope was expressed that supplementary bids might be made which would effect an agreement.

Chairman Lasker has set a basic price as necessary before he will even present a bid for the Pacific routes to the board for consideration. This figure, it was said today, has not been approached by any bidder.

In case the West Coast routes are not disposed of to the bidders now in the field, they will be included in those for which separate operating corporations will be formed under the supervision of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

It has been said officially that President Harding would be disposed to extend the coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines as a means of assisting these and other lines from the Pacific Coast if they are retained by the government, since the administration than would be in a position to prevent any of the conditions which thus far have influenced his refusal to authorize the extension.

ASTORIA FIRE SUSPECT NOT FOUND IN SEATTLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, June 7. — Sheriff Harley J. Slusher and Deputy Fire Marshall Pomeroy of Astoria, Or., who hurried to Seattle today to arrest a man suspected of connection with the fire which partially destroyed that city last year, left for Astoria this afternoon empty handed. The Oregon officers and local authorities declined to comment on the matter except to say that they had interviewed a prisoner held at the King county stockade, whose name was not given.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

In answer to a letter from Pat Glendon, a retired fighter, Sam Stubener, promoter of title contests, journeys into the Northwest timberland to pass judgment on what Pat tells him is a future heavyweight champion. The "future champion" is Pat's own son, a 220-pound glove artist with a background of 21 years lived in the open. In a 56½-round try-out Pat lives up to advance notices and a contract is signed. In the city young Pat has little trouble in disposing of a quartet of third-rate milliers and has his first real test when he meets and easily defeats the Flying Dutchman. Schemer prevails upon Pat to lengthen his fights, telling him that if he does not it will be difficult for Sam to obtain matches. This Pat agrees to do ignorant of the fact that his manager secretly maintains a private betting syndicate through his knowledge of the number of the round which will terminate each fight.

It was after this battle that Pat Glendon started on his upward rush to fame. The sports and the sporting writers took him up. For the first time the Flying Dutchman had been knocked out. His conqueror had proved a wizard of defense. His previous victories had not been flukes. He had a kick in both his hands. Giant that he was, he would go far. The time was already past, the writers asserted for him to waste himself on the third-raters and chopping blocks. Where were Ben Menales, Rege Rede, Bill Tarwater and Ernest Lawson? It was time for them to meet this young cub that had suddenly shown himself a fighter of quality. Where was his manager anyway, that he was not issuing the challenges?"

And then fame came in a day; for Stubener divulged the secret that his man was none other than the son of Pat Glendon, Old Pat, the old-time ring hero. "Young" Pat Glendon, he was promptly christened, and sports and writers flocked about him to admire him, and back him, and write him up.

Beginning with Ben Menzies and finishing with Bill Tarwater, he challenged, fought, and knocked out the four second-raters. To do this, he was compelled to travel, the battles taking place in Goldfield, Denver, Texas and New York. To accomplish it required months, for the bigger fights were not easily arranged, and the men themselves demanded more time for training.

The second year saw him running to cover and disposing of the half-dozen big fighters that clustered just beneath the top of the heavyweight ladder. On this top, firmly planted stood "Big" Jim Hanford, the undefeated world champion. Here, on the top rungs, progress was slower, though Stubener was indefatigable in issuing challenges and in promoting sporting opinion to force the man to fight. Will King was disposed of in England, and Glendon pursued Tom Harrison halfway around the world to defeat him on Boxing Day in Australia.

But the purses grew larger and larger. In place of $100, such as his first battles had earned him, he was now receiving from $20,000 to $30,000 a fight, as well as equally large sums from the moving-picture men. Stubener took his manager's percentage of all this, according to the terms of the contract old Pat had drawn up, and both he and Glendon, despite their heavy expenses, were waxing rich. This was due, more than anything else, to the clean lives they lived. They were not wasters.

Stubener was attracted to real estate, and his holdings in San Francisco, consisting of building flats and apartment-houses, were bigger than Glendon ever dreamed. There was a secret syndicate of bettors, however, which could have made an accurate guess at the size of Stubener's holdings, while heavy bonus after heavy bonus, of which Glendon never heard, was paid over to his manager by the moving-picture men.

Stubener's most serious task was in maintaining the innocence of his young gladiator. Nor did he find it difficult. Glendon, who had nothing to do with the business end, was little interested. Besides, wherever his travels took him, he spent his spare time in hunting and fishing. He rarely mingled with those of the sporting world, was notoriously shy and secluded, and preferred art galleries and books of verse to sporting gossip. Also, his trainers and sparring partners were rigorously instructed by the manager to keep their tongues away from the slightest hints of ring rottenness. In every way Stubener intervened between Glendon and the world. He was never even interviewed save in Stubener's presence.

Only once was Glendon approached. It was just prior to his battle with Henderson, and an offer of $100,000 was made to him to throw the fight. It was made hurriedly, in swift whispers, in a hotel corridor, and it was fortunate for the man that Pat controlled his temper and shouldered past him without reply. He brought the tale of it to Stubener, who said:

"It's only con, Pat. They were trying to josh you." He noted the blue eyes blaze. "And maybe worse than that. If they could have got you to fall for it, there might have been a big sensation in the papers that would have finished you. But I doubt it. Such things don't happen any more. It's a myth, that's what it is, that has come down the middle history of the ring. There has been rottenness in the past, but no fighter or manager of reputation would dare anything of the sort today. Why, Pat, the men in the game are as clean and straight as those in professional baseball, than which there is nothing cleaner or straighter.

And all the while he talked, Stubener knew in his heart that the forthcoming fight with Henderson was not to be shorter than twelve rounds—this for the moving pictures—and not longer than the fourteenth round. And he knew, furthermore, so big were the stakes involved, that Henderson himself was pledged not to last beyond the fourteenth.

And Glendon, never approached again, dismissed the matter from his mind and went out to spend the afternoon in taking color photographs. The camera had become his latest hobby. Loving pictures, yet unable to paint, he had compromised by taking up photography. In his hand baggage was one grip packed with books on the subject, and he spent long hours in the dark room, realizing for himself the various processes. Never had there been a greater fighter who was as aloof from the fighting world as he. Because he had little to say with those he encountered, he was called sullen and unsocial, and out of this a newspaper reputation took form that was not an exaggeration so much as it was an entire misconception. Boiled down, his character in print was that of an ox-muscled and dumbly stupid brute, and one callow sporting writer dubbed him the "abysmal brute." The name stuck. The rest of the fraternity hailed it with delight, and thereafter Glendon's name never appeared in print unconnected with it. Often, in a headline or under a photograph, "The Abysmal Brute," capitalized and without quotation marks, appeared alone. All the world knew who was this brute. This made him draw into himself closer than ever, while it developed a bitter prejudice against newspaper folk.

Regarding fighting itself, his earlier mild interest grew stronger. The men he now fought were anything but dubs, and victory did not come so easily. They were picked men, experienced ring generals, and each battle was a problem. There were occasions when he found it impossible to put them out in any designated later round of a fight. Thus, with Sulzberger, the gigantic German, try as he would in the eighteenth round, he failed to get him; in the nineteenth it was the same story, and not till the twentieth was he manage to break through the baffling guard and drop him. Glendon's increasing enjoyment of the game was accompanied by severer and prolonged training. Never dissipating, spending much of his time on hunting trips in the hills, he was practically always in the pink of condition, and, unlike his father, no unfortunate accidents marred his career. He never broke a bone, nor injured so much as a knuckle. One thing that Stubener noted with secret glee was that his young fighter no longer talked of going permanently back to his mountains when he had won the championship away from Jim Hanford.

VI.

The consummation of his career was rapidly approaching. The great champion had even publicly intimated his readiness to take on Glendon as soon as the latter had disposed of the three or four aspirants for the championship who intervened. In six months Pat managed to put away Kid McGrath and Philadelphia Jack McBride, and there remained only Nat Powers and Tom Cannam. And all would have been well had not a certain society girl gone adventuring into journalism, and had not Stubener agreed to an interview with the woman reporter of the San Francisco Courier-Journal.

Her work was always published over the name of Maud Sangster, which by the way, was her own name. The Sangsters were a notoriously wealthy family. The founder, old Jacob Sangster, had packed his blankets and worked as a farmhand in the West. He had discovered an inexhaustible borax deposit in Nevada, and, from hauling it out by mule-teams, had built a railroad to do the freighting. Following that, he had poured the profits of borax into the purchase of hundreds and thousands of square miles of timber lands in California, Oregon and Washington. Still later, he had combined politics with business, bought statesmen, judges and machines, and become a captain of complicated industry. And after that he had died, full of honor and pessimism, leaving his name a muddy blot for future historians to smudge, and also leaving a matter of a couple of hundreds of millions for his four sons to squabble over. The legal, industrial and political battles that followed vexed and amused California for a generation, and culminated in deadly hatred and unspeaking terms between the four sons. The youngest, Theodore, in middle life experienced a change of heart, sold out his stock farms and racing stables, and plunged into a fight with all the corrupt powers of his native State, including most of its millionaires, in a quixotic attempt to purge it of the infamy which had been implanted by old Jacob Sangster.

Maud Sangster was Theodore's eldest daughter. The Sangster stock uniformly bred fighters among the men and beauties among the women. Nor was Maud an exception. Also, she must have inherited some of the virus of adventure from the Sangster breed, for she had come to womanhood and done a multitude of things of which no woman in her position should have been guilty. A match in 10,000, she remained unmarried. She had sojourned in Europe without bringing home a nobleman for spouse, and had declined a goodly portion of her own set at home. She had gone in for outdoor sports, won the tennis championship of the State, kept the society weeklies agog with her unconventionalities, walked from San Mateo to Santa Cruz against time on a wager, and once caused a sensation by playing polo in a men's team at a private Burlingame practice game. Incidentally, she had gone in for art, and maintained a studio in San Francisco's Latin quarter.

All this had been of little moment until her father's reform attack became acute. Passionately independent, never yet having met the man to whom she could gladly submit, and bored by those who had aspired, she resented her father's interference with her way of life and put the climax on all her social misdeeds by leaving home and going to work on the Courier-Journal. Beginning at $20 a week, her salary had swiftly risen to $50. Her work was principally musical, dramatic and art criticism, though she was not above mere journalistic stunts if they promised to be sufficiently interesting. Thus she scooped the big interview with Morgan at a time when he was being futilely trailed by a dozen New York star journalists, went down to the bottom of the Golden Gate in a diver's suit, and flew with Rood, the bird man, when he broke all records of continuous flight by reaching as far as New York.

Imperial District Protection Works Holding Well

Brawley Marshal Threatens Round-up of Speeders

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, June 7.—Reports from watchers at the levees of Imperial Irrigation district in Lower California, indicate that the flood protection works is holding well during the increasing high water in the Colorado River. The only place where the river is endeavoring to cause erosion is at the Bee River Dam, the point where the main channel of the river was turned southward last year into the newly constructed Pescadero cut. This is of solid rock and was reinforced recently by the addition of many loads of rock.

The Pescadero cut channel is reported to be carrying the 80,000 cubic second feet of water in the river successfully and it is expected to sluice out considerably in the next few days. Trainloads of rock are being hauled to the Bee River Dam daily under the direction of Chief Engineer Carberry, who has expressed himself well pleased with the manner in which the flood protection system is holding up.

GREATEN TRAFFIC ROUNDUP

Traffic law violations must cease, once according to City Marshal Charles W. Verge, who took charge of the police department the 1st.

"There have been too many instances of the city traffic ordinance in the last few days and I have instructed my men to stop the practice," asserted Marshal Verge.

"Parking near the fire hydrants, permitting the motors to run with the cars deserted and allowing the car to stand at the curb at the wrong angle are among the law violations that the marshal says he especially opposed to. Trucks are to be prohibited from making use of the Main-street pavement during the warm season, because of the great damage they do to the asphalt. The fifteen-mile-an-hour speed limit through the business section of town is also to be enforced and the marshal threatens to stage a regular round-up of traffic law violators if they persist in their activities after his warning.

BRANCH NEARLY READY

HOLTVILLE, June 7.—Completion of the building of the new Southern Pacific branch between Imperia and the Pepper Canal, seven miles north of Holtville, is expected to be accomplished in thirty days. It is asserted officially that the rights of way for the railroad have all been obtained and construction gangs are at work on the Calipatria end of the line. Holtville committees are endeavoring to get rights of way for the company in order that the business of the line may be in Holtville, instead of at the Pepper Canal.

Barracuda Bird Has Arrived Off Ventura Strand

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, June 7.—The Barracuda birds are offshore in clouds in thousands and that means just one thing to the fishermen—the presence of a school of Barracuda. This is the usual time of year for their arrival, but few old-timers can recall such flocks of the Barracuda birds as are now here.

H. Nidever and H. J. Grote of the Fish and Game Commission have applied to the courts of this county for permission to sell a large quantity of valuable fishing paraphernalia, confiscated from some fishermen which were caught within the three-mile limit illegally taking fish.

SENATOR IS TO MOVE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, June 7.—State Senator Arbuckle of this county, formerly of Ventura county, now makes his home in San Francisco. He has accepted the presidency of the Acceptance Finance company, a $2,000,000 corporation, and plans removing his family to that city at once. The move, it is said by the Senator's friends, will end his retirement from active politics, at least for a time.

INQUIRY AT YETTEM IS ABANDONED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, June 7.—Further investigation would serve only to confuse the situation more, the Tulare county grand jury decided in its inquiry into the difficulty at Yettem during the recent Sun-Maid Raisin drive, and no indictments were returned. S. Kachigian of Yettem slashed off the right thumb of Constable Sayre of Parlier and was shot in the abdomen by the officer as a result of trouble arising during the campaign. Investigation was introduced by the grand jury some weeks ago, who then recessed to debate the case.

Evidently was held as being entirely too contradictory to warrant any definite decision as to who was to blame for the trouble and it was decided to drop the case.

Sayre was injured, according to report, when he attempted to stop Kachigian from attacking another member of the Parlier party when trouble arose over an unfortunate misunderstanding between a brother of Kachigian and a member of the Parlier party.

CALM RULES SOUTH GATE TOWNBOARD

Letter From City Attorney Brings Peace, and Trustees Meet in Amity

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH GATE, June 7.—It now begins to look like the calm after a storm in South Gate municipal affairs.

An effort was made by the Trustees to meet last night in adjourned session, but a letter from City Attorney Hazlett, read by Acting City Attorney Hampton, was to the effect that the adjournment was not regular which was made the night before.

After more than an hour's talk on other subjects, the four members of the board got together, signed a call for a special meeting, and shortly after 10 o'clock, it was conducted and the business of signing orders to pay city officials was taken up and finished.

The name of Harry Williams, a business man, was suggested by Trustee Foster as a man to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of C. A. Shaw on Tuesday night. A vote was taken and he was unanimously elected and sworn into office at once.

The letter which was received from Attorney Hazlett of Pasadena, brought out the statement that, from the information he had obtained, there was no just cause for any charge of graft resulting from the sale of barley hay from lots and parkings, being made against any or all the members of the board.

As to the board suspending Mayor Lampman as president, this attempt is pronounced irregular and illegal, according to Hazlett. His letter states the Mayor cannot be suspended or ousted unless he is proved guilty of some offense against the laws of the State or unless he becomes mentally or physically incapacitated or moves from the city.

By August 1 Santa Barbara will also be on an additional electric service, according to the Southern California Edison Company. More than nine miles of 60,000-volt transmission line have been installed between this city and Sattecoy. Other links of this high power line between these points are under way.

Making New World Air Record

Aviator Breaks Record

Lieut. M. A. Schurr of the Navy in the Douglas torpedoplane, rounding pylon at start of flight during which he broke world torpedoplane records for duration and distance. Lieut. Schurr flew 730.09 miles and remained aloft 10h. 31m. 11s. The previous record, held by Capt. Baird of the Royal Flying Corps, was 230.39 miles in 1h. 34m. 51s. Insert below, Lieut. Schurr.

MARKS SET BY NAVAL AIRMEN

H. T. Stanley as pilot and Lieut. R. D. Kirkpatrick as passenger, lifted an extra load of 1500 kilograms, or 3306.93 pounds, to an altitude of 7600 feet.

Webb made the dizzy speed of 109.65 miles an hour in his first lap, but after that his plane fell far from the mark. Lieut. Webb reported that the course was "bumpy" in his later dashes around and that he could not control his plane properly, the results being that it yawed from its course.

Webb's speed mark was the first of the day to be unofficially reported.

UNOFFICIAL RECORDS

All of the altitude marks set today will remain unofficial until the barographs used by the judges are sent to Washington for calibration. The other records are official.

The only real accident of the day was slight as to result, although it might have easily caused serious trouble. It occurred to a torpedo plane in a speed test this morning. The plane was piloted by Lieut. Cuddihy, and its speed became so great that the propeller was shattered, unseating the engine and throwing the plane out of the race.

Announcement was made late today that Lieut. M. A. Schur, who yesterday broke two world distance and duration seaplane records held up to that time by a British pilot, would make an attempt, starting late next Monday, to break his own records. He was up yesterday for about ten and a half hours, covering a distance of 730 miles. He will try next time to remain up for fifteen or twenty hours. Lieut. Schur plans to start at 4 p.m. Monday and remain up all night. The pylons marking the course will be illuminated for his attempt.

Navy and Army officers who watched today's flights which conclude the regular program arranged, are enthusiastic over the results.

THREE RECORDS FALL

The flights now being conducted by naval airmen attached to the aircraft squadrons, Pacific Fleet, will continue for several days. Already three world's records, formerly held by members of the British Royal Air Force, have been broken by American fliers. The competition here this week is the first ever conducted by American naval airmen on a comprehensive scale.

G. T. Cuddihy was forced to land when his T-S plane lost a propeller as he sped over the course. He escaped injury, it was stated. The type of plane used by Cuddihy is the same as that in which A. W. Gorton won the Curtiss marine trophy in the Pulitzer races last fall.

NEW HEIGHT MARK

What naval fliers regard as one of the most striking achievements of the day was that of one of the huge F-5-L planes, of the coastal mail type, which, piloted by Lieut. H. E. Halland, lifted an extra weight of 2000 kilograms, or 4409.2 pounds, and soared to a height of 5200 feet, or practically a mile. The total weight of the machine and load was 14,400 pounds, or slightly more than seven tons.

This record flight, said to be one of the best of the kind ever made, if not the best, was another triumph for the Liberty motor, one of America's contributions to the World War. The great engine functioned perfectly in the hard climb and never once faltered from the time that Lieut. Halland took the tremendous load off the water of San Diego Bay.

Another thrilling flight for an altitude record was made by Lieut. Ralph Ofstie, in a T-5 battlephane, with single seat and no extra load.

Altogether, with the eight records broken yesterday, the naval flyers in the aircraft squadrons of the battle fleet here have established a total of seventeen world's records in the past two days.

Nine Arrested at Fresno on Liquor Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, June 7.—Nine persons were arrested in various places throughout the city and liquor was seized in the home of a prominent hotel man of Fresno last night and today in a series of raids conducted by Federal prohibition enforcement officers and members of the police force.

The liquor was taken from the home of Thomas E. Collins, 1059 T street by Prohibition Enforcement Agent Niceley last night. It was removed for purposes of analysis by a chemist and a seal was put on other wet goods found in the Collins home. Collins stated the liquor was all stock he had on hand since before the dry law went into effect. He was not taken into custody and no charge stands against him.

The raid was made, however, on the basis of an affidavit that the affiant G. John, had bought whisky at the Collins place for 50 cents. On the basis of this affidavit a search warrant was issued. Collins declared today that the charge of sale is false and that he will proceed in the Federal courts to prove his contention and force the return of his liquor.

The persons arrested in the series of raids today include Francisca Ramirez, Mrs. Fong Look, 1534 Tulare street, John Lundi, 1143 G street; G. B. Lamoure and A. Costes, 803 G street; Louie Lim Wing, 1023 China Alley; Fred E. Bevins, Peter Accli, 903 Santa Fe avenue, and Carl Oliver, 1143 G street.

In a recent dramatic episode in Orange County Jail the two women, who apparently are firm friends, gave their joint husband an opportunity to choose which of the twain he would select if proceedings were dropped.

Wife No. 1 was given the privilege of putting the question while wife No. 2 looked on, hidden from view of the principal in the case.

Collins chose the first wife and the second wife coming from her hiding place with tears in her eyes, promised to do all in her power to make the other woman happy with her husband. Collins was overwhelmed.

Last night both women registered in a local hotel, as Mrs. R. R. Collins, Riverside, and were assigned to the same room. They came into court together. The women were dressed exactly alike.

FISHING RECORD BROKEN AT PORT

Local Fleet Hangs Up New Deep-Sea Mark

Larger Tuna Pack Than Ever Before Expected

The fishing fleet at Los Angeles Harbor last month established another record for deep-sea fisheries by bringing to market 1,371,269 pounds of albacore, according to official records of the California Fish and Game Commission. The barracuda haul, declared to be a world's record catch for either barracuda or similar varieties, was more than 50 per cent of the total May catch for the port, which was 2,636,603 pounds, for more than thirty varieties of deep-sea fish.

EXPECTATIONS HIGH

Indications that the tuna catch and pack for the season just opening will be the largest in the history of America's first fishing port are offered in the early hauls of the "chicken of the sea" already made in local waters, according to J. M. Rosen of the Commercial Fisheries Bureau of the Fish and Game Commission.

"Last week the boats brought in more than 340,000 pounds of tuna alone," said Mr. Rosen. "This early run of the fish in channel waters indicates a strong all-season run. Of this total there were 104,-191 pounds of bluefin and 72,729 pounds of yellowfin caught, varieties that do not as a rule reach northern waters until the season is well under way."

TOTAL CATCH

Last month's catch also included the year's record haul of white sea bass, 401,972 pounds being delivered to the fresh markets. The total catch for April by varieties and pounds, as compiled by the Commercial Fisheries Bureau, follows:

Name	Pounds
Abalone	2,420
Albacore	48
Anchovy	460
Barracuda	1,371,269
Bass, black	3,549

Dogfish	1,000
Flounders	200
Halibut	11,328
Herring	4,420
Kelp whaler	2,870
Mackerel, Spanish	13,809
Mackerel, jack	82,766
Mackerel, horse	1,075

Whitefish	2,130
Whiting	75,000
Yellowtail	181,370
Mackerel
TOTAL	2,636,603

PRICES GOOD

Seven hundred fishing boats will leave port early next week, it is estimated, in the beginning of the tuna canning season. Reports are current among fishermen that certain canneries have offered contracts for albacore, or white-meat tuna, at $210 per ton, with correspondingly high prices for yellowfin and bluefin.

This is an advance of $35 over last year's opening prices. Negotiations, however, are under way among canners to establish an opening rate of $175 per ton for albacore and $100 and $115, respectively, for bluefin and yellowfin. A mid-season price war, started by independent canners, is regarded as a certainty as a result of the present lack of unity among the fifteen concerns which will operate plants at the harbor this summer.

NEW CRAFT MAKE FIRST CALLS HERE

United-American Liner and Royal-Dutch Tanker Among 24 Arrivals

Twenty-four deep-sea vessels, with an aggregate deadweight capacity of 203,000 tons, arrived yesterday in Los Angeles Harbor. Of this number there were nine oil tankers, loading 715,000 barrels of oil, for all corners of the world; six passenger steamers, five freight carriers and four lumber vessels, with more than 6,000,000 feet of lumber from ports in the Northwest.

Notable among the day's arrivals was the United American liner Monticello, here from Hamburg, with 5000 tons of European cargo for Los Angeles. She is the first arrival here of the fleet of eight steamers that will ply between Hamburg and the Pacific Coast in the joint service of the United-American, Cosmos and Hamburg-American lines, there being four German and Four American ships on the run.

The first two German craft, the steamers Bochum and Sachsem, have already been announced for July loading.

The new British tank motorship Marinula, flying the house flag of the Royal Dutch Shell Oil Company, also arrived yesterday on her initial call here. She loaded 40,000 barrels of oil and will proceed to Balboa this morning for delivery orders.

The Marinula is the first to arrive here of four motorships, which the Shell interests have added to their globe-encircling oil fleet, and represents the latest developments in tanker and motorship construction.

Angeleno Participates in Big Industrial Property Deal in North

Official announcement of the purchase of the Liberty Shipbuilding Yards in Oakland was made public here yesterday by David Blankenhorn, local business man and member of the syndicate acquiring the industrial property. More than 170 acres are contained in the plot and although the consideration was not announced, it is believed that the amount will run into a high figure.

The title on the land was obtained from the Shipping Board yesterday by a group of Los Angeles and San Francisco financiers, including Mr. Blankenhorn, president of David Blankenhorn, Inc., investments; William F. Humphreys, attorney and president of the Old Mission Portland Cement Company in San Francisco; Henry Rosenfeld, executive of the Insurance Exchange and Firemen's Fund Insurance Company of the northern city, and James Tyson, president of a number of lumber concerns, including the Consolidated Lumber Company.

During the war, the yards were under the management of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and many large sea-going vessels were constructed there. At present the plot is improved with a number of warehouses, drydocks and considerable frontage on the Oakland harbor and estuary and is surrounded by several large industrial plants, with the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, formerly the Union Iron Works, on the north and the Alaska Packers' Association on the south and west sides.

It is proposed to divide the yards into units and to sell them for industrial purposes to organizations who intend to locate in that section.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 7. — Imported bananas were again strong-ly in demand today at the sale of 15,000 bunches ex-steamship Per-sian. There was not much change in the size and seconds and both firsts and seconds 250s were 25 to 50c per box higher, while the 360s advanced from 75 cents to $1. The cargo on the Persian was not good.

Jamaica oranges were meeting a better demand on Valencias, which were 10@15s and smaller re-ceipts unchanged. Navels and Jamaicas were unchanged to 25c lower. Offerings of navels totaled 1000 boxes in four cars, prices being quoted at a range of $1.50 to $6.20. Valencias totaled fifteen cars, the market being quoted at a range of $3.15 to $7.50; St. Mikes $2.50 to $4.85, two cars of $2.50 to $4.85, two cars of seedlings sold $2.35 to $2.50, and one car sweets, $2.45 to $2.75.

Florida oranges met with a good demand and prices advanced 15 to 25 cents per box, 3360 boxes of mixed sold at a general range of $3.50 to $6.25 per box. Florida grapefruit was unchanged at $1.65 to $3.50.

DRIED FRUITS

There was a little export inquiry for California prunes reported in the local market during the early part of the week. Several thou-sand boxes have been sold, mainly for shipment to Europe. The prices at which the transactions were put through are not available, but it is believed that the prunes sold under the new quotations.

The trade is considerably inter-ested in the readjustment of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association. It is be-lieved that after the reorganization plans the association will be in a position to announce opening prices for the new season.

Demand for low-priced raisins was quite fair during the day's trading, the crown are in de-mand and package Thompsons and seedless are also meeting with a good inquiry.

CANNED FOODS

Considerable weakness has devel-oped in the market for new pack canned spinach during the past week. The largest of the spinach packers brought strawberries and peas to the canneries practi-cally together and to find a market for their output growers who did not sell to the canneries on a contract basis were forced to cut their prices sharply to move their crops.

Most of the canners have packed and shipped their future orders on hand and now are in position to offer additional stock at lower prices. The tomato market con-tinues in a strong tone. Of-ferings under the regular market basis of 90c f.o.b. factory, buyers declare generally, is a drawback which does not appear until final terms are being discussed. Reconditioned tins which have rusted account for some of the "bargains" in canned tomatoes the buyers say. Stocks generally are so limited that buy-ers are having comparatively lit-tle difficulty in getting full prices for their offerings.

SUGAR MARKET

The sharp break in English re-fined sugar prompted no small degree of unsettling of the prin-cipal positions here this evening. Initial prices had been irregular at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 5 points. Around noon longs began to feel somewhat uneasy over the fact that unplaced offers of Cuban raws were still available in the trade at 6 3-8 cents cost and freight at which sales had been made. Shortly thereafter news of the sharp break in English re-fined in consequence of the ap-pearance of three or four cargoes of American granulated in that market led to fairly general sell-ing, a large part of which was for European account.

Before the decline had been checked prices had dropped some 13 to 17 points from the best point of the day.

The turnover amounted to about 26,100 tons including switches from July to September at 6 points and from September to De-cember at 60 points. The day's net decline was 9 to 15 points.

COFFEE MARKET

Liquidation of July was the only feature in today's comparatively narrow coffee futures market. First prices same 2 points higher to 2 points lower, but July lost 4 points right after the call while Septem-ber sold at 8.60, December, 8.20 to 8.23, and March, 8.12.

There was a fair volume of switching from July to September at 100 points spread and from July to December at 143 points.

Total sales were about 12,250 bags closing prices being 5 points higher to 2 points lower with July, 9.69; September, 8.69, and Decem-ber, 8.26.

BUTTER, EGGS

The butter market took a sudden upward turn. Sales of creamery extras were 100, 25, 25, 100 and 100 tubs all at 38½ cents. It looked as if that figure would be the gen-eral trading basis, but at the close sales were made up to 38¾ cents.

The egg market showed in-creased weakness on western eggs and with liberal offerings and slow trade prices broke another ½ cent a dozen. Call sales were very small; 50 cases No. 1 dirties, 21 cents; 50 cases extra firsts, 25 cents; 50 s. p. extra firsts, 27 cents, and 5 cases No. 1 dirties at 21 cents.

RICE, TEA, PEAS

A certain amount of pressure to sell continues in evidence in the southern rice markets. The bet-ter qualities are still in comparatively short supply, although oth-er grades were more or less in nominal position. Steady condi-tions continue to prevail in foreign rices on spot.

Interest in wholesale tea mar-kets centered in the increasing in-quiry reported in evidence for the general run of Congou teas. The Japan tea market continues to show a degree of strength, govern-ment standards bringing 30 cents c.i.f. which is fully 3 cents a pound above the spot market.

The position of domestic pea beans has been weakened by breaks in Michigan where there has been urgency to sell as fast as possible. It is believed that heavy importations of peas have been the real cause of declines. Local trade was quiet and some nice lots were offered at 5 cents. Red and white kidneys are in poor demand; Lima beans are firm.

COPPER, ZINC

The copper market was a little firmer at the 15c level for elec-trolytic delivered over the next few months. London cables spot registered a gain of 5s at £66 17s 6d and futures an advance of 2s 6d at £67 7s 6d. Electrolytic unchanged at £73 10s for spot and £76 for futures.

The decline in London zinc caused a drop of 5 points in the market here and zinc was offered at 6.20c St. Louis for spot June and July and the following months at a discount of 5 points. In Lon-don spot showed a drop of 7s 6d at £30 5s and futures at loss of 15s at £29 10s.

GASOLINE

While no accurate figures are available showing the amount of California gasoline coming in from week to week it is estimated that the recent average has been be-tween 200,000 and 300,000 barrels. This has not yet had an effect on the tank wagon market for gaso-line here but its influence on the bulk delivery market is apparent. Most big refiners are quoting 14½ to 15c "for publication" but gaso-line can be bought in bulk for 1 to 2c below these quotations provided the order is large enough.

BOND MARKET

Foreign bonds were again in the limelight. Serb 5s touched a new high at 77 in a very active session. Social attention was paid to Dutch East Indies 6s on the news that a new issue of $5,000,000 guilders Dutch East Indies 40 year 5s is being brought out in the Amster-dam market. All of the French issues were active.

Fall issues had a fairly active day; D. & R. G. refunding 5s touched 52 during the day but closed fractionally under this Katy adjustment 5s fluctuated but figure with a strong demand. little though the initial operating statement under the reorganiza-tion showed improvement.

Copper bonds were active on the assumption that the copper indus-try will benefit from the Austrian loan.

A moderate demand sent Liber-ties up 1-32 to 3-32 for the active issues.

Famous Cahokia mounds, home of the country's greatest prehis-toric city, cover 2000 acres near East St. Louis, Ill., and will re-quire several years of exploration to determine their true condition.

Wheat Prices Show Traders Are Uncertain

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—The wheat market fluc-tuated in a nervous and uncertain manner, getting good support on breaks and running into selling orders on the bulges, the finish being ⅛@⅜c lower. Corn was under heavy pressure from longs and, with selling of that grain against purchases of wheat and oats, closed 1⅛@1½c lower, while oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower and rye ⅛@ ⅜c higher.

Traders showed more disposition to pay attention to news developments. There were numerous complaints of too much rain in the Southwest, especially in sections of Oklahoma where harvest-ing is about to commence, and there was consid-erable buying on fears of a wet harvest. Black rust has been found at several points in Kansas and there are slight indications in Oklahoma, and weather conditions are being closely watched in consequence.

Liverpool wheat showed more strength than America and closed 1d higher. Eastern messages indicated that the foreign political situation was better, despite the French and Belgian attitude. Back-spreading between wheat and corn continues, the wheat being bought. Export demand was somewhat less active, with sales estimated at 500,000 bushels, although it was understood that sales materially exceeded the quantities reported.

Some of the largest buyers of corn recently were active on the selling side and the market showed a heavy undertone throughout the day and closed well toward the bottom. At the inside July was off 3¼c from the recent high. Country offerings were not large, but crop reports on the whole were favorable and with an easier undertone in the sample market the decline was easily attained. Spot basis was ½c lower at the last. Receipts, 78 cars.

July oats acted rather tight and showed con-siderable resistance to pressure at times, claims that there were limited stocks here for delivery on contracts having some effect, and there was also buying of oats against sales of corn. Shipping demand was slow with receipts 94 cars.

There was a lack of pressure on rye except from the local element, and moderate eastern buying. Unfavorable crop reports continue to come from the Northwest. The two northwestern markets received 43 cars.

MAN HELD IN FORGERY OF SECURITIES

Brokers Are Mulcted of Fortune With Spurious Oil-Stock Receipts

A clever scheme, by which more than $10,000 in spurious securities was foisted upon oil stock brokers of Los Angeles, was checked late yesterday when dephty Sheriffs ar-rested Harry Brackett, giving his address as 1122 Edgeware Road, and lodged him in the County Jail as a bunko suspect.

Brackett's system, according to Detective S. R. Jackson of the Nick Harris Agency was to dis-pose of forged receipts for oil stock to unwary brokers during the heat of exchange bidding. On turning in to the oil company it was learned that the receipts for the stock were valueless. After several repurrences of the scheme brokers put detectives on the trail.

Brackett, with Emery J. Arnold, 1016 Ingraham street, Roy G. Oats, 1248 North Mariposa street, and two other men were taken into cus-tody by Deputy Sheriffs Dewar, Conly, Modie and State Narcotic Inspector Peoples, while in an au-tomobile in front of the address given by Oats. After investigation, Oats and Arnold, the latter of whom said he had formerly been a State Senator in Nevada, were released. Both denied any knowledge of Brackett's asserted activities.

The car in which the men were seated was registered to Miss Rose Buckingham of Carson City, Nev. Later a woman called Deputy Sher-iff Dewar and said she was Miss Buckingham, but did not appear at the Sheriff's office as she promised. Also found in the car were license plates from an automobile recov-ered by the Sheriff's office.

The men were first held under suspicion of being implicated in the hold-up Tuesday of a mail truck near El Segundo.

When taken to the County Jail Brackett is reported to have at-tempted to tear up several of the asserted forged receipts. On ob-serving this act the deputies noti-fied the Nick Harris organization and several of the brokers who had been victimized came to the jail and identified Brackett. The fleec-ing scheme has been in progress for several weeks. About $6000 of spurious receipts have been de-livered to the oil company.

Brackett has been identified by Mrs. Ella Feinstein of 826 Caron-delet street, as having received $950 from her in return for an is-sue of the spurious receipts, by of-ficials of Harris and Company; by members of Leonard and Com-pany, brokers, and W. G. McIn-tyre.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

Fruits and Vegetables Take Big Traffic Toll

Other Shipments Pile Up Transport Records

New Issues Announced; S. P. Local Holdings

Fruit and vegetable traffic, coming principally from California, formed 5.76 per cent or 2,496,554 tons of the total agricultural traffic hauled by the Southern Pacific last year. As compared with grain shipments of 2,072,258 tons, or 4.80 per cent, and loadings of refined petroleum and its products comprising 2,003,619 tons, or 4.62 per cent, the California fruit and vegetable business assumes additional importance as one of the leading revenue producers in the State.

Fresh fruits other than citrus accounted for the largest proportion of the shipments, amounting to 2,214,846 tons, or 2.80 per cent of the total. Citrus loadings numbered 201,904 tons, or .91 per cent, while dried fruits and vegetables totaled 565,561 tons, or 1.31 per cent. Fresh vegetable shipments amounted to 321,549 tons, or .74 per cent.

Crude petroleum looms as one of the best sources of revenue for the Southern Pacific on the basis of the 2,812,880 tons, amounting to 6.50 per cent of the total "products of mines" handled during the year. The largest single item classified is 6,930,255 tons of clay, gravel, sand and stone moved, or 16.02 per cent.

The tremendous building activity in the West in 1922 finds expression in the freight traffic account of the Southern Pacific in a total of 5,236,901 tons, of lumber, timber, etc., amounting to 12.10 per cent of the commodities classified under the heading of "products of forests."

The annual report of the Southern Pacific Company reveals the size and importance of its investment in affiliated companies operating in Los Angeles. In the Los Angeles Public Market Company, the Los Angeles Union Terminal Company and the Pacific Electric Railway Company, the Southern Pacific shows a total property investment of $95,523,198.97 in which it holds a substantial interest. The total income reported by these three companies in 1922 is $19,036,924.64.

The Southern Pacific also owns 37 1-3 per cent of the capital stock of the Associated Pipe Line Company, which operates in Southern California oil fields. Its investment in physical property is placed at $18,259,781.98.

UTILITY ISSUE

Chandler & Co., Inc., Freeman, Smith & Camp Company, Lumbermen's Trust Company Bank and Mark C. Steinberg & Co., are offering $1,700,000 Southwestern Utilities Corporation first lien collateral convertible 7 per cent gold notes, due June 1, 1936, at 98½ and accrued interest yielding over 7⅛ per cent. The corporation produces and distributes natural gas in Kansas, and also has oil production of approximately 40,000 barrels per year, and will control gas and oil rights underlying 50,000 acres in the Viking gas field of Alberta, Can. Gas from this field will be sold in Edmonton, Can.

John L. Lilienthal, vice-president of Freeman, Smith & Camp Company, and James H. Lunch, vice-president of the Lumbermen's Trust Company, have returned recently from New York, where they spent two weeks in closing the contract for financing the installation of the distributing system for Edmonton. The city has a population of nearly 70,000, and has had the distinction of being the only city on the North American Continent without gas for lighting, heating or industrial purposes. By special act of Parliament fixing the rates and granting an exclusive franchise, the obstacles have been removed and a modern gas plant will be installed.

OIL BOOKLET

For the information of investors desirous of participating in the earnings of the oil industry in Southern California, W. H. Daum and Staff have prepared a careful analysis which points out the most dependable phase of the business. A copy of this report may be obtained without cost by applying to the office of that organization, 528 Van Nuys Building.

JULY OPTIONS LEAD ADVANCE IN COTTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Cotton futures went higher today, July options leading a sharp advance, which was due to combined strength and activity in Liverpool, combined with reports of a better demand for actual cotton in southern spot markets and a better export demand. Further uneasiness among the speculative bear element was evident from the start, and some outside participation also was noted. Trading was carried on at a fairly active pace, with the greater bulk of activity and interest centered in the July position. The market started unchanged to 3 points lower, but a large continuing movement soon developed and the market was carried before midday to the highest levels reached at any time since the severe break in the beginning of May. The advance continued in the afternoon; at its best July was 72 points above the previous close. There was a slight recession in the last hour, but final prices were 14 to 63 points net higher.

Spot was steady, 60 points advance, 29.05 for middling upland. Southern markets: Galveston, 29.10, 60 points advance; New Orleans, 28.75, 55 points advance; Savannah, 28.90, 70 points advance; Augusta, 29.00, 37 points advance; Memphis, 28.25, 50 points advance; Houston, 28.90, 65 points advance; Little Rock, 28.00, 75 points advance.

DAILY TRADE TALK

California Shippers Fear Car Shortage; Mirror Held Up to Business Reflects Brightly

California shippers are fearful of an impending car shortage. Last year fruit growers incurred heavy losses on account of inadequate transportation. In the effort to avoid a serious shortage all of the western roads are making plans to provide as many cars as possible and are in fact committed to an expenditure of more than $1,000,000 for increasing and improving equipment. It seems certain that there will be at least 50 per cent more refrigerator cars in service to meet the peak of the crop season this year than there were in 1922.

That the increasing shortage in cars on the western roads can be traced directly to the prohibition laws is the claim of traffic experts, who aver that the inability of California grape growers to manufacture and sell wine has resulted in ever-increasing shipments of grapes to the eastern markets which must be rushed across the continent within the period of a few weeks to prevent spoiling. It is almost impossible for eastern roads to handle the great trains rolling in from the West, and start the empties back in time.

"The Southern Pacific will appreciates the full co-operation it has received from the growers and shippers in the past," says William Sproule, president of the road, "and this year we hope it will be even greater."

From the railroad standpoint three factors figure in the general car shortage. The first is the padding of car orders on the part of shippers in the face of threatened car shortage. The second is the practice of so-called speculative shippers, who call for cars at various points in hope of having shipments ready at the time specified. The third menace results from negotiations by growers with cash buyers. In the latter case the farmer agrees to deliver his crop to several buyers, all of whom order cars, while only one gets the shipment, the other cars remaining idle.

The hope of the railroads in reducing the shortage to a minimum also rests upon a movement to bring about heavy and prompt loading and unloading. Railroad officials estimate that if all cars loaded in September, October and November, 1922, had been loaded to an average of thirty tons instead of an actual average of 27.7 tons, it would, in effect, have added 185,357 cars to the railroads of the country at a time when they were the most needed.

WINDOW DRESSING

Improvement in some securities reflects a continuance of sound business conditions, while a demand which keeps well up with supply is another indication of comparatively cloudless skies. A better stock market is predicted, both in New York and Los Angeles. There is much interest in the $25,000,000 Austrian loan, which will be offered Monday to yield 5 per cent, and there has been considerable "window dressing" development in anticipation.

There are other large issues pending, and Los Angeles city and county will soon be in the bond market in rather a large way. It is probable that a large percentage of recently authorized issues will be absorbed in Southern California, but some will find their way to eastern markets, where competition may have an effect.

However, there is much of encouragement in the present status of the market, as well as in the outlook. The success attendant upon the latest bit of government financing in which subscriptions amounting to more than $1,000,000,000 were offered for less than a third of the amount is considered a sign of the times. Of course there is a vast difference between an obligation of the United States and that of the Austrian government; a difference which bankers are not overlooking in considering the first important piece of financing undertaken in this country for Central Europe since the war.

The labor and wage situation in some parts of the country is not to the liking of Wall street, and some eastern observers hold that the railroads are by no means out of the woods, although they are able to report better volume of earnings and show increased savings for net. In comparison with conditions of a few years ago it is pointed out by statisticians that the "operating ratio," is far above some earlier averages, although down from the peak of recent years. The Times will present an analysis of the railroad situation in an early issue.

Notwithstanding the fact that our trade balance has continued to move against us and now shows since the beginning of the year an adverse figure, in the merchandising column, of fully $100,000,000, the effect upon our financial situation has been nil. We have not only lost no gold but have continued to gain it, although at a decreasing rate. Conditions abroad are not such that it is worth while to draw gold from us, even if the balance of "invisible" items were such as would permit it, which in existing circumstances is probably not the case, since we are beginning to feel the effect of England's payment of interest to us as well as of other transfers which represent the liquidation of large obligations that are beginning to be adjusted.

The fact that car loadings are now averaging around 1,000,000 per week is another unassailable factor in the encouraging situation showing the large volume of business being handled throughout the country.

FORD OUTPUT

Announcement comes from Detroit that the Ford Motor Company hopes to maintain its present output for the balance of the year. The company is now turning out 6700 cars a day and profits are running between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 a month. Further expansion and the employment of additional help is contemplated. Credit for the working out of the $5 weekly payment sales plan is given by Mr. Ford to "the boys at Highland Park." The response is said to have been amazing.

Wall street bankers refused to be perturbed by the report from Detroit that Henry Ford had made a short-term loan to the city of Detroit of $500,000 at 4 per cent as against a 4½ per cent bid said to have been put in by a New York banking house. If there was such a bid by a New York house, no effort was made to give it publicity.

The general view of the situation was that Ford had $500,000 of extra money on hand that he was willing to put in a short-time loan and he gladly accepted the opportunity to invest it to the interests of his own city. Such a venture in the municipal bond field would be an exception rather than the rule. The bankers said they had no reason to doubt that Mr. Ford might make further loans to the city of a similar character. An immediate loan of $1,500,000 is in prospect, it is understood.

RADIO NEWS

The radio is coming to be a recognized means of disseminating market and financial information. A recent survey by the Department of Agriculture showed that nearly 50 per cent of the hundreds of returns to an inquiry came from farmers who had radio receiving equipment, and a large part of the remaining answers which sought to establish the high value placed upon market and business news came from various farm agencies.

A Blyth, Witter & Co. Recommended Security

How Accountants Safeguard Your Investments

THE important facts in the history of any business can be more clearly determined from its accounts than from any other source of information. The memories of men may be faulty, but the figures in black and white indicate clearly to the trained accountant what has been accomplished.

And the history of any business is one of the most unerring yard sticks for measuring the degree of safety in the securities it issues.

No wise business man invests without knowing something of the history behind the security. Yet even large investors can rarely afford to retain a staff of accountants for the time required to thoroughly investigate an enterprise.

Our volume of business, however, enables us to employ the most expert accountants. And we further investigate each business we consider by the aid of lawyers, appraisers, engineers, bankers and corporation financiers. Yet the cost of this service to individual investors is little or nothing when spread over many issues.

We never recommend a security until we have invested in it. And we do not invest until we have made this thorough and far-reaching investigation.

So when the phrase, "A Blyth, Witter & Co. Recommended Security" is placed upon a security it means that we have investigated it, invested in it and will watch it closely as long as your money or our money is entrusted to it.

This subject is discussed more in detail in our new booklet, entitled, "A Blyth, Witter & Co. Recommended Security," which we will gladly send you without charge, upon request.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Upward Trend

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Prices continued their move to higher ground in today's bond market despite a number of heavy spots scattered throughout the list. The market showed a broadening tendency with foreign issues moving higher and second-grade railroad mortgages in fair demand at rising prices.

Serbian 8s continued to be the individual feature of the foreign group, rising nearly 2 points to 78¾, a new high for the year, and 23 points above the year's low. Lyons 6s and Marseilles 6s each closed more than a point higher.

United States government bonds showed gains of about 3-32 of a point each. Wall street heard rumors today that the government would issue about $200,000,000 in treasury certificates about June 15.

American Smelting 5s rose nearly a point in speculative expectation of the common stock being placed on a $5 dividend basis next week. Otis Steel 8s dropped 1⅝ and Steel and Tube 7s ½.

There was another series of small new offerings today, the largest being the $3,000,000 first mortgage twenty-year 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds of the Belgo-Canadian Paper Company, Ltd., to mature July 1, 1943, at 97, and interest to yield more than 6¼ per cent.

Total sales, par value, were $9,506,000.

NEW YORK CURB

Oils are Sold

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Prices displayed a reactionary tendency in today's dull dealings on the curb market.

Selling of the oils was influenced by reports of record-breaking crude production, Standard of Indiana losing its point gain of yesterday and Standard of Ohio dropping 2 points.

Most of the other changes were fractional, Illinois Pipe being one of the few issues to show a net gain on the day.

Durant Motors of Delaware broke 3 points and most of the other industrial leaders slipped back fractionally. Chicago Nipple was the most active, but it closed unchanged on the day. One of the most extensive movements took place in Cuba Company, which updated 2 points higher at 58, advanced to 58½ and then fell back to 56½.

Fluctuations in the mining group were small and unimportant.

Daily Review

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLEVELAND, June 7.—Daily Metal Trade today says: "Rail and boilermakers at Pittsburg are unable to catch up with rising volume of new business. Southern pig iron users are placing more fourth-quarter orders with Alabama furnaces on top of third-quarter bookings. Sheet, hot and cold rolled strip mills are adopting in greater measure cash month, while users actively enter third-quarter trade. Larger demands by steel fabricators are being made by reason of industry upon steel fabricators. Wire mills continue overwhelmed with business, despite operating capacity lifted only by labor supply. Copper is firm at 13 cents at New York; Zinc is about at 6.30 and lead is steady at 7.10 St. Louis. Tin is higher at 49¾ cents."

SIX MONTHS OF ACTIVITY AHEAD

Clothing Manufacturers Say Sales Are Heavy

Steel Orders Run High; Fall Goods in Demand

BY ARTHUR D. WELTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—How far does business look ahead? In seeking an answer to this question no invasion of the realm of prophecy is intended. Business operations necessarily carry into the future. There is action in the present—the execution and completion of plans began long before, but a vast amount of present activity is a first step toward future conduct. Orders are given and contracts made for future delivery of goods. This business has the advantage of certainty, but there are great quantities of goods now in process of manufacture which will not be sold for a long time. The manufacturer ventures, the jobber ventures and more than either the retailer ventures. The latter bets he can sell and he can't measure with any degree of exactness what his customers may do several months hence.

Business for the coming six months, that is, approximately for the remainder of the year, is now in sight. It is not a matter of prophecy to say that this business will be in large volume and at good prices.

Clothing manufacturers are making and selling goods for fall and early winter. Sales are steady, prices strong and the demand is for unusually high quality. Retailers, acting individually, have reached a common conclusion as to the market for their goods and the business they will do five and six months hence. That is as far as they can see.

Judge Gary said at the meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute that "there is nothing in sight to indicate that there will be a substantial diminution of the demand for finished steel in this country in the next six months."

STEEL A BAROMETER

Judge Gary is wary. He used the words "finished steel" and "substantial diminution" advisedly, and restricts the application "to this country." He is not predicting. He tells what is in sight. The United States Steel Corporation has unfilled orders and orders in immediate prospect. It does not manufacture against an uncertainty, but on order. It is this practice that brings the steel industry into such high repute as a business barometer.

The review of Marshall Field & Co. speaks first of "current wholesale distribution," and says it is in greater volume than during the corresponding week a year ago. Road sales "of fall lines" are mentioned as active. This is a different outlook from that in the steel business. But the notation that business in "fall lines" is active shows the actual forward reach in wholesale dry goods.

It is also significant that the Armour & Co. review says only that "packing-house trade continues brisk and with good demand for all products." Perhaps there is something as to the future in the statement that "trade in dry salt meat and other cured products is quite active for this season of the year," because cured products are for future use. While packers are supposed to deal in perishable products, they have by-products of various kinds. Canned goods, soaps, fertilizers are sold ahead, but the time of delivery is not fixed. Business of this kind, packers say, is unusually good and shows much better profits than packing products. Packers consider prices of their chief products as very low in relation to the prices of other commodities.

FARM SITUATION

The farmer looks ahead. No other producer is in his position. He cannot see with certainty. He has extreme difficulty in gauging his markets. Prices fluctuate greatly. But to no other class of business is the future so important and no other receives so much study and attention.

National and State governments are greatly concerned over what the future holds for the farmer and business of all kinds is influenced by what befalls him. The Department of Agriculture has set up a sooth-saying bureau in its elaborate system of crop news and crop reporting. Private agencies by the dozen search for information which may indicate the crop prospects. Statisticians keep close record of supplies. All this is done for the purpose of ascertaining what the future holds, not in dreams, but in reality.

Judge Gary would be alarmed for the steel business if things agricultural went awry. The clothing makers would proceed with scant confidence if the farmer faced distress. The railroads make preparations for moving farm products long in advance of the harvest.

However, the future for business is under still finer analysis. The Harvard Bureau of Economic Research has sought to give the foreseeable future a more definite position—to tie up securely with scientific method. The whole business world has been brought under survey. The past has been studied for precedents, for trends and for bases of comparison. The relationships between apparently unrelated factors have been fairly determined. The bureau's vision extends through 1923. Its conclusion is that business will hold approximately its present pace for that period.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange continues on a restricted basis in sympathy with the dullness in the eastern markets, the dealings yesterday failing to uncover anything startling or unusual. Holly Development was the most variable security on the board, beginning the day 4½ cents above the previous closing price, and climbing to a final quotation of 1.47½.

Other stocks in the petroleum list were dormant as far as changes in price level were concerned. General Petroleum was off ⅛ at 34½, and United Oil declined 4 cents to 1.84. Standard Oil of California gained ⅜ of a point at 53⅜.

Tom Reed threatened to entertain the speculators when opening quotations were 5 cents above the final price of the previous day, but the revival faded away and the close was unchanged. Oatman United was off ½ cent at 7⅛ and Gold Dust lost the same amount at 15½. Telluride finished ½ higher at 15⅜.

San Diego Gas and Electric consolidated 6s of 1939 attracted considerable bond buying around 98¾. Southern California Edison 5½s of 1944 sold at 96⅝. Some activity took place in San Joaquin Light and Power series "C" 6s of 1950.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The most reliable statistics available indicate that California succeeded in keeping in the ground during May 1,000,000 barrels of oil that would have come to the surface but for the fact that operators have been carrying out a 30 per cent production curtailment program for the relief of congested pipelines and tank farms.

The daily average production for May is given as 623,000 barrels, with a total of 19,630,000 barrels for the month. This is fully 1,000,000 less than the production of this State during April. In addition to holding back that amount of oil operators succeeded in offsetting the quantity of oil forced upon them by new wells during May, of which there were probably not less than fifty in the Southern California fields.

Sells Oil Lease

Register Valentine of the Los Angeles Land Office yesterday sold to F. O. Chittenden for $1000 an oil and gas lease on 18.39 acres, east of Maricopa, in the Sunset oil field, Kern county. The property's technical description is Lot No. 2, Section 18, Township 11, north, range 23, east.

There were but two bidders for the lease.

The Inter-State Oil Company declares it made a location on land in 1898, and a discovery 1902. There are now two wells the land. The corporation applied for a patent.

To Bring in Miracle

Late today or early Saturday Fred B. Foster & Co., expect to put Miracle No. 6 on production at Signal Hill. It will be the fifth Foster well to go on production at Signal Hill this year. California No. 2, which came in Memorial Day at about 3000 barrels.

Close upon the heels of Miracle No. 6 the company expects to complete Miracle No. 3, which is located across the street. Both of these wells are being drilled to the deep sands. A third

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 7.—On neither the stock markets nor the foreign exchange market was there any distinct visible movement of capital supremacy from the announcement of Germany's new proposals. Prices moved lifelessly on both London and Paris stock exchanges. There was no quickening of interest at New York, where the course of stocks, after an early and somewhat irregular recovery, sank back practically before the close. All the European exchange rates followed the German mark in value, the German mark in fact going down practically to that unit's low record figure.

It was not wholly easy to understand the attitude of the markets, and this attitude is to be taken as their expression of judgment on the German proposals. The new proposals are not different and more hurried in character than the ill-tempered note of May 2. That any plan of compromise put out by Berlin would be rejected as a finality nobody has believed, but the fact has been growing itself lately on the financial mind that the door could never be broken down on the basis of proposals, counter-proposals and subsequent negotiation. But the markets seemed to be in ignorance today as to just what the attitude of the several governments concerned in the matter was likely to be toward this last proposal.

The best prices of the early irregular recovery were reached on the stock exchange shortly after noon, when the German note was published. Whether for that cause or not, the movements of prices were reactionary from then until the close. In the foreign exchange market sterling, francs and lire declined with the mark; sterling selling at the lowest price in three weeks, francs at the lowest in nearly ten weeks. The one outstanding contrast to the general drift of the day's market was the advance in dollar bonds of the European governments, some of which, notably several of the French bonds, made notable advances. In view of the action of other markets, it was not easy to connect this with the day's political developments.

In the weekly Federal Reserve statement which is scrutinized closely nowadays for evidence of the trend of commercial credits, rediscounts rose to the highest aggregate of any week this year. But the rise was not at all spectacular; the total of $730,900,000 compares with $700,000,000 at the high point of March and with $2,500,000,000 at this date in 1920. There was no increase in reserve-note circulation, and the account of reserves held for member banks was $37,000,000 less than at the high point of March. As was to have been expected with the recent notable increases in the gold movement from Europe to New York, the gold reserve of the Federal system rose to another "record." This account increased nearly $5,000,000 during the week.

PROFITS ARE TAKEN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Prices in today's stock market yielded moderately to profit-taking and short selling which was most effective in certain of the steel, equipment, oil and motor shares. While the reactionary tendency extended to most of the usual leaders there were several specialties which showed net gains of from 1 to nearly 5 points on the day. Business was again on a considerably reduced scale owing to the absence of any effective public participation.

New lows for the year were established during the session by American Express, International Harvester, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred.

Railroad shares enjoyed a brief period of strength on reports that April earnings of Class 1 roads showed an average net return of 6¼ per cent on tentative property valuation. Just before the close there was a good demand for some of the low-priced carriers, Pere Marquette establishing a new high for the year at 45 3-8.

Heaviness of Studebaker, which closed more than a point lower at 112½, extended to most of the other motor and motor accessories. Hayes Wheel, however, was strong on reports that the full year's dividend of $3 a share was earned in the first four months and that gross sales and earnings in May exceeded the turnover of any previous month in the company's history.

Record-breaking crude oil production continues to have a depressing effect on the oil shares, although, with the exception of Royal Dutch, off 1½, today's recessions were held to fractions. Houston Oil moved against the current trend, rising 2 points.

Twin City Rapid Transit issues showed big gains on the announcement of an increase in the semi-annual dividend. Recent activity of American Smelting is said to be based on the prospect of a $5 dividend rate being established at next week's meeting.

Call money held steady today at 4 3-4 per cent. The demand for time money has improved, with brokers bidding 4 3-4 per cent. Commercial paper was more active on increased bank buying, prime names still commanding 5 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary. Demand sterling was quote at around $4.62 1-8 and French francs around 6.45 cents. German marks again fell below .0013 cents. Spanish exchange dropped 5 points to 15.10 cents, a new low for the year.

Northfield College Alumni Put City High in Percentage List

Los Angeles alumni of Carleton College of Northfield, Minn., are working to obtain the highest percentage of donations to the $1,000,000 endowment and building fund, according to John M. Kemp, advertising and sales manager of Jacoby Brothers, in charge of the local campaign. Since the first appeal for funds was launched at a meeting May 15, Mr. Kemp said $24,500 has been raised here, entitling Los Angeles to the honor of being the first city in the United States to exceed its proportionate amount.

SHANKLAND ESTATE HAS LARGE TAX

Heirs of Capitalist Must Pay $25,372 to State for Inheritance

Heirs to the estate of James Horton Shankland, pioneer Angeleno, who died at his home here in January last, will pay the State an inheritance tax of $25,372, according to a report filed yesterday in the local office of Controller Ray L. Riley.

Fowler Shankland, son of the deceased capitalist, and the former's wife, Isabel R. Shankland, are bequeathed, separately, sums in excess of $115,000 from the fortune estimated at almost $600,000. The younger Shanklands reside at 701 West Thirtieth street. The sum of $233,533 is given to the daughter, Elisabeth S. Chandler. Mrs. Chandler is the wife of Jefferson P. Chandler, attorney, of 639 West Twenty-eighth street. Five grandchildren inherit $6000 apiece. A bequest of $5000 also is made to Sarah E. Shankland, sister of the dead man.

The bulk of the Shankland estate is represented by investments in Los Angeles realty, stocks and notes.

Mock Marriage Will Open Fete for War Chest

With the selection of Mrs. A. L. McGue as "mother" of the "bride" and Capt. Frank Willson, of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, California National Guard, as "best man," and Baby Bernice O'Neil as the third trainbearer, all is in readiness for tonight's mock military marriage at the Ambassador of Anna Q. Nilsson, film star, and Lieut. Harry Watson, army aviator. The wedding will be the principal feature of the war chest benefit to be staged for Los Angeles Chapter No. 3, Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Byron Sage and Philip De Lacy, juvenile screen stars, will serve with Baby Bernice as trainbearers, while Josef Swickard will be the father to give away the bride. Jessie Fawcett is to act as maid-of-honor and the bridesmaids will be the fairest daughters of twenty-four Southern California cities. William Desmond is to tie the nuptial knot and Wally Reid, Jr., will bear the ring. The best man will be an officer from Clover Field, where the bridegroom is stationed in the Air Service. Dancing pupils at Glendale of Pearl Keller Brattain are to act as flower girls and disabled veterans will be ushers.

The wedding will take place in the ballroom at the Ambassador. In addition to the grand military ball that will close the evening, there will be a program preceding and following the mock marriage.

TRY BANDIT SUSPECT

Man Accused in Ambassador Robbery Faces Jury

The trial of George E. Williamson, asserted bandit, began yesterday before a jury in Judge Keetch's division of Superior Court.

It is charged by the prosecution that Williamson broke into the bungalow of A. E. McPherson on the Ambassador grounds some months ago and was ransacking it when Mr. McPherson returned. The suspect is then said to have held up Mr. McPherson, taking from him several thousand dollars in jewelry. Williamson was arrested after he is said to have attempted to sell the jewels to a diamond broker. The trial is expected to continue for several days.

CHANGES TO BE MADE BY KEYES

District Attorney's Aim is to Speed Justice

City to be Made Unhealthy for Criminals

Will Co-operate With Police and Sheriff

Whatever changes are contemplated for the District Attorney's office by Asa Keyes, appointed to that position on Wednesday, will begin to take effect on Monday, it was stated yesterday. The new District Attorney announced that on that day he would appoint a chief deputy, the post he has occupied for several months. In addition, it was intimated certain important changes in the policy and probably the personnel of the office will be put into effect gradually. All of these changes, it was stated, will have in view the more effective suppression of crime in Los Angeles.

The office of the District Attorney, it was stated by Mr. Keyes, was managed in an efficient and vigorous manner under Thomas Lee Woolwine, who resigned on Wednesday because of ill health, but because of the heavy increase in population and the altered conditions, certain changes will be made to bring the efficiency of the office up to the highest standard possible.

INCREASE IN CRIME

"With the enormous increase of population in Los Angeles," it was stated by Mr. Keyes, "there has been an increase in crime. It is our purpose to have the District Attorney's office, working in cooperation with the police department and the Sheriff's office, to make Los Angeles a place where criminals will not care to come. I shall endeavor to carry into full effect plans which have been under way and provide protection for citizens from the criminals who have been preying upon them."

Plans suggested by the Los Angeles Crime Commission for an arrangement between the District Attorney's office, the police department and the Sheriff's office are already being put into effect by Dist.-Atty. Keyes.

The first step taken was the transfer of E. J. Dennison, Deputy District Attorney, in charge of the Long Beach branch of the office, to the main office. Mr. Dennison has taken over the direction of investigations by the homicide squads of the police department and the Sheriff's office. George Glover, formerly handling hearings in justice courts, was placed in charge of the Long Beach office.

Among other things planned is to speed up court cases. Several conferences have been held between Mr. Keyes, the Board of Supervisors and Sheriff Traeger to evolve these plans, and many cases were disposed of while Mr. Keyes was chief deputy. It is Mr. Keyes's intention to extend these plans. When there is not sufficient evidence, cases will be dismissed at once, and others will come to trial sooner.

DEPUTIES GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

Sheriff's Aides Fined $1 for Violating Court Order in Oil Fields

Deputy Sheriffs Murrietta and Gill were found guilty of contempt of court by Judge Clock of the Superior Court yesterday and fined $1 each. The fines, however, were remitted. Similar fines were imposed by the court on S. L. Pugh and W. N. Miller, oil equipment contractors of Long Beach, but their fines also were remitted.

The four men were convicted of violating a court order by removing a boiler and some equipment from one of four wells in the Signal Hill field which had been placed in the hands of a receiver.

Willard L. Goodwin, the receiver, brought the suit and Miller and Pugh were ordered by the court yesterday to replace the boiler and equipment in their original positions within five days. Mr. Goodwin was appointed receiver of four wells and their equipment involved in the suit of the Allied Motion Picture Oil Syndicate against the Hogan Drilling Company.

"GRAND TO HAVE YO R HEALTH"

says Mrs. Jenny Evans, of Detroit, Mich. Few of us appreciate our health until we lose it. Mrs. Evans worked in a factory, but owing to a weakness, and pains in her back she was forced to give up her work. She says: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me well. It is grand to have your health, to feel well all the time and to go around like other women without that awful torture of female troubles." Women who are suffering from such troubles should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the tried and true medicine, now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for female ills.—[Advertisement.

MISSING REAL ESTATE MAN

J. Landor Scott

This is a photograph of J. Landor Scott, Los Angeles realtor, who has been missing for some days and for whose welfare much concern is felt by his many friends here, due to his precarious state of health. From San Francisco he has been traced to this city, where he was last seen on Saturday of last week. Anyone recognizing him from this photograph or otherwise is requested to promptly notify police headquarters.

COURT BAILIFF IS SUSPENDED

Action Follows Inquiry Into Forgery Case

Young Women Tell About Missing Checks

Albert Zink is Held in Jail Without Charge

Albert S. Zink, bailiff in Judge Craig's Superior Court and a deputy Sheriff, was arrested while on duty in the courtroom, late yesterday afternoon, and informed that he had been suspended from office by Sheriff Traeger.

The action followed an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Fox of the forgery of indorsements on two checks sent to two sisters living in an apartment at 742 West Seventh street. The checks were taken from letters left in a mail box at the apartment-house.

The two girls, Florence and Isle Belcher, of Benedict, Neb., appeared in the courtroom in company with Fox and Deputy Dist.-Atty. Clark and identified Zink as a man they said had lived in the apartment next to them previously to his appointment as bailiff last January.

TORN PAPER FOUND

Fox said that he went through the rooms asserted to have been occupied by Zink in the apartment-house, and found the notice of his appointment as deputy sheriff and torn pieces of paper said to be important evidence in the case against him.

The two girls said that they had talked with Zink and that he knew something of their financial affairs. They said Arthur Belcher, a brother living in Nebraska, sent them checks by mail at regular intervals, and that two checks, one for $50 and another for $20, were intercepted in the mail, indorsed with the name of Florence Belcher and cashed in Los Angeles.

Shortly after these thefts, the sisters said that their brother got a telegram from Los Angeles, signed Florence, which read: "Send me $250 at once. Will explain in special delivery letter. Will return the money on the 10th."

MONEY WAS RETURNED

The sisters said their brother immediately telegraphed the amount asked for, and that a woman called at the telegraph office to get it, but was unable to identify herself to satisfy the officials there, so that the money was returned to Nebraska.

Soon afterward the room occupied by the sisters was entered while they were absent, they said, and some valuable jewelry taken. Deputy Sheriff Fox also has been investigating this robbery.

Zink was taken to the County Jail and held without charge. The suspension from office was ordered by Sheriff Traeger immediately after Deputy Sheriff Fox had turned in his report on the case.

WITNESS TELLS OF CHURCH ROW

Half of Members Sang as Scriptures Were Read

Two Ousted Elders Objected to Evangelist Service

Long Beach Case Must End Today, Judge Says

"We will now read from the scriptures," announced Evangelist Roberts to the congregation of the Church of Christ of Long Beach on Sunday, May 6.

Scarcely had he started to read, when either Elder Rucker or Elder Taylor, both of whom had been ousted at a previous meeting of the congregation, arose and announced: "We will now sing."

Thus was the picture of a house divided described in Judge Hardy's court yesterday afternoon in the hearing of an injunction suit brought by Elder Rucker and his friends to prevent Evangelist Harper and others from holding services in the Long Beach church. Elder Rucker asserts that the meeting at which he and Elder Taylor were ousted was illegal.

One of the charges said to have been placed against Elder Rucker was that, being without children in his family, he is disqualified to hold the office of elder.

TELLS OF SCENE

Ernest Beam, a young member of the congregation who was numbered among those read out of the church by the two elders before the latter were ousted, told from the witness stand the story of the two factions holding services in the church at the same time.

"When I got to the meeting both Brother Rehkop and Elder Rucker were leading in song." Beam testified.

"I think they were," the witness replied, and the courtroom full of members of the congregation joined in the laughter.

The all-seeing and penetrating eye of Elder Rucker was described by the witness during a conversation he declared he had with the elder concerning the charges and counter-charges that were flying between members of the congregation and the two elders.

"Elder Rucker told me he could pick out the guilty ones by just casting his eye over the congregation in the church," Beam testified.

"Eh?" the court interrupted. "Elder Rucker said he could do that by just looking over the congregation?"

"Yes, Your Honor!"

"Did he say what power he possessed that enabled him to do that?"

"No, he didn't tell me that."

HEAVEN WOULD KNOW

Later C. H. Cassell, another member who was ousted when he signed charges against the elders, testified as to Elder Rucker's asserted knowledge of what would be done in heaven.

"He said to me: 'Brother Cassell, the action that we elders are going to take against you brethern will be recognized in heaven,'" Cassell testified.

"I said: 'Do you think so, Brother Rucker?'"

"He said: 'I don't think so—I know it!'"

Earlier in the day Evangelist Sommer of Indianapolis, one of the organizers of the Church of Christ and a member for fifty years, related the history of the church and the nature of its government. He testified that the method of procedure of the elders of the Long Beach church in ousting twenty-five members was "heretical."

"The members cannot be merely chopped off without first being given a hearing on the charges preferred against them," he said.

Judge Hardy ordered both sides to bring the case to a close today even though a court session be held tonight.

EXTENSIONS OF TROLLEY TRACK NEAR

The Board of Public Utilities yesterday recommended to the City Council that that body order the City Attorney to prepare the draft of seven twenty-one-year franchises to be offered to the Los Angeles Railway Company for the extension of seven lines in the city.

This is the result of the general program for improving the transportation in Los Angeles which recently resulted in the defeat of the People's Motorbus Company and the granting of franchises to the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles railway companies to operate motorbusses in Los Angeles.

The recommendations from the Board of Public Utilities ask that the franchises be offered stipulating that work is to start in four months, with the city receiving 2 per cent of the gross annual income.

FOUR SEIZED AS FLOGGERS

Victim Identifies Members of Jolly Girl's Family and Insurance Man; All Held Without Bail

Four men were arrested and taken out of a crowded justice courtroom late yesterday afternoon after they had been positively identified as members of the masked mob which kidnaped Frank Sanceri on Tuesday night, tied him to a post, whipped him, and left him to die on Lookout Mountain.

The four were T. W. Jolley, father of Astrea Jolley, the 14-year-old girl Sanceri is accused of assaulting; Arthur W. Jolley and S. L. Jolley, the girl's two brothers, and H. E. De Valle, an insurance salesman, living at 1420 West Thirty-ninth street.

Immediately after the hearing, the four men were taken to the University police station, and booked on a charge of suspicion of an attempt to commit murder. They were held without bail.

WIFE ALSO IN COURT

Sanceri, though suffering great pain from injuries inflicted upon him by the masked floggers, limped back and forth through Justice Hanby's courtroom in his search for the assailants. His young wife paced in the rear of the courtroom with her 1-month-old babe in her arms. Close by stood Jim Sanceri, the victim's brother, and his father, Mariana Sanceri. Scattered about the courtroom were several friends of the Sanceri family and six policemen.

Mrs. Jolley, on the witness stand, was relating the story of the brutal attack upon her daughter. She saw Sanceri, but did not falter in the telling of her story. Sanceri stopped in front of a middle-aged man with a long drooping mustache in the front row. He looked him squarely in the eye. The man was T. W. Jolley, the girl's father.

"That's the fellow who had a gun," Sanceri told Detectives Bergman and Briggs. "He was one of three who said they were police officers when they entered my home. He is the man who struck me in the face on the mountain top. He was the leader of the gang."

Two well-dressed young men were seated beside the girl's father. Sanceri also identified them as two members of the gang of floggers. They were Sam and Arthur Jolley, brothers of Astrea Jolley. Near them sat H. E. de Valle, who was also identified by Sanceri.

The four men were watched closely by the officers. They were told during the court recess that they were to be placed under arrest and they showed no surprise. None of them made any attempt to leave, and at the conclusion of the court session they approached Detectives Bergman and Briggs and said they were ready to go to jail.

POLICEMEN ON WATCH

Throughout the afternoon police officers vigilantly watched all the occupants of the courtroom. It was known that many friends of the assaulted girl were present and a demonstration was expected at any moment. But nothing unusual happened, other than a generous exchange of mean looks between the friends of the Jolley family and the followers of the Sanceri family.

Sanceri expressed himself as positive of the elder Jolley's identity. The girl's father also was pointed out by Sanceri's brother and father as one of the trio who entered their home unmasked. Sanceri's word alone led to the arrests of the other three. He

More Than 600 Firms Started During Year

Industrial prodction in Los Angeles during 1922 reached an aggregate value of approximately $960,000,000, according to figures collected by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in its annual survey of Southern California's manufacturing. The statistics cover thirty-three industrial groups besides an additional miscellaneous group including data on the smaller industries of the city.

This total represents a gain in manufactured products of $160,000,000 over the production for 1921. Work of collecting the information has taken more than five months.

From figures for 1923, A. G. Arnoll, manager of the industrial department of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that the current rate of production will bring the value of Los Angeles' products for this year greatly in excess of $1,000,000,000. This increase has been more marked than that for the spring of 1922, Mr. Arnoll declared, and indicates the greatest industrial expansion in the history of Los Angeles.

MANY FIRMS STARTED

More than six hundred firms opened their doors in Los Angeles for the first time during 1922. These firms have swelled the total number operating here to a new high record. From these firms, both new and old, the Chamber of Commerce has obtained confidential information which has enabled it to give reliable data regarding industrial Los Angeles. A similar review made during the time that the last Federal census was being taken corresponded almost in its entirety with that made public by the government.

The exact total production for the thirty-four industrial groups was $959, 851,693. Of the eight groups leading in the value of production, the motion-picture industry is first with a total of $156,000,000. The output of this one branch of Los Angeles indstries came from an investment of $30,000,000. The survey shows that motion pictures provided employment during 1922 for 20,000 persons. The expansion of the industry during the year is shown by the fact that $10,000,000 was added in capital. Added equipment for making picture cost $3,000,000 and buildings cost $2,500,000. The 1921 production was valued at $140,000,000.

Second in importance is the petroleum industry with an output valued at $136,271,425 from a capital investment of $246,542,370. The total number of persons employed in the oil fields and plants of Los Angeles was 17,575. The total expansion of this industry represented an investment of more than $45,000,000, divided into $19,436,693 for building; $20,380 for equipment and $27,685,350 in capital. Production in this group for 1921 was $103,736,659.

MEAT PACKING GAINS

Meat packing showed an enormous gain during 1922, when the total production in this group increased from $34,849,500 to $56,023,197. The number of persons employed in this group was 2967. Expansion in the packing industry was represented during the year by a capital increase of $500,000; equipment increase cost $432,863 and new building cost $343,000.

The production of confections and ice cream increased to $36,495,404; the 1921 total was $11,314,206. This industry furnished employment for 4690 persons. The capital invested was $11,450,532. The expansion of the group is shown by an increase in capital of $1,246,350; an equipment increase of $472,306, and new build-

HOLLYWOOD CAPTURES CUP

Girls Given Permanent Possession of "The Times" Trophy for Third Consecutive Victory

Little Miss Los Angeles turned out in bloomers yesterday, looked her prettiest and displayed her gracefulness on Patterson Field at Occidental College. It was the annual demonstration and gymnastic contest of the city high schools. Fourteen hundred girls took part.

The Hollywood High School team again won The Times cup for free-floor gymnasium work, which makes three consecutive wins and means permanent possession. In this contest Hollywood, Franklin, Los Angeles, Manual Arts, Jefferson, Polytechnic and Lincoln High Schools were each represented by teams of thirty-two members and the 224 girls in their black and white gymnasium costumes made a pretty picture as they did the exercises in unison at the commands of Miss Hazel M. Gross, assistant supervisor of physical education.

The Hollywood team was directed by Miss Alice Macgowan and captained by Miss Virginia Meader. The Times trophy, a large silver cup, was donated in 1921 and Hollywood has won it each year, now for keeps. The second prize was a cup donated by Dr. Sven Lokrantz, won this year by Jefferson High, and the third prize a cup donated by the physical education department, won yesterday by Lincoln.

Miss Genevieve Kelso is director and Miss Doris Bush captain of the Jefferson team; Miss Mary C. Jacobs director and Miss Lois Johnson captain of the Lincoln team. Dr. Lokrantz, who originated the idea of the free-floor contest, made the presentations to the cheers of the partisans in the grand stand.

The competing teams took part in a series of folk dances, for which no awards were made, and in games. Results of the games follow: Shuttle relay race, first, Los Angeles; second, Hollywood; third, Jefferson.

CONTRACTORS MEET HERE

Four Hundred Representatives of Industry in Annual Meet; Cite Huge Growth of City

Four hundred representatives of practically every branch of the construction industry in Southern California, members of the Southern California Chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, met at the Elite last night for the fourth annual banquet of the organization.

The meeting, the largest attended gathering in the history of the local organization, was given over to a discussion, under the leadership of men who have played a prominent part in the building of Los Angeles of the industrial and commercial growth of Los Angeles, and of the part which the contractors and the building industry in general have taken in this growth.

Sylvester Weaver, former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker. Taking as his subject, "Industrial Magic," Mr. Weaver traced the growth of Los Angeles from the sleepy pueblo of the nineties to the great manufacturing and industrial center of today.

CITES GROWTH

He introduced figured on the increase of manufacturing products of 1922, compilation of which was completed late yesterday afternoon by the Chamber of Commerce.

Including the production of motion pictures, which is included in the census figures of the Federal government, the value of manufactured products last year was $961,000,000, a gain of $161,000,000 over 1921. The number of industrial establishments in Los Angeles has reached nearly 4700, Mr. Weaver said.

"Some of the following facts that bear out the industrial greatness of Los Angeles metropolis area are being made public for the first time right now," Mr. Weaver said.

TREMENDOUS WEALTH

"For instance, it is hard to conceive of the value of the wealth of Los Angeles county. The taxable assessment list just completed shows that in this one county there is a total taxable wealth of $1,645,000,000, which is greater than the taxable wealth of any one of twenty-six States of the Union," he maintained.

"According to the Federal census of manufacturers this county leads all other sections of the

Two Children Taken from Grandmother and Rushed Away; Mt. Lowe Boy Carried Off

Kidnaping of two children, 11 and 12 years of age, by men in an automobile last night in Los Angeles and of an 11-year-old boy by men in a machine between Mt. Lowe and Altadena yesterday morning, reported to police were being investigated last night.

Jack and Margaret Easthope, whose mother lives at 676 South Coronado street, were taken from the company of their grandmother and spirited away by men in an automobile, according to reports to Wilshire police. The children were returning from a theater with their grandmother and another woman.

Reese H. Llewellyn, 11 years of age, who has been missing from the home of his parents at Mt. Lowe since yesterday morning, was picked up by unidentified men in an automobile while the boy and two Mexican schoolmates were walking to school at Altadena, according to the story told by the boy's companions.

Pasadena police investigated and questioned Armenio Anaya, 12 years of age, one of the Mexican boys. They said they were not entirely satisfied with his story and would continue their inquiry.

Detective Lieutenants Churchill and Weaver are working on the Los Angeles case. Mrs. Easthope told them she has been divorced from her husband, but that the court has not finally decided upon the custody of the children. She said, however, that the court granted her temporary custody pending final orders. She said her husband is an attorney living in Chicago.

Former Follies Girl Is Granted Divorce Decree

Mrs. Helen McCloskey, former Follies girl, yesterday was granted a divorce from her husband, Joseph McCloskey, by Judge Summerfield.

Mrs. McCloskey said her husband had an unpleasant habit of playing golf and coming home late to dinner. When she protested, she declared, he would use the golf sticks on her.

Attorney Ray Chesebro represented Mrs. McCloskey.

GRAND JURY TO REPORT ON RUM

Finding in Long Beach Case is Due Today

Liquor Was Landed on Wharf by Fishing Boat

Bribery Charge Also Before Federal Body

The Long Beach rum-running case, that began with the landing of several hundred cases of imported liquor on a wharf from a Japanese fishing boat, which obtained it from the mother ship, the Borealis, that lay off the harbor March 21 last, will be reported on by the Federal grand jury today. Voluminous testimony has been taken. It was the largest smuggling of liquor here.

The defendants, who are under heavy bond, include: Mrs. Hazel Talbot, A. B. Stewart, A. C. Leahy, V. C. Lord, Jack Miller, Oscar Lund, Lewis Dudrey, W. E. Knowlton, K. Nagai and Frank Kabata, the last two in command of the fishing smack that made the landing. Nagai, a Japanese, has been in the City Jail at Burbank for some time, and it is hinted he has made important disclosures to the government.

It also is understood that the grand jury will make a report in the case of Morris Orsatti, the Spring-street business man who was charged in an indictment returned several months ago with bribing a Federal prohibiton agent.

Orsatti, with J. R. Johnson, at the time a local detective, was charged with bribing Harold H. Dolley, local prohibition agent, who asserted that he had received $1700 from July 1, 1922, to July 13, when the arrest of the men was made, for the use of his influence in "fixing" prohibition charges, arranging for the reduction of the counts in the complaints, or recommending a dismissal entirely. The most of the bribe money, it is asserted, was handed over in room 507 of the Alhambra.

It is understood that there will be no report in what is known as the Jack Pickford liquor case, involving Hollywood bootleggers.

TEACHERS ASK CHANGE IN PAY

Single Salary Schedule is Urged by Committee

Basis Would be Service and Qualifications

No Distinction Between High and Elementary

A radically new salary schedule in which high and elementary school-teachers having equal educational qualifications and experience would receive the same remuneration, was asked of the City Board of Education yesterday by a committee representing every teachers' organization in the city. Approximately 6000 teachers, including principals, will be affected if the proposed schedule is adopted.

The committee has been working on the proposed system, known as the single-salary schedule, for the past three years, according to Charles J. Reinhard, principal of the West Vernon elementary school, and chairman of the committee. The request would have been made last year, Mr. Reinhard stated, had it not been for the $17,400,000 bond campaign and the unsettled economic conditions then prevailing. In preparing the proposed schedule, a survey of teachers' salary schedules in all the large cities of the United States was made by the committee, Mr. Reinhard declared.

SYSTEM CONSERVATIVE

Under the present system teachers are classified according to the kind of school they teach in—kindergarten, elementary or high school. The maximum amounts teachers can earn annually in these three types of schools are $1500, $2000 and $2600, respectively. The differences between the minimum and maximum amounts are represented by the number of years of experience.

Under the proposed system the salaries would be based entirely upon college and university credits and years of experience, provision being made for teachers earning additional credits during summer school and through the university extension classes.

"We are not asking for a radical revision upward of salary schedules," Mr. Reinhard stated yesterday in discussing the single salary schedule. "It is really a conservative plan and we are anxious to work out the details with the members of the board. We are not asking the taxpayers for more money, we simply want a change in the method of arranging schedules which will be for elementary teachers.

PRESENT PLAN WRONG

"Many teachers are much more fitted for elementary school work than for high school work, yet they are forced to try for positions in high school, where they may work to the disadvantage of the service, or be content with smaller salaries."

DOPE TEACHING ASSERTED

Mabel Mahoney, 1835 South Oxford street, asserted by police to have given small quatities of narcotics to children to create future customers and charged with being an addict and seller of dope, was sentenced to ninety days in the City Jail yesterday by Police Judge Fredericksen. She was found guilty of a charge of violating the State Poison Act.

Also given a ninety-day jail sentence was William A. Smith charged with a Narcotic Act violation. Smith, according to officers, was arrested in Rosedale Cemetery in possession of a small quantity of dope.

As a result of the arrest of the Mahoney woman and information from asserted associates Detective Lieutenants Malhean, Littlejohn, Hamilton and Wells reported they arrested Arthur Bartlett in a rooming house at Ninth street and Central avenue yesterday. A small quantity of dope found on him caused a charge of violation of the State Poison Act to be placed against him, officers said.

Following the arrest of Bartlett, the same squad of officers entered a room in a hotel at Fifth and Hill streets, confiscating a suit case containing $2000 worth of cocaine and placed Charles Stausberg and Charles Fisher under arrest. Both were charged with violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act.

Police asserted Stausberg and Fisher made a practise of moving from one high-class hotel to another and catered to exclusive trade in dope. The narcotic squad has been attempting to arrest the two men for some time, officers said.

The spectacular number was a pompom drill, in which 1400 girls took part, all in gymnasium costume and with pompoms of their school colors.

ties here, state Club Detectives Erven and Hickok, but they have projected certain systems among themselves for hiding and disposing of stolen cars which make it difficult to cope with the situation without the co-operation of auto owners themselves.

Gross carelessness on the part of motorists accounts to a large extent for the success of auto theft gangs in getting away with an average of fourteen cars a day in Los Angeles, it is stated. Not only do motorists fail to lock their cars when they park them downtown, but they are unable to give proper identification data to the authorities when these cars are stolen.

In many instances motorists not only do not lock their cars, but they actually leave the ignition keys in the locks. Club detectives have counted four cars in one city block standing with the keys in the locks.

In the new Motor Vehicle Bill signed by the Governor, it is made imperative that all owners of private garages who rent them, must report the same to local police authorities within twenty-four hours of the renting. This will be a factor in capturing auto thieves, Auto Club officials say, as Los Angeles thieves have made it a point to use small private garages in which to hide stolen cars.

All public garage owners must keep records, under the new law, of those storing cars in their places of business. This also, it is pointed out, will be a leading factor in helping to cope with the auto theft evil here, as it will provide a means of checking up cars which are driven into public garages by the auto thieves for storage.

CONTRACTORS GATHER HERE

State by over $100,000,000 in value of its annual output.

"The port of Los Angeles, newest of all world ports, is sending as much commerce through the Panama Canal as all the rest of the ports and all the rest of the countries bordering on the Pacific Ocean, combined.

"One-half of all shipping tonnage coming westbound through the Panama canal is destined exclusively to Los Angeles and calls at no other Pacific port.

OUTSTEPS NEW YORK

"The shipping board statistics show in the first three months of 1923 that the coastal trade of Los Angeles was greater than that of any other port in America, incipding New York.

"When we think of the fisheries we think of Massachusetts and the coast of New England, but more fish were handled in Los Angeles Harbor in last March than the ports of Boston, Gloucester and Portland, Maine, combined. The deep-sea commerce of the port of Los Angeles was far greater in the month of April just passed than the average monthly deep-sea commerce of New York in 1921.

The total commerce going over municipal and private wharves in Los Angeles Harbor in April reached 2,093,000 tons, which compared with April a year ago of 439,000 tons.

"The coastal tonnage of Los Angeles exceeds by far the tonnage of all other Pacific coast ports combined.

"In the week ending April 28, last, the Panama Canal record lists fifty-eight ships, other than navy vessels, westbound, and twenty-seven of these fifty-eight were destined for Los Angeles, eleven others of the thirty-one stopped at Los Angeles and left the bulk of their cargoes here, the remaining twenty taking care of the tonnage of the rest of the ports of the Pacific Ocean.

"The oil shipments alone exported weekly through the Panama Canal from Los Angeles to the ports of the world pay our government practically one half of the total revenue of the Panama Canal."

FUTURE PROSPECTS

Samuel Storrow, president of the Los Angeles Chapter of the American Association of Engineers, spoke of the prospects of continued or increased construction activity in Los Angeles during the next few years. Mr. Storrow stressed the need of smaller and less expensive structures to house the many people of moderate means who are coming to Los Angeles, who cannot afford to buy or build expensive homes. The building of structures of this type, he said, is the work of the next few years.

USE OF TOY BALLOONS CURBED BY ORDINANCE

The "toy balloon" ordinance, prohibiting the use or sale of toy balloons filled with inflammable gas was adopted by the City Council yesterday. This is the result of a recent letter from the Chamber of Commerce recommending that such action be taken after a woman at Long Beach suffered serious burns from the explosion of gas in a small balloon.

FOUR ARRESTED AS KIDNAPERS

T. W. Jolley smilingly denied any knowledge of the flogging. He declared he was at his home throughout Tuesday night and had not left it except to go to the store for groceries and medicines. He said he could prove his statements and establish an ironclad alibi.

BROTHERS CLAIM ALIBI

Mr. Jolley said that his son Samuel also was home up to the hour of 11 p.m., when he left the house to go to work. He emphatically stated that Samuel worked all through Tuesday night.

Arthur Jolley told officers that he was downtown on Tuesday night, attending a motion-picture show alone.

"But I will be unable to provide all the links in my alibi until I find two particular friends of mine whom I met on a downtown street. If I cannot find them I will be unable to prove where I was between 10 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. After that hour I was home.

PROTESTS ARREST

De Valle protested his arrest, declaring that he was in San Bernardino on the night the masked band kidnaped Sanceri, and that he did not return to Los Angeles until yesterday morning.

"I wasn't a member of the band, but I am disappointed that I was not," said De Valle. "Nothing would have suited me better than to help them out."

He said he had been tried on a charge of assault and battery at San Bernardino Tuesday afternoon, and acquitted. He said that he was not a close friend of the Jolley family, having met the father of the assaulted girl only twice.

At the University Police Station, Detectives Briggs and Bergman said complaints charging the men with attempt to commit murder sworn to by Frank Sanceri today. They also said they probably would make several more arrests as Sanceri has stated he now knows almost all of the men who whipped him.

The Jolley girl was kidnaped several weeks ago, and held captive in a shack by several men who assaulted her repeatedly. She is in a serious condition at her home.

Sanceri was arrested as a suspect in the case a month ago, and was out on $500 bail at the time of kidnaping. His hearing on the charge it set for next Tuesday.

Callbreath Is Guest of Honor at Dinner Here

A dinner was given last night at the University Club under the joint auspices of the Chamber of Mines and Oil, the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the Southern California section of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, in honor of James F. Callbreath, secretary of the American Mining Congress.

W. A. Grieves, national chairman of the industrial co-operation division of the congress, delivered a brief address on labor conditions and industrial relationships.

Mr. Callbreath spoke on matters of interest to the mining industry, with particular reference to the proposed Federal taxation and "blue sky" legislation, which he opposed.

Food products produced during 1922 represented a total of $68,460,667. This production came from a capital investment of $32,468,729, and represents the labor of 7242 persons employed in the industry.

The production of iron and steel products, including machinery, reached a total of $74,729,292. This production came from a total capital of $40,159,733. The industry employed 14,784 persons.

Publishing and printing houses of Los Angeles during 1922 turned out a total in products valued at $26,053,632, from a capital investment of $14,999,785. The employees of this group of plants numbered 10,332.

Plants producing commodities of a miscellaneous nature turned out $54,410,412 worth of finished goods. More than 16,000 persons and $35,000,000 were involved in this production.

These are but a few of the leading groups on which information has been compiled. The survey shows that the total number of employees was 180,476 for the thirty-four groups; and that the total capital invested was $685,184,997. Male employees made up three-fourths of the total. More than $84,000,000 in new capital was added in all the groups. New buildings for all groups cost $18,532,220, and new equipment $16,379,078.

In value of total production the motion-picture industry took first place; the petroleum industry second, iron and steel third, food products fourth, meat packing fifth, miscellaneous sixth, confections seventh and printing eighth.

One large chain restaurant concern employs one man in each eating house regularly, sorting table scraps, and it is said each recovers more than enough silverware to pay his wages.

Matinee Syncopation by Major and His Orchestra

Ssdently into the broadcast studio he wins an envious glance, for his smile is one of inner sunshine. One says to oneself, "There is a man who is happy." And then one notices that Earl Kennedy is blind and that the light in his eyes is the soul-light of inspiration, the kindle that sometimes comes to those who look on the bright side of misfortune. Earl Kennedy is one of those fellows who transform personal tragedy into reconciliation by seeking means of giving joy to others.

Earl Kennedy's eyes can distinguish objects only as mere shadows, but his heart sees continual sunshine. He sings and plays a ukelele and his songs have an essence of human cheer that win admiration. He played and sang during the noon and matinee programs. Clouds vanish at the thrill and lilt of his Hawaiian selections.

Mr. Balano studied abroad under able masters. He possesses a natural instinct for music, together with a basis of technical ability, which are winning him popularity in Southern California. Warm tones, even and sweet, made pleasurable his playing of "Chinese Lullaby," "Roses of Picardy" and "Kiss Me Again." Nicholas Devereux of the Southern California Music Company gave piano accompaniment.

Harold Harts' piano-accordian melodies were highly enjoyable. His ability with this instrument is distinct and his command of rhythm is never lost in the maze of tonal combinations and volume. The feature of his selections was an original composition which he has not yet named.

B. W. Gulick, pianist, offered two solos, "Waltz," by Carreno, and "Spring Song," by Crissman.

The children's program, as usual, was delightful, featuring Bernice Melvin, pianist, 10 years of age, Lois Crump, whistler, 10 years of age, and Eileen Faut, reader and pianist, 14 years of age.

Bernice favored with "Whip-Poor-Will," by Dutton; "In Tulip Fields," by Bartlett, and "May Morning," by Rogers. Lois whistled "Rendezvous" and "Manzanillo," accompanied by Eileen, the latter also giving a reading.

She Kicked Way Out of His Life, Avers Husband

Mrs. Gladys T. Cleveland kicked so high she kicked herself right out of his heart and life, Guy C. Cleveland averred yesterday in his suit for divorce filed in Superior Court. The kicking took place in the presence of company, Cleveland declared, and in spite of his remonstrances Mrs. Cleveland tore her underskirt kicking, but still would not desist, her husband said.

Also, he said, she called him names; she wished he would die; she bit him on the wrist.

FAMILY JARS

Easterners who keep abreast of all the gossip about the Stillman, Gould and a few other families are almost willing to concede that it is a wise child that knows its own father.

AT THE FOUNTAIN

It appears from expert testimony that ice cream sodas can be built at wholesale for a fraction less than 1 cent apiece. Folks who are paying 20 cents for their refreshment are being charged heavily for the scenery.

DEBS AT YALE

Eugene Debs lectured before the undergraduates at Yale and his appearance and arguments were warmly praised by the college paper. Eugene feels very much at home at Yale. He spent some time behind a Yale lock. But that is no particular reason why the college should stage a demonstration in his favor.

LONESOME WATERS

One of the big vessels now at the harbor made the twenty-six-day journey from Manila to Los Angeles without once sighting a ship until approaching our port. Our ocean is vast and our trade lanes not yet staked out. In a few more years the route from here to the Orient will be so congested that a traffic cop may be necessary.

BACK TO THE PRIMITIVE

The man in the street who has watched the last bulletins from the jazz marathons says that Bryan is wrong. There is such a thing as evolution and it is now working with reverse English. We are working back to our forbears and in another 1000 years or so will be once more dangling by our tails from the tops of the palms and eucalypti.

CLEANING THE SLATE

The Greek crisis is at ease for the moment and another of the next wars has been averted. The Greeks on their part admit a moral obligation to indemnify the Turks for depredations and reprisals in Anatolia. In return Turkey admits the impossibility of Greece making payment. It is a sort of a mutual bankruptcy proceeding with both sides getting a chance for a clean deck and a fresh start.

OLD-TIMERS

Traces of an ancient race existing more than 3000 years ago have been found under peat beds dug up in Denmark. There are strange, long-toothed spears, queer-shaped axes and even a grindstone. Bones of elk and reindeer are found, but the human skeletons are still missing. Maybe they were kept in the closet. Possibly that was why Hamlet said there was something rotten in the state of Denmark.

CAN'T KEEP IT UP

The Seattle City Council has finally voted almost unanimously to raise the fare on the municipal car lines from a nickel to a dime. As the situation stands the system is losing nearly $3000 a day and even the proponents of municipal ownership admit that it would be impossible to run the cars on a 5-cent fare, yet there are those who think it easy for a private corporation to pay dividends and taxes and still pull the people for a nickel. The publicly owned utility does not have to worry so much about taxes, dividends, paying assessments and replacements. These items may be filched from some other fund.

THE HARRYING

If the taxpayers always got their money's worth this would be a sweet and lovable world. But sometimes there is a suspicion that $1 here and there is being wasted or diverted to nonessential use. The Saturday Evening Post calls attention to the fact that some ten years ago the railroads of the country were paying a trifle less than $100,000,000 in taxes. Now they are handing over more than $300,000,000 a year to the tax-gatherer. Most of them are paying more in taxes than they are in dividends. In a private business that would mean that the taxes are more than the profits. A like situation befalls nearly all service corporations and public utilities. They are harried by the assessors and bombarded by the regulators to an extent that private business could not endure. The corporations receive the first shock and then pass it on to the public. Every time a corporation is skinned some taxpayer loses a piece of his pelt. Yet there are a number of self-styled leaders in the country whose political prestige is mainly achieved through their capacity for nagging and hounding the railways and other corporations. It is an odd world when politicians are given fame because of their ability to smite their fellows. That is all they are really doing. They tie a burden to some service corporation and the company promptly shifts the burden to the back of the taxpayer. That patient but worthy citizen cannot see what is happening behind him because of his load. The system amounts to an endless chain in which the individual taxpayer is the major link. All that he realizes is that the weight he is carrying is increasing every day. He has to carry too many politicians with his load.

OUT OF STEP

Through the action of the New York Legislature and Gov. Smith the great State of New York is placed in a position before the country that, to put it mildly, is equivocal. The State administration has refused longer to co-operate with the Federal government in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. It has taken the position that the Federal government is an entity separate and distinct from the State of New York and the citizens thereof; something for which the State and its citizens are not responsible.

New York does not accept the prevalent opinion that the government of the United States is the people of the United States. It prefers to make of the government an overlord and the people its subjects. Under the New York interpretation the term citizen loses its significance, becoming but a synonym for subject. This is adopting the English idea with a vengeance.

Americans in the West are likely to read into the action of the State administration the influence of the enormous and increasing foreign population of the State of New York. The present government is one constituted by Tammany Hall. Greater New York has now more population than all the rest of the State; and Greater New York has the greatest foreign population of any city in the world. It has even been asserted that there are more Greeks and Italians in the City of New York than in any Grecian or Italian city.

This foreign population makes its influence felt at Albany, not only those who are naturalized citizens, but those who have not yet acquired the rights of citizenship. The presence of the foreigners in both New York and Chicago exercises considerable influence on the government of those cities.

New York seems to be somewhat confused over American ideals. The administration speakers in the Legislature and the Governor in his statement accompanying the signature of the act repealing the Mullan-Gage Prohibition Enforcement Act hark back to the Democratic doctrine of State rights. They seem to forget that they are espousing a doctrine that was part of the argument in favor of slavery. It is a doctrine that was interred on the battlefields of the South during the Civil War and whose obituary was pronounced by Lincoln at Gettysburg.

We have suffered sufficient afflictions during the last ten years, without having this corpse revitalized by those who seem to place their love of liquor before their love of country. It was first introduced in support of an unrighteous cause; and it is made to serve little better purpose now.

New York contains one-tenth of the citizens of the United States and, consequently, is one-tenth of the government of the United States. For the government and the people are one and indivisible. Patriotism falls to a very low ebb in New York when the people of that State will offer an example which, if generally followed, might place the Constitution itself in peril and all for the sake of John Barleycorn.

But New York will not find that its action will meet the general commendation of the rest of the country. It has offered an example to be shunned, not emulated. It reflects the influence of Tammany Hall upon the State government, an influence that has always made for misgovernment in the country.

The Times is convinced that this aberration of the Empire State is but temporary; that Tammany, in forcing through this measure, has only fastened its own downfall. For The Times is convinced that New York is sound at heart, despite the corrupting influences of the political ring now in control.

EDUCATIONAL CHANGES

This week the Los Angeles High School holds its mid-centennial celebration. In this comparatively short period, as the lives of educational institutions are reckoned, its development has been even more amazing than the growth of the city that gave it birth.

In this development the material growth is not the only nor the most inspiring feature, though this has more than kept pace with that of the whole community. It is not only that from seven original students quartered in an old wooden building at Fifth and Grand, Los Angeles High School has progressed to the present magnificent structure standing in acres of grounds and housing thousands of students.

More remarkable than these external signs of health and strength is the internal transformation in the methods and the system, now employed in most American schools and colleges, the substituting of a new intellectual freedom for the old scholastic straitjacket. L. A. High has advanced along these lines as rapidly as her buildings have increased in size and her student body in numbers.

Times change and we change with them, runs an old Italian proverb. But it is equally true that we change and times change with us. And the newer and more enlightened attitude toward educating the young has been responsible for the larger and more liberal age in which we live today.

Civic pride exults, as it should, in such temples of learning as the Los Angeles High School, its commodious classrooms, its ornate architecture, its adequate acres. But educational pride should exult still more over the fact that in that institution the youth of Los Angeles are being trained in that greatest of all accomplishments—how to think for themselves.

Fifty years ago it was different. There was no attempt to develop the individual, no attention paid to personality. To make the child think as the system thought was the aim and end of old-fashioned educators.

Now the curriculum provides the particular mental diet best suited for the brain that must assimilate it. Education is a la carte, not table d'hote. The school is made for the scholar, not the scholar for the school. Consequently today the country is producing 100 original thinkers where it only produced one in the days when the Los Angeles High School first saw the light.

Teach the child to develop its powers of observation and deduction, to discover its own shores and boundaries, to find its own bearings and build an educational structure according to that knowledge. Such is the present trend of teaching and the rapid progress made of late in all branches of science and achievement is the fruit of this better system.

Under the old regime education was too often treated as a method of repression of young enthusiasm, and so it manufactured from good material only duds and dumbbells. As education in the next fifty years becomes more liberal and enlightened, so will the progress of civilization be more productive of all things that minister to human needs.

The great part Los Angeles High School has taken in these progressive movements is not the least of the laurels won in its fifty years of development.

NAVY DESERTIONS

Desertions from the Navy, estimated this year to total more than 5100, have aroused the authorities to a realization of the fact that the service needs overhauling.

Seeing that this is more than double the total desertions for last year, the Navy heads have taken the alarm and the Bureau of Navigation has been investigating the causes. After issuing a questionnaire to a number of men and officers the bureau has arrived at no really satisfactory conclusion.

One of the leading reasons, according to the answers returned, is the good wages so easily procurable in the present wave of prosperity. A year ago jobs were harder to find and the pay attached not so attractive. If this explanation is correct it is not a pleasant comment on the beneficial results of prosperity on the morale of our public servants. A position in the Navy is something more than a job.

Another cause largely assigned for the increased number of desertions is a lack of sympathy between the commissioned and petty officers and the enlisted men. As some see it, the discipline is too severe, as others suppose, too lax. Some think the men have too much shore leave and this presents too many opportunities for dropping out; others again believe they are kept too close and so there is bred in them a spirit of discontent.

The present system of short enlistments also comes in for censure, as it fails to keep the men long enough in the service to develop the esprit de corps which, once formed, is an anchor of loyalty. But others declare long enlistments would keep many good men out of the Navy altogether.

Probably the solution is to be found in the human factor of the problem. At any rate, the bureau has recommended a new course of study at Annapolis to treat more exhaustively with the understanding and handling of men so that the midshipman may avoid some of the faults and failings that breed bad feeling and cause friction in crews where harmony should prevail for the good of the service.

DR. HENRY CHING

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for the next five years will house one of the old landmarks of Los Angeles. In the days of long ago Dr. Henry Ching, the Chinese herbalist of South Broadway, was one of our local celebrities, appearing with fascinating regularity as a headliner in the city news. Many a time and oft was he hauled into court under a dark cloud of suspicion that his innocent sales of healing herbs covered a forbidden traffic in illicit drugs. And with a mixture of oriental guile and oriental wisdom the clever Celestial always managed to slip through the meshes.

Ching had his friends here, for, in spite of his law-breaking proclivities, he was a decidedly interesting and colorful companion. And, while many believed he was guilty on occasions where he beat all efforts to convict him, none could help but admire the skill with which he defended himself. Indeed, numbers believed he was the victim of a conspiracy to put him out of business.

But the wily herbalist slipped up at last—as the cleverest transgressor is certain to do sooner or later—and the Federal government made a charge stick, a serious charge of dealing on a large scale in deadly narcotics. He has been numbered among those found wanting and five years will wipe him off the slate of local memories. He has spun his ball of yarn. He belongs to the by-gones and the things the world has passed up. He can never come back.

Yet, if one could obtain from Dr. Ching a complete story of what he did in Los Angeles and the number of interesting cases of well-known people that came under his notice during the years he was practicing here as a "herbalist," it would fill a story book as full of human interest as Conan Doyle's "Under the Red Lamp" or Burke's "Limehouse Nights."

ODORIFEROUS VICTORY

"Peace hath her victories no less than war." And sometimes she employs the instruments of Mars himself to achieve these results. This was the case when the Robert Dollar freighter Dix docked at San Francisco the other day, carrying a large and potent cargo of rich, ripe cheeses.

To be specific, 68,010 pounds of Limburger, Roquefort, Gorgonzola and Edam cheese reposed in odoriferous majesty in the ship's hold. Strong aromas seeped from them, but the most powerful contribution to the atmosphere was made by several caissons of Limburger that had broken open during the voyage. This cheese is shipped in sealed caissons such as are used in the transportation of ammunition, and knockout fumes result when the containers break.

Some bright soul had the happy thought of distributing gas masks among the stevedores whose unhappy duty it was to unload the ship. Stretchers, first-aid packets and medical attendants stood ready to assist those who succumbed in the course of duty. But the gas masks saved the day, and no casualties resulted, although 182 caissons of Limburger, in addition to other cheese in an advanced stage of decomposition, were removed to the outer air.

Today the foreign population of San Francisco is exceeding happy and the doughty warriors who battled the Limburger fumes are reported as expressing a much greater fondness for the milder gas used by the Germans on Flanders front.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

When a Man Stands Out

"How did you happen to advance this fellow?" once asked Charlie Schwab of the manager of a large steel plant.

"Well," explained the manager, "he was the foreman of the day shift and I noticed that when the day shift went off duty and the night shift came on he stayed on the job till he had talked over the day's problems with his successor. That's why."

The many are superficial and indifferent.

As soon as a man realizes and acts on the knowledge that he is as much interested in the business as the boss—the boss merely supplying the capital—he immediately stands out from the rest.

The most valuable and the most sought for employee is not necessarily the brainiest or the cleverest.

It is the man who works hardest, thinks deepest, puts himself out most and is generally willing to be uncomfortable for the good of the "house."

We are far more indebted to industry and loyalty than to ingenuity; an ounce of honest-to-goodness interest is frequently worth at least a pound of talent.

It is the man who can be depended upon, under any and all sorts of conditions, to fall in and do his level best, who gets a promotion and a bonus.

THIS IS THE DAY

The British government passed orders in council that severely affected American shipping in the year 1793. British ships of war were instructed to stop all vessels carrying supplies to France and to compel such ships to enter British ports as a war measure against France. France, as an act of reprisal, barred American ships from British ports and between the two of them American ocean commerce was seriously damaged.

AN UNFOUNDED ASPERSION

There is no better assurance of an honest and incorruptible judiciary than an independent and fearless bar, alert to call to account members of the judicial department for misconduct.

From this it follows that the bar should be equally alert in defending judges from unfounded aspersion, and this is particularly true when the judge is the target of covert attack in the public press, to which his position prohibits him from making reply.

It has been stated in the public press that Chief Justice Taft is "receiving a $10,000 annuity from the Carnegie Corporation of New York" and that "the income comes from $200,000 in mortgage bonds of the United States Steel Corporation."

It is apparent that this is a part of the propaganda to limit the power of the court to declare legislative action void when it transgresses the prohibition of the Constitution, for the articles above quoted from refer at length to such decisions and expressly disclaim personal animus toward the Chief Justice. One of them says:

"Mr. Taft's long record in public life, his spotless reputation, make any question of his motives, character or patriotism impossible."

Notwithstanding this broad disavowal, great injustice has been done by the tacit innuendo of the articles referred to, and the simple facts should be set forth and dispassionately considered.

Andrew Carnegie contemplated the creation of a fund to be administered by the Carnegie Foundation for the payment of pensions to all ex-Presidents and their widows, but abandoned this project and by his will provided for the payment of annuities to the widows of ex-Presidents Cleveland, Roosevelt and to ex-President Taft.

This will has been duly probated and there is not now pending in any court any question as to its validity. At the time of the making of Mr. Carnegie's will Mr. Taft occupied no judicial or other public position. He was then a private citizen. At the time of his appointment to the position of Chief Justice there was no possibility of any question coming before him for decision in which the interests of the testator or his estate or any of the beneficiaries of the will of Andrew Carnegie would be involved.

It should be remembered that those legacies were made by Andrew Carnegie and that they were made [illegible] and that they were [illegible] Carnegie had high personal friendship for [illegible] and Taft was well [illegible] legacy in question [illegible] expression of that [illegible] man can hope to [illegible] al benefit from [illegible] take effect until [illegible] therefore, absurd [illegible] improper motive [illegible] in the making of [illegible]

EASY-CHAIR SCIENCE

BY RANSOME SUTTON

XXIX. DID OUR ANCESTORS LIVE, LIKE APES, IN TREES?

Before attempting to answer this question I should like to make plain the meaning of the biogenetic law. It is a law which every teacher, nurse, student, parent and person who ever expects to be a parent should understand. To those who understand, this law every phase in the development of a child—its growth, caprices and behavior—possesses historical significance. In Greek bios means life and genos means race; hence biogenesis means race-life, or the history of racial development.

Biologists have discovered that each individual, in the course of its development, repeats the stages of development through which the race to which it belongs has passed. That is what the biogenetic law means—that children pass through all the ancestral stages the human race has, since the very beginning, passed through; they "climb their own ancestral tree." By studying the development of a child, therefore, we may learn the history of human development.

Every mammal begins life, for example, in the mother's womb, as a fertilized ovum, which is nothing more nor less than a single cell of living protoplasm. This cell divides into two, each of which grows and divides into two cells, and so on throughout the period of growth. Now, since each individual repeats the history of its race, it follows that the human race originated in single-celled organisms. Moreover, up to the sixth month of the antenatal sleep a human embryo is covered with a downy coat of hair, which doctors call the lanugo, signifying a time, according to the biogenetic law, when the human species was covered with hair. A child crawls on four limbs before learning to walk on two; so, according to the law, there was a time when our ancestors walked on four legs.

If our ancestors lived in trees, should we not be able, in the light of the law, to find evidence of such arboreal existence in children? Certainly neither physical nor mental adaptations to a tree-dwelling habitat would be easily erased. But we should not expect the signs to be very distinct; for, if our ancestors ever did live in trees, it was millions of years ago, when the primates were little lemurs, or semiapes, and subsequent terrestrial experiences would have largely obliterated the evidence. Several signs still speak quite eloquently of tree-dwelling times, however, and it is difficult to account for them on any theory other than that our ancestors were, during Eocene times, arboreal mammals.

For example, as Dr. Robinson has shown, a three-weeks-old infant can hang by the hands. The power of its grasp, being inherited rather than acquired by the child, is thought to have come from ancestors which used their hands, as monkeys use theirs, for hanging from the limbs of trees. Only the offspring of arboreal creatures possess such an iron grip.

Children never have to be taught how to climb; they know without learning. Climbing ability is inborn in them. Yet they have to be taught to swim, which is no more difficult than climbing. When threatened by wild animals man's first impulse is to climb a tree. Whence came that impulse? The climbing instinct is so strong in infants that stairways have to be fenced off from them. Growing boys literally take to the trees, and the climbing [illegible] continues throughout [illegible] climb far out on a [illegible] to plunder a bird's [illegible] light of childhood, [illegible] as boys.

Only arboreal animals [illegible] keys and bats, have [illegible] bend round a [illegible] feet,) but a newborn [illegible] are quite pronounced [illegible] ly which could not [illegible] herited from terrestrial [illegible] The feet of the [illegible] markably prehensile. [illegible] savages pick up [illegible] with their toes.

Is it not also significant [illegible] past that everywhere [illegible] motions of boughs [illegible] to put restless babies [illegible] The "Rock-a-by-Baby on the top" lullaby is [illegible] ing, as biologists believe, [illegible] conscious memories of [illegible] all babies were [illegible] trees.

We all dream of [illegible] never strike bottom. [illegible] interesting story does [illegible] pictured our dreams [illegible] tral memories which [illegible] the mind goes to sleep [illegible] of the early tree-[illegible] ed lightly, in one of [illegible] vines, left themselves [illegible] of their falls. Important June Sales of New Lingerie

GENEROUS supplies of dainty, cool underthings are a wardrobe delight in which every woman loves to indulge in the Summer. Careful workmanship and a tailored trimness distinguish the Lingerie in these groups—features which are important in garments that are so frequently laundered.

Ebell Club to Entertain

Ebell Club's final social event of the year will be given Monday, the 25th inst., instead of the 22nd inst., at the Beverly Hills Hotel. There will be a special luncheon, followed by bridge or mah jongg and a musical program for those who do not care to play. The benefits and entertainment committees are planning to make this a most enjoyable social affair.

Caledonian Women Meet Today

The Women's Auxiliary to the Caledonian Club will meet in the Knights of Pythias Hall today at 2 p.m. Those taking part in the program are Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Hosaick, Mrs. Gavin and dancing pupils of Jeanie Gordon, who will give a fling drill. This will be the closing meeting for the summer months.

Ruskin Art Club

Although the summer vacation has come for the Ruskin Art Club, the members are looking forward to an informal picnic luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Nethery, Redondo Beach.

Following Mr. McGroarty, Mrs. Hector Alliot spoke of the Taos Society of Artists, the beauty of the settlement and the surrounding country. After the program the members of the club and their friends spent a delightfully informal hour while refreshments were served.

THE LAST WORD. BY ALMA WHITAKER

Consider the Bridegroom-Elect

Anthony Hope once wrote a poignant chapter of a girl's conflicting emotions just prior to her marriage to a man she wanted to marry, intended to marry, and yet suffered a dread fear complex as the fatal hour grew near. I imagine that most every woman who read that chapter felt that Anthony Hope understood. Most girls—yes, and even widows—if they are sensitive at all, must have gone through some such experience.

Albeit the human race seems to take marriage so lightly and marriage is such a common experience, it still is rather a tremendous undertaking.

And although the male of the species is usually regarded as of coarser fiber, and the bride at such times gets most of the interest and sympathy, I maintain that prospective bridegrooms suffer acutely all of these revulsions of feeling. It doesn't matter how much in love they are and how charming the woman is, how pleasant circumstances may be, how desirable the union in every way, this fear complex can almost surely be counted upon to obsess the man at some time prior to the marriage.

Quite often it comes directly he has popped the question and been accepted. Many an engaged girl must have been concerned, nay, positively alarmed, at the sudden apparent coldness of her new fiance. For days after he may not go near her at all, or, if he does, seem cold and distrait in her presence. Her own revulsion of feeling is so apt to come later, nearer the fatal day. But he is immediately overwhelmed by the vital step he has taken.

WIDOWS UNDERSTAND

Widow-brides will understand this better than girls. They may not have analyzed the condition, they may even have thought it peculiar to their own cases—and buried the secret deep in their hearts. But they will surely have noticed it, fretted about it, even wept hot tears about it.

It is one of the things a gallant man can never admit. Once in a while a male novelist, like Theodore Dreiser, will touch upon it, but always as being peculiar to one of his characters. I do not remember ever reading or hearing a confession of personal experience along these lines from a man. It is one of the things he locks up in his heart, goes through alone, and feels ashamed for.

In men of coarser mold this revulsion of feeling may take a very tangible form, and so the girl of his choice suffers acutely in her crude, misunderstanding way. For this type of man is quite liable to be pretty crude about it. But the sensitive man will avoid any unpleasant exposure of his feelings. He doesn't exactly understand what has happened to him, he can't help being a trifle cold and difficult, but he does have the grace to offer polite alibis, to be a little ashamed, to soften down the effect.

Few are the engaged couples who have not gone through this experience. It isn't a thing they can talk about. Often it is too subtle for them to quite realize, too intangible to admit even to themselves. And it is far more liable to happen when a man is honorable and honestly in love, the type that takes his responsibilities seriously and is therefore appalled at the tremendous thing he has undertaken.

MUST FIGHT IT OUT

He wants to be alone, to think the thing out, to get used to the idea, to review exactly what this thing called "love" has done to him. He wants to avoid the lady for a few days and get his bearings. He has so much to readjust. Life it never going to be quite the same again. He has made vital renunciations. And he is afraid.

Under the old system of long engagements he had more time to make these mental readjusments. He was spared this rather rushed feeling that accrues nowadays, when it is deemed desirable to announce the wedding date at the same time as the engagement. That arrangement is, perhaps, better for the girl. Under the old vogue the man's revulsion of feeling, if he allowed himself to dwell upon it, often meant that oft heard complaint: "He has taken the best years of her life," years during which he had so many exclusive rights and privileges, to the discouragement of other suitors, and yet indefinitely postponed matrimony, finally, perhaps marrying reluctantly in the end, or not at all. And this, when matrimony was the almost exclusive interest in a woman's life, wasn't fair either.

So it was natural enough that women should have changed the vogue for the long engagement. Ever natural that they should be conceded the privilege of suing for breach of promise.

But under this new precipitate fashion, all the disadvantages are with the man. Thus his revulsion of feeling is apt to be more definite, more poignant, more violent. Events seem to rush upon him. For mingled with his romantic passion is a real sense of awful responsibility. As some cynic once remarked: "Love is an insane desire on the part of one man to keep another man's daughter." And the sensitive, honorable man knows that it is much more than that. No wonder he wants to withdraw, to stand aside for a spell, to sort himself out and try to readjust his whole mentality to these vital changes.

It means so much more for him to give up his liberty. Women's liberty is a new thing, and much more intangible.

MAN'S BRAIN BEFOGGED

With all these traditions to aid them in a sort of dependent callousness, women feel this revulsion of feeling prior to matrimony. So that it is easy to understand how much more that fear complex can attack the man. Even when he is sure he loves her, that she is, indeed, the one woman in the world for him, he is still boggled overwhelmed, with this awful responsibility he has assumed. And when he isn't quite sure, when he has a sense of being rushed or "caught," he may well struggle in an agony of conflicting emotions. The more honorable and loyal he be the more confounding these emotions.

I will wager that there are precious few married and engaged men who have not suffered this experience. And in these days of imminent June weddings it is rampant. So don't be hurt about it, you brides-to-be. And don't think that you alone are troubled by this queer reaction of your mate. Try to make it easy for him, try to understand, try to help tactfully in the readjustment process—chiefly with masterly inactivity. He must work it out for himself. Only the weaker, cheaper men succumb to it. The strong ones come through it infinitely more worth while. But, oh, my dears, it is fatal to rush him. Then he may get that reaction afterward—and then it is bitter, indeed.

It is that "rush" which is helping fill the divorce courts, that "rush" which makes the divorce reform people urge longer pause, longer time for contemplation and mental readjustment. The long engagement was not good; the rushed wedding is infinitely worse.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Mrs. D.—Yes, a nursing mother can reduce if she does it scientifically and slowly. Your baby of three and one-half months has doubled her birth weight. It looks as though she were overweight, because usually the birth weight is not doubled until the fifth month. However, she may not be. It depends upon her frame and original weight at birth.

Yes, I think it is a good plan to give one bottle a day because it gives the mother a rest and the baby gets used to the bottle. This is a great asset if the baby has to be weaned suddenly. At her age you can begin one-half milk and one-half water. Better boil the milk three or four minutes. Take about three ounces of milk and four ounces of water and boil them together. In My Garden

By Josse A. Currey

One of the most satisfactory things in the perennial garden which will give you a mass of dainty little blossoms is achilea or the pearl. With slight attention from a fertilizing standpoint it will produce flower stems two feet long and the dainty little flowers will be found quite useful in arranging bouquets and baskets. There are a great many amateur gardeners who do not know how to handle achilea to get the full benefit of it. They allow the first blooms either to go to seed or dry, whereas when the flowers begin to turn brown they should be cut off close to the ground and the plants will immediately start in to make flower buds for a second crop later in the season.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For a Quick Fire

If the wood in the range does not catch readily, try throwing a teaspoonful of sugar on it. It will blaze up immediately and is much safer than kerosene, so frequently used.

To Avoid Indigestion

It is said that if the tough skin that is on the outside of an onion, the next layer and the thin skin under it, are all removed when the onion is peeled, there will be no indigestion from eating them.

A Little Easier

In the home where mother does all her own work, it is sometimes wise to have Tuesday for washday rather than the custom-made Monday. The house is always in disorder from Sunday, with so many things to put away and so much accumulated dust that it takes most of Monday to straighten it out. If, in the afternoon a cold supper could be prepared for Tuesday and wash-day would not seem such a horror with the knowledge that the house is in order before one starts.

You Will Like It

Steamed Glasses

If you are a person who wears glasses and your position is such that you are in and out of various offices during the day, you will be glad to know that if your glasses are wiped off with petroleum ointment and cleaned well each morning, you will not be annoyed when calling on a prospective customer to have him disappear from your vision at your first greeting.

A Linen Test

Wet the end of the finger and apply it to the linen. If the moisture does not at once soak through the cloth at that spot, it is not pure linen.

Removes Stains

Touch the jelly or jam stains on table linen with spirits of camphor before removing the table cloth. The linen may then be laundered as usual and all stains will wash out.

Salt

Salt thrown on soot on the carpet will take up the grease without leaving a stain.

Salt added to the water in the vase containing cut flowers will keep them alive longer.

By filling the mouth with salt and water, hemorrhages from tooth pulling may be stopped.

Sticky Frosting

Spread a little flour over the tops of the cakes before icing and the icing will not run off the sides.

For Variety

Spread a thin layer of bitter chocolate over the white icing of a chocolate cake and you will be pleased with the change.

Stick to It

When you find a brand of food you like a great deal, remember the maker's name when next you order. It is foolish to keep trying various kinds when you know of a perfectly satisfactory brand.

New Linoleum

When having new linoleum laid, insist upon its being left several days before it is nailed to the floor. This will prevent bulging and consequent breaking.

Just a Thought

The wise woman is starting to accumulate sewing to do on the porch during the summer and it is this woman who always has her presents wrapped and addressed two weeks before Christmas.

Careful Folding, Less Mending

Fold the garment so that the buttons are inside before running it through the wringer. It will save you a lot of mending.

Broken Eggs

If you should accidentally break several eggs, they may be kept for two or three days by removing the shells, dropping the eggs into a bowl and covering with cold water.

For Best Results

When making beef tea, let the meat cook for quite a while before adding the salt. If added too soon, it will harden the meat and prevent the best flavor going into the liquor.

The cold-pack method is acclaimed by the best domestic-science authorities as the most successful of canning all vegetables and fruits. Every housekeeper who has never tried it with rhubarb and strawberries will, I hope, find the following directions minutely specific:

Can Strawberries—Rinse in cold water, drain, hull and pick over. Then pack them into hot sterilized jars. Put empty glass jars in warm water and bring to a boil. Continue to boil for fifteen minutes, drain and keep warm by wrapping in hot towels which have been wrung out of boiling water. Then fill the jars while they are filled with the fruit, add boiling hot medium syrup made by boiling three quarts of granulated sugar and two quarts of water (this syrup is called "thin syrup") for five minutes (thick syrup is boiled for ten minutes). This syrup should be added to the fruit-filled jar. Add one-fourth inch of the syrup which you have been boiling water. Put on the rubber which have been boiling and screw the jars. And partially seal—that is, put top wire up over cover, but do not press down side wire. Put the jars on a wire rack in the bottom of your wash boiler. The wash boiler should contain enough boiling water to rise almost to top of jar. When the water is once more boiling, let it boil for sixteen minutes around the jars (this is called "processing.") Then take out the jars, completely seal them (by pressing down side wires,) invert to cool (out of a draught) and to test for leaks, label and store. (Strawberries do not need "blanching"—which is described below.)

To Can Rhubarb—Wash and cut the rhubarb into short lengths. Place it in a cheesecloth bag and lower this bag into boiling water from one to two minutes (this is blanching;) then "cold-dip" by plunging the bag into cold water for an instant. Place the drained lengths of rhubarb in hot, sterilized jars, add either boiling water to within one-half inch of top, or else add a thin syrup made by boiling three quarts of sugar and two quarts of water together for one minute (don't count till it begins to boil.) Partially seal, as just described, and process in the wash boiler canner for twenty minutes. Completely seal, invert to test for leaks, and store. If there is a leakage, you must process the jar over again (with a new rubber) for five minutes.

[All letters addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeper" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or rubber reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number and the name of your city and State.—The Editor.]

Lift Out Your Corns

ICE-MINT
THE NEW DISCOVERY ENDS ALL
Foot Troubles

This new discovery, made from a Japanese product, is certainly a wonder the way it draws out inflammation from a pair of swollen, burning, aching feet. It takes the soreness right out, then the corn or callous shrivels and lifts off. Hard, horny, soft corns or corns between the toes, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful. Just think! Not one bit of pain while applying Ice-Mint or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

You will never have to cut a corn again and run the risk of blood poison. Say good-by to your old corn salves, plasters and bunding tips for that pet corn of yours is sure to be a "goner" if it ever feels the magic touch of Ice-mint.

It imparts such delightful, soothing, cooling feeling to the feet that you will sigh with relief.

Ice-mint is the real Japanese secret for fine, healthy little feet. It prevents foot odors and keeps them sweet and comfortable. It is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes, and by men who have to stand on their feet all day.

Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-mint and give your poor, suffering, tired, swollen feet the treat of their lives. It costs little and there is nothing better.—[Advertisement.

SUFFERED FROM ECZEMA ON FACE

"I suffered for three months from eczema on my face and arms. It broke out on my face first in blisters which burned and itched causing me to scratch, and I suffered intense agony. My face was disfigured, my eyes being swollen, and my clothing aggravated the breaking out.

"Nothing gave relief until I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I got instant relief and I just used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment when I was healed." (Signed) Miss Grace E. Clegg, Mosier, Oregon, Sept. 25 1922.

Hale Gives Tanlac His Unqualified Endorsement

"I feel just like a different person, have gained ten pounds and my stomach is like new," declared Frank Hale, well known San Francisco citizen, residing at 2746 Third Avenue, in relating his experience with the Tanlac treatment.

"For six months I felt drowsy and sluggish all the time and what little food I forced down seemed to do me harm instead of good, for I always suffered for hours after eating. Finally, I got so weak and rundown I could hardly stay on my feet.

"Since taking Tanlac that tired, drowsy, sluggish feeling has left me entirely. I have a corking good appetite, eat anything I want and feel finer than in years. I've recommended Tanlac to dozens of my friends, and they all think the same as I do, that it's the best ever."

PROPERTY LAW FIGHT REVIVED

Community Rights Referendum Petitions Circulated

Legislation Fought by All Commercial Bodies

Loss of Business Credit is Opponents' Charge

Referendum petitions were put in circulation yesterday against the community property law passed by the State Legislature and signed by the Governor, reviving a question which was thought to be settled in the general election of 1921, when a similar act was defeated on its referendum by a vote of 524,133 to 246,675.

The new law, which gives the wife testamentary disposition of one-half of the community estate and otherwise readjusts the present provisions, is opposed by credit associations throughout the State, boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other business organizations, on the broad general grounds that disastrous effects will follow its enforcement; that the measure is revolutionary in character; that it will disturb habits and customs of long standing and precipitate court proceedings and interpretations which may disrupt business and create endless litigation and hardship.

CALLED UNNECESSARY

It is held by the opponents of the law that existing laws provide ample protection to both parties to a marital contract. That there is the privilege of making an antenuptial agreement, or such post-marriage arrangements as may be desired and that this bill will benefit only those wives who wish to deprive their husbands of one-half of the community property and give it some one else.

"It will produce," according to former Senator Devlin, "dissension and discord. It will impair credit. It will prevent many a man from doing business, and some it will completely bankrupt. It will mean liquidation and winding up of business. It will forcibly convey property from one to some other not now entitled to it."

INDORSED BY CLUBS

The proponents of the measure, which has the indorsement of many women's clubs, assert that the proposed law is in the nature of an equal-rights bill and they declare that the wife should be entitled to the same testamentary privileges in community property which are enjoyed by the husband. To which the opposition will reply, as they did two years ago, that upon the husband rests the burden of the battle of accumulation and the fruits of his efforts may not properly be dissipated except by specific agreement or under the terms of the existing law, which, they say, covers every point and has been thoroughly tested through the courts until it has become a digested part of our statutes.

It will require 46,000 bona-fide signatures to again refer the community property law to the voters at the next general election. The referendum petitions are being placed throughout the State by J. P. Steele, a professional circulator, who says that he expects to secure 75,000 names in order that there be no question of insufficiency.

It is agreed by both sides that the campaign will be a hot one.

SET-BACK PROTEST IS UPHELD

Writ of Mandamus Given by Superior Court in Fight Over Ordinance

A decision which is expected to be of far reaching importance to property owners in Los Angeles was made yesterday by Judge Clock in Superior Court.

John M. Thille of 458 North Lake street was granted a writ of mandamus against the Board of Public Works restraining the board from upholding the ordinance which forbids property owners to build a garage within thirty feet of the property line.

Judge Clock held that the ordinance is unreasonable and therefore should not be enforced. City officials stated that the case probably will be appealed.

Mr. Thille started to build a garage a short distance from the front line of his property on Lake street and, after the building had been partly erected, was ordered by city officials to discontinue its construction. He started court proceedings at once on the ground that the ordinance is an interference with the constitutional rights of a citizen.

SHERIFF WILL STUDY IDENTIFICATION WORK

TRAEGER AND PARTY LEAVE TO INVESTIGATE SYSTEM IN BAY CITIES

Sheriff Traeger, Arthur Adams, superintendent of the county identification bureau, and C. C. Riley, assistant to Deputy Sheriff Larimer, in charge of the county's criminal record system, left yesterday for Berkeley and San Francisco to study the identification methods in use in those cities.

The party will take six prisoners to San Quentin from here. From San Quentin the three officials will proceed to Berkeley where they will visit Chief of Police Vollmer and study the record and identification systems worked out by him.

At San Francisco the party will investigate the identification systems in use there and the methods used by the Automobile Conference of the Pacific Coast in checking up on automobile thieves.

LEASES "Y" CAFETERIA

The Y.M.C.A. cafeteria has been leased to Stoney L. de Ment, according to an announcement yesterday. The cafeteria has been remodeled and additional equipment installed. A new ventilation system also has been put into operation. Numerous improvements have been made in the kitchen to facilitate service.

DEBATE FINALS TODAY

Hollywood and South Pasadena High Schools to Clash

Hollywood High School and South Pasadena High School will meet today at 8 p.m., in the finals of the Southern California championship debate, and Hollywood, which has won the trophy twice, is hoping to get a third and final leg on the cup offered by the University of California. The debate will be held at Pasadena High School, neutral ground.

Kenwood Rohrer and William Neville represent Hollywood and have the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that immigration to the United States should be further numerically restricted." Roscoe Ryan and B. Welden represent South Pasadena and have the negative.

NO UPSET MADE BY FINAL VOTES

Complete Unofficial Count Shows 80,000 Ballots

Allan or Workman Will be Head of Council

Board of Freeholders Will Convene Soon

The City Council will on Monday morning begin its canvass of the returns at Tuesday's election as a result of the receipt at the City Hall yesterday of returns from fifteen belated precincts, thus enabling City Clerk Dominguez to announce the complete semiofficial returns. These showed that about 80,000 votes were cast in the city at Tuesday's election, the largest number of ballots being cast on the $35,000,000 power bonds, where the total vote was 79,790, which was 11,922 less than the required two-thirds. All other bond issues carried.

The late precincts made no change in the order of the Councilmanic, Board of Education and Freeholders candidates, or on the propositions. Councilman Allan lead Boyle Workman by 576 votes on the complete semiofficial returns, and while Allan was high man among the eighteen Council candidates there is a possibility that Workman may be chosen president when the new Council takes office on July 2. The members of the new Council, in the order of the vote they received, are: Robert M. Allan (incumbent.) Boyle Workman, Walter Mallard (incumbent.) Ralph L. Criswell (incumbent.) W. J. Sanborn (incumbent.) W. C. Mushet (incumbent.) Miles S. Gregory, Fred C. Wheeler (incumbent.) and Edwin Baker.

SPARKS LOSES PLACE

Of the seven members of the present Council who were candidates, Councilman Sparks was the only one defeated, landing in eleventh place, while C. J. Colden of the harbor district was tenth.

The new Board of Education, which, like the City Council, will take office on July 2, will consist of these seven, their names being given in the order of the vote each received: Elizabeth Louise Clark, John B. Beman, Robert A. Odell (incumbent.) Robert L. Burns, Frank O. Bristol, Lucia Macbeth and Frederick R. Feitshans. This is the complete Citizens' School Committee ticket, which asked for support from the voters on a platform of keeping the Los Angeles schools 100 per cent American and maintaining the administration on a basis of business efficiency and of equal fairness to the children, the teachers and the taxpayers.

The radical ticket headed by G. Bromley Oxnam, who was in last place on the complete semiofficial returns, went down to complete defeat. On this ticket were M. C. Bettinger, Mary C. Millspaugh and M. Jessie York, members of the present board.

CHARTER WRITERS

The new Board of Freeholders will be sworn in probably late next week and will begin its sessions at once, as required by law. Four months' time is the period given by law for the drafting of the new charter, which will be submitted to the voters at a special election early next year. An extension of two months may be given, if asked for, so that the new charter will be completed before January 1. The Board of Freeholders will consist of these fifteen members whose names are given in the order of the vote each received: Charles A. Baskerville, Watt L. Moreland, Nathan Newby, William Mead, Robert M. Clarke, Franklin D. Howell, E. P. Clark, Ida I. Bellows, Orra E. Monnette, Percy H. Booth, John S. Horn, John R. Haynes, Josefa Tolhurst, Dora A. Stearns and Henry W. Keller. All but one—Dr. Haynes—were on the ticket put forward by the Chamber of Commerce and allied civic organizations. Ira W. Byrnes, who was sixteenth on the list under the complete semiofficial returns, was the only member of the Chamber of Commerce ticket to fail of election.

Man Is Fatally Crushed Under Load of Lumber

B. Belasquez, 45 years of age, a longshoreman employed at the McCormick docks at Wilmington, was crushed almost beyond recognition yesterday afternoon when a load of lumber being loaded on a ship worked loose and fell on him.

Practically every bone in the man's body is broken, physicians say, but despite this he is still alive, although unconscious at the Hillside Hospital. No hope for his recovery is entertained.

ARRAIGN JUSTICE FOLLETTE

Channing Follette, presiding justice of Los Angeles Township, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Cole, sitting in Judge Reeve's court, on two counts of forgery, one of attempted bribery and one of perjury.

The case was continued until the 14th inst. for entry of plea. It was stated by H. L. Geisler of Woolwine & Geisler, attorneys for Justice Follette, that on the 14th inst. he intends to file demurrers to the indictments and motions to quash the charges.

TO FILE ANSWER

An accusation against Justice Follette to remove him from office, which was filed the day after he was indicted by the county grand jury, was filed in Judge Avery's court, and the official was given until the 14th inst. to answer. It was stated that an answer would be filed on that date.

It is charged in the indictments that Justice Follette attempted to bribe Charles Reimer, an investigator, with $700 to fix the case of Carl V. Lindquist, indicted for forgery and subornation of perjury.

It is also charged that Justice Follette aided in the arrangements to have two persons sign the names of T. H. Little, a woman, and O. V. Stensvad to $10,000 bonds for Sam Johnson and J. C. Gilvert, asserted bunko operators. This involves charges of forgery.

TO FIGHT CASE

Justice Follette is also accused of perjury before the grand jury in stating that a Mr. Rollins, not himself, left a package, containing a loaf of bread in which was $700, at a checking station in a drug store at Fifth and Spring streets.

Justice Follette emphatically denies the charges against him and states that when the case is taken into court he will prove his innocence.

MORE CARE IN CHOOSING FOOD URGED

Dietitian Holds Wrong Eating is Current Among Business Men

The average business man of today is only 50 per cent efficient, according to statement made by Dr. Frank McCoy, dietitian and food expert, in an address last night before the Purchasing Agents' Association of Los Angeles at the City Club.

The subject of Dr. McCoy's talk was "The Value of Good Health in Business." He contended that most business men do not recognize in good health their most valuable asset.

"The man of affairs today wastes fully 50 per cent of his energy by forcing his digestive system to assimilate excessive or inharmonous food combinations and mixtures," he said.

"And yet there is a constant clamor for more efficiency. If employers and employees alike paid more attention to their eating their efficiency would be doubled."

"The man who leaves his office at 12 o'clock and returns to his desk at 1 after having partaken of a meal of inharmonous conglomerations and mixtures of food seriously impaires his efficiency for the afternoon's work. His brain is dull and his mind clouded, due to the fact that a large percentage of his body energy is being utilized in assimilating improper and excessive quantities of food in his system.

"If a business man possesses good judgment and foresight in his commercial life he needs but to exercise the same qualities through proper eating, correct living and right thinking to maintain good health."

The program was in charge of F. E. Dickson and G. A. Davies. Other speakers on the program were T. R. Horn, N. L. Morse and Jack Harts.

FIRE ORDER IS LARGEST IN HISTORY

City Lets Contract for More Than $500,000 in Equipment

The City Council yesterday awarded the contract for more than $500,000 worth of fire equipment to the Stutz and the Seagrave Fire Apparatus Manufacturing Companies. Bids of the American-La France and Ahrens-Fox companies were rejected.

This constitutes the world's largest order of its kind, consisting of forty-seven pieces, according to Fire Chief Scott. The contract was let after a spirited debate between members of the City Council.

Fire Chief Scott stated that the equipment was badly needed. It will be used by thirty new fire companies.

ROGERS ARRIVES

FAMOUS HUMORIST, ACTOR TO BEGIN FILMS

By Grace Kingsley

Nobody except his wife got a chance to greet Will Rogers yesterday after all, on the occasion of his return from New York and the Follies. The noted humorist Follies star and screen actor telegraphed ahead yesterday morning that he was ill, suffering from a severe cold and extremely weary from his New York season in the Follies and as an after-dinner speaker, and asked his wife to meet him with the family limousine out at Pasadena.

So Mrs. Will drove to the Crown Hill city and brought Rogers to their Beverly Hills home, where the Rogers youngsters further added to their famous dad's weariness by climbing all over him. However, he said over the telephone last night that he was feeling better already, and that he was sure he would have something to say to the California climate's advantage in a day or two.

Buster Collier came west with Rogers, and Rogers said they had a fine trip. He is anxious to begin work in pictures and expects to start Monday at the Roach studios, under his contract with Hal Roach.

"The Follies folks gave me a party on the stage the night before I left," said Rogers. "Eddie Cantor has taken my place. I think the Follies will run right through the summer. No, I don't know what my first picture is to be until I visit with Mr. Roach. Gee, I'd like to start tomorrow! I sure am glad to get back to California. I wouldn't have come if I hadn't loved California, because the Follies folk said I could keep right on working for them if I wanted to."

Jane Cowl to Visit Us

Admirers of Jane Cowl will be delighted to learn that that noted star, now a Shakespearean luminary, will visit this city during the summer, appearing in "Romeo and Juliet," in which she has made a triumphant and sensational success in the East.

Before commencing her western tour Miss Cowl is to take a flying trip to Egypt in order to rest and absorb atmosphere for her next New York Shakespearean production, which will be nothing less than "Antony and Cleopatra," to be done under the Selwyn management next fall.

Famous Gets "Icebound"

Those Famous-Players officials don't let any grass grow under their feet when there is a noted play in sight that they think will make a good picture. The latest announcement is to the effect that Famous will now make a film version of Owen Davis's "Icebound," which carried off the Pulitzer prize this year. William De Mille will direct it from a script by Clara Beranger, and the picture will be a special feature with an all-star cast.

"Icebound" was one of the outstanding artistic as well as popular successes of the present season in New York, and it is possible that some of the players in the stage version may appear in the picture. Robert Ames, who played an important role in the stage version, is mentioned in particular as likely to come to Hollywood.

Will Add Brightness to New Program

Eva Novak
Leading woman, plays in "Dollar Devils" to be screened at Symphony next week. She is also cast in "The Tiger's Claw."

"Never Again," Says Harron After Stunt

Screen producers have stretched their imaginations to the breaking point in their efforts to devise a new thrill scene for motion pictures. The record of the screen bristles with memorable thrill episodes calculated to grip the hearts of the audiences and make their hair stand on end.

In Emory Johnson's drama of railroad life, "Westbound Limited," Johnny Harron, brother of the late Bobby Harron, risks his neck in one of the most thrilling realistic scenes ever flung upon a motion-picture screen.

"What do you want me to do now?" Harron asked Director Emory, when the producer explained the dramatic angles of the situation.

"Why, I simply want you to get on a horse and drop over that mountain—that's all," the director explained.

Then he asked: "Do I really have to do that?"

Mr. Johnson explained that the scene was absolutely necessary and so Johnny rode down the winding road with the cameras grinding. When he reached the cliff the horse hesitated and Harron had to strike him to make him take the leap. Over the bank they went. Down they rolled and by a strange prank of fate neither of them was injured.

When asked how he felt about the stunt all Johnny had to say was "Never again."

POPULAR MUSIC IS WHAT BRINGS TEARS

Roy Buch and Dolores Ordoquil, musical "emotion doctors" to hundreds of famous stars, say it is not Brahms or Beethoven, but Irving Berlin and such.

During the filming of "The Girl Who Came Back," which is now at Grauman's Third-street Theater, the team found that late popular hits put a player into a receptive mood that permits easy suggestion on the part of the director.

Be that as it may, it is assuredly a fact that the players in this production offer realism of emotion and effective acting. The cast includes Miriam Cooper, Kenneth Harlan, Joseph Dowling and Zasu Pitts.

TRIES SCREEN AGAIN

Mary Ruby, favorite leading lady and ingenue who, when stardom was within her grasp some five years ago, deserted the screen for a venture in matrimony, has returned to the silver sheet. Miss Ruby has been engaged by Oscar Apfel, Metro director, for a part in Viola Dana's new picture, "The Girl Who Dared," now in production. Mr. Apfel formerly directed Miss Ruby and knows the capabilities of the little lady.

Orpheus Club Offers Fine Music Numbers

Everyone should hear the Orpheus Club! This men's singing organization par excellence gave its third concert of the season Thursday evening at Trinity Auditorium. Their program was one of the most excellent of its type which they have ever offered, and they won prolonged applause from the large audience. The club was assisted by Laurence Tibbett and the Orpheus Four. Hugo Kirchhofer directed with his customary facility.

An organization of this kind, which not only pleases critical taste, but without digressing in the slightest degree also satisfied popular taste, might well be considered a civic asset. Polish, musicianship, splendid singing, fine tonal quality, balance in volume of the four parts and unified expression are the chief attributes which explain the chorus's well deserved success. A lovely and reminiscent quality was maintained in their rendition of Van de Water's "Sunset," last on the program. Edward MacDowell, America's greatest composer, was represented by his shadowy and springhtly "Dance of the Gnomes." The audience was appreciative of a rehearing of Schubert's "Serenade."

"Laughing," by Franz Abt, is a song of the most contagiously hilarious nature, and had to be repeated. Other numbers were: "Killarney" (Balfe;) "The Haymaking" (Alfred David;) "When the Roses Bloom" (Reichardt;) "Invitation" (Hoffman,) and "Forest Harps" (Schultz.)

Laurence Tibbet, formerly a member of the club, and recently signed with the Metropolitan Operahouse, sang a group of solos. His rendition of the big aria from "Othello," Iago's "Credo," was of outstanding beauty.

Mr. Tibbet possesses a voice at once strong, mellow and warm. Pleasing, indeed, is his splendid poise and dignity. Every word was enunciated flawlessly in his "The Heart of a Rose," by Miss Eleano Remick Warren (the composer at the piano,) and "A Heart Mislaid," by Frank La Forge.

The Orpheus Four sang probably a dozen songs, including their many encores. They went from the sublime to the ridiculous and back again. Their voices blend perfectly in quality, volume and dynamic shading. Yet each voice possesses individuality and stands out finely in solo passages. Among their offerings were several serious numbers. "Mighty Lak' a Rose," "Chestnuts," "Carolina," "A Southern Medley," Carmena," "Jerusalem Morning."

CONSERVATORY TO HOLD OPEN LESSON

An open lesson in the artistry and interpretation class of the Hollywood Conservatory will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. The class is under the tutelage of Francis Kendig, teacher of piano. Mazie Donoho, Edmer Whitney and Bernice James will play.

The class is conducted in much the same manner as the more famous master classes, except that it is designed for the student of intermediate rather than advanced ability, with the idea of developing musicianship in small masterpieces.

PROMINENT REALTOR OF CITY IS DEAD

S. K. Lindley Started in Business Here in 1883; Born in St. Louis

With the death of Samuel K. Lindley yesterday at his home at 2627 Menlo avenue there passed away one of the early pioneers who was instrumental in promoting the growth of Los Angeles. Mr. Lindley was born in St. Louis, September 11, 1838. After having been engaged in the mercantile business in the East for a number of years he came to Los Angeles in 1883, when Los Angeles had a population of less than 25,000.

S. K. Lindley.

He became engaged in the real estate business, handling almost exclusively down-town business property, and was prominent in real estate circles up to within a few years prior to his death. At times he was the owner of considerable business property within the heart of the business district.

He was a member of the Los Angeles Commandery No. 9, Knights Templar, and a charter member of Al Malaikah Shrine, being one of the last three thirty-year members of that organization.

Mr. Lindley leaves a widow and two children, Philo L. Lindley, Los Angeles, and Mary L. Knecht, wife of Gustave Knecht, San Francisco; a sister, Mrs. N. O. Swift, Portland, Or., and a brother, J. H. Lindley, of Covina. He was a brother of the late Mrs. George King of St. James Park, Los Angeles.

VIEW FILM ATTACK ON NARCOTICS

Leaders in Los Angeles civic affairs this afternoon attended the first formal showing of "Human Wreckage," Mrs. Wallace Reid's photodramatic attack on dope, which will have its world premiere at the Century Theater in San Francisco Saturday night.

It was the first appearance of each in pictures. The honorary cast includes: Mayor Cryer, Judge Crail, presiding judge of the Superior Court; Dr. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California and also president of the Los Angeles Anti-Narcotic League which is sponsoring Mrs. Reid's production; John P. Carter, former Collector of Internal Revenue; Mrs. Chester Ashley, educator; Brig. Boyd of the Salvation Army; Father Clifford, Catholic diocesan representative; and Chief Oaks of the Los Angeles police department.

Valuables in Mails Puzzle Police Captain

Captain of Detectives Home received yesterday a package through the mail that caused even that experienced officer to ponder a little.

In the package were a gold watch, a silver pen and a silver pencil. The only clews to the owner of the property were the initials N. W. C., the name Norman W. Church engraved on the watch and letters E. H. C. on the other articles.

The property was turned over to Assistant Captain Doheny in charge of the pawn shop detail who got in touch with Mr. Church at 2105 West Adams street. The watch was identified but the pen and pencil still await claimants.

Capt. Home believes the package was sent by a young miscreant whose conscience bothered him or possibly by someone who feared the initials on the articles might give him away.

COUNCIL BLOCKS CITY-OWNED GAS

Funds Sought to Condemn Plant Refused

Vote Stands Five to Four in Its Favor

Necessary Two-thirds Fails; Move is Dropped

A fourth attempt to force through the City Council a resolution authorizing the expenditure of not to exceed $25,000 to condemn the physical properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation was blocked by the Council yesterday by a vote of five to four. Councilmen Sparks Mushet, Langdon and Conaway voted against the resolution and Councilmen Criswell, Wheeler, Mallard, Sanborn and Allan favored the proposition. It required a two-thirds vote to pass it.

Councilman Wheeler was sponsor for the fourth introduction of the proposed action which was seconded by Councilman Mallard. No sooner was it before the Council than the fireworks began. President Criswell relinquished the chair in order to make a fight from the floor for its passage. He declared that anyone who voted against the resolution was a "friend of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and opposed to municipal ownership."

RAPS OPPONENTS

He was followed by Mr. Mallard, who said "there are certain members of this Council who do not want the city to acquire the electrical system of the Los Angeles Gas and Eletric Corporation and these same people will vote against any ordinance that comes up to condemn the property. Mr. Sparks and Mr. Mushet are always against any such ordinance or resolution as this."

Councilman Mallard then referred to the city charter and declared the resolution would be illegal if passed. He pointed out that in order to condemn the property of the gas corporation it is necessary to pass an "ordinance" instead of a "resolution" and by a two-thirds vote of the Council. He declared that even in the event of the Council passing such a resolution as the one that was introduced yesterday, such resolution would be declared illegal by the courts because of the exact wording of the charter, which declares it must be an ordinance.

SEES FLAW

Mr. Mushet is an authority on the formation and interpretation of city charters. He was active in the efforts to secure a new city charter for Los Angeles. His attitude yesterday was for the strict interpretation of the present charter and for that reason he declared he would vote "no" on the resolution.

"Cupid" Sparks, defeated Councilman, who was nosed out by Edwin Baker, was the one who literally threw the mokey-wrench into the machinery which President Criswell believed he had oiled to such a nicety that the $25,000 resolution, which has been kicked around for so long, would be passed without a murmur.

There was a secret conference between Sparks and Criswell just before the Council convened yesterday morning, and after the conference Criswell took his seat and grabbed the gavel. Then he directed most of his forensic efforts toward Sparks, who, to the disgust of Criswell, declared "There is something I don't like about this resolution, and I intend to vote against it."

VOICES OPPOSITION

That settled the matter as far as the resolution is concerned, as Councilman Conaway had also declared himself positively opposed to the proposition, as he said the power bureau people had come before the Council promising that it would "cost the people nothing to condemn the properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, and here they are asking us for $25,000. I am opposed to the resolution and will vote against it."

Reference was made to the defeat of the power bonds by President tCrisweli just before resuming the chair. Then Councilman Wheeler made another effort to induce his colleagues to change their mind, and his words were particularly directed to Councilman Sparks, who had stated that he is neither the particular friend of the "gas company nor of the power interests."

"This is a question of being either in favor of municipal ownership or being opposed to it," said President Criswell," and those who are opposed to this resolution are showing on which side they stand when it comes to the condemnation of the property of the Los Angeles Gas Company."

There was much speculation as to how Councilman Allan would vote. Allan led the entire councilmanic ticket at the general election, and Mr. Wheeler was more than polite in his talk yesterday, addressing most of his remarks to Mr. Allan.

Sensing the vote which he knew was lost when it came to the roll call, Allan, with a smile at the presiding officer, voted "aye." Then Conaway followed with a "no," Langdon with another "no," Mallard with "aye," Mushet "no," Sanborn "aye," and Sparks "no." This settled the matter, and Wheeler's vote had no effect in changing the issue.

Then President Criswell reluctantly announced that the "resolution is lost," and ordered it filed. This seems to settle the matter, at least as far as this Council is concerned.

FEDERAL WORKERS ORGANIZE IN CLUB

What is to be known as the Departmental Club of the Department of Agriculture has been organized in this city, for social and business purposes. It is made up of the local representatives of the bureau of animal industry, the weather bureau, the forest service, and the bureaus of chemistry, markets, beet sugar, investigation, and irrigation work. The club has been organized by the election of H. B. Hersey, of the local weather bureau, president; and C. H. Beauchamp, secretary. It is the intention to hold monthly meetings that will be used to get acquainted and the discussions of interest and value relating to the various duties incumbent upon representatives of the Department of Agriculture.

WIFE SUES HASTINGS AGAIN

Accuses Church Organist of Desertion; Settlement of Property Made Secretly

For the second time within a month, Mrs. Mabell Hastings yesterday brought suit for divorce from Dr. Ray Hastings, organist of Temple Baptist Church and of the Philharmonic Orchestra. In the newest action Mrs. Hastings made no mention of the sensational charges contained in her former action in which she named a member of the church choir and the organist of a Pasadena theater as responsible for the breach in her home.

Yesterday's complaint was filed by Attorney S. S. Hahn. In it Mrs. Hastings charges her husband with desertion, stating that he abandoned her February 1, 1923. The couple were married here in 1913.

In her original complaint Mrs. Hastings named Miss Gladys L. Hoskins, a member of Temple Church choir, and Virginia Cox Field, organist of a Pasadena theater and wife of Norman Field, leading man in the theater. Dr. Hastings, according to Mr. Hastings, explained their presence in his life by saying that they were music students of his.

Since the filing of the first action a property settlement has been made out of court, according to Mr. Hahn. In the original action Mrs. Hastings asked for a division of the community property, $500 attorney's fees and $250 a month alimony. In her new action it is stated that there is no community property and she asks for no alimony.

The charges of Mrs. Hastings against her husband and the two women were responsible for a great deal of talk in church circles. No legal denial of the charges was ever made for court record, but after a conference between Mr. Hahn and Attorneys Woodruff and Shoemaker for Dr. Hastings, the case was dropped.

PELICAN MIKE'S DANDER UP

Tells Harbor Inspector He's Going to Pull Feathers Out of Bird That's Imitating Him

Pelican Mike is on the warpath. A. P. Messenger, chief inspector at Los Angeles Harbor for the Department of Agriculture, yesterday confirmed an interview in which the old bird told a Long Beach newshound that he was coming over to the harbor to pull the tail feathers of the presumptuous bird who has taken up domicile near the pilot station and is posing as Pelican Mike. But Mike hasn't found this feathered Peckskiff yet.

Mike first appeared on the scene last Wednesday afternoon. It was Mr. Messenger who sighted him first and he came ashore that evening with a weird tale of having been followed about the outer harbor by a painted pelican. Blue wings, a green back, a yellow head and a crimson breast, Mr. Messenger declared the bird wore.

"His seagoing friends at the port, realizing that Mr. Messenger is not a drinking man, shook their heads in sad fashion and agreed that is was merely a case of another government official being overworked.

MIKE IS INTERVIEWED

But yesterday Mr. Messenger came ashore from his day of inspecting fruit cargoes of ships from foreign ports with a wide smile on his face and victory in his eyes. He had talked with Pelican Mike.

"The doggoned bird, perched on a rock out at Breakwater Light, was waiting for the department boat," said Mr. Messenger. "He flapped up alongside as we sailed by and followed closely in our wake. Every time I looked up his baleful yellow eye caught my glance. I thought of the White Albatross and the Ancient Mariner.

"When I came off a Jap tanker he was still hovering about the launch. I finally got up the courage to question him.

"'What's the idea,' I said, 'of following me about like a bad check.'

"'This is no time for funny remarks, young feller,' he answered with a withering glance of those yellow eyes. 'I've got my reputation to protect and I'm over here to do it.' Then he told me about the yarn that had been published about his having left Long Beach on account of an epidemic of flu among pelicans at that resort. He wasn't the sort to desert his friends in time of need, he said, and declared that this other bird over here was a rank imposter—wrongfully basking in his glory as a philosopher.

DELPHIAN CLUB CHIEFS CONVENE

Many Cities Represented at Ambassador Luncheon

Will Study World Drama as Year's Activity

Program Includes Speeches, Songs, Recitation

Delphian, a name which is filled with wise significance since the days of the Oracle at Delphi, attained a double meaning yesterday when the guests at the annual luncheon of the Delphian clubs learned of the work and activity of these groups during the past year. The dining-room of the Ambassador Hotel was filled with more than 1000 women who had gathered from the city and outlying parts to enjoy the end of a year of study and activity.

The Delphian clubs of the Los Angeles district are comprised of groups which meet for study of a definite type which has been decided in advance by the district heads. During the past year the members have taken up a study of history from its early beginning and origin, to the present day.

TO STUDY DRAMAS

In the same methodical manner the groups will study the drama next year and are looking forward to many interesting programs as the work progresses.

Mrs. George W. McCoy, president of the Los Angeles board, presided at the luncheon and extended greetings to the Delphians of the other cities included in the district, which were Long Beach, Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino, Corona, Pomona, Whittier, Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana and Orange. Mrs. McCoy spoke especially of the privilege which the Delphians had in being able to fit themselves to be better citizens and members of society generally.

In response Mrs. E. W. Shirk of Redlands gave an original poem touching on the Delphian work and ideals. A unique part of the program was the singing of the Jewish song, "Elli Elli," by Mrs. Ada Potter Wiseman of Long Beach. This is one of the very few Jewish songs in existence," and Mrs. Wiseman's interest in it was prompted by the study of Jewish history in the Delphian work of the past year.

ACTOR SPEAKS

The phrase of "he is one man in a thousand" could quite aptly be applied yesterday to Mr. William H. Crane, American actor, for he sat alone in state with nine hundred and ninety-nine women around him and never turned a hair. In fact, he seemed thoroughly to enjoy himself, and his talk on "Reminiscences of the Stage" sparkled with wit and memories of his many experiences during his years on the stage.

Bringing the program to a close were the many songs sung by Mrs. Frank A. Maginnis. Her selections were "The Bird," by Fiske; "Under the Greenwood Tree," Buvvi-Peccia, and "Triumph of Love," Bruno Huhn.

The hostesses of the occasion were all leaders of different groups and included Miss Ellen Andrews, Miss Helen Stubbs and Mmes. J. M. Schneider, L. A. J. La Motte, C. W. Austin, R. L. Bliss, Mary C. Brandriff, Charles H. Clock, E. J. Crookshank, H. Reeve Darling, Janet W. Dean, Harold C. Dewey, Harold Ferguson, I. W. Fuqua, R. J. Gardiner, R. F. Garner, Bruce H. Grigsby, Edward L. Hedderly, D. B. Hendricks, Paul G. Hoffman, Albert Jack, T. C. Jameson, F. J. Leavett, C. B. Lebcher, George W. McCoy, William R. Myers, E. W. Pitcher, Charles O. Reid, C. F. Ross, C. F. Smith, Lewis M. Smith, Charles Stavnow, C. F. Van De Water, E. L. R. Wallace and E. D. Yard.

SIGNAL FAILS; POLICE NAB FOURTEEN IN RAID

Fourteen asserted gamblers were in the City Jail last night because a warning bell signal failed to function when the lookout pressed the button, according to the police. The signal was said by police to have been installed in a tire shop at 1812 South Main street. It failed to work because a policeman cut the wire. Police Officers Damon, Galbraith, Reavis and Robinson found the rest easy.

ASSERTED SHEIK IS WANTED HERE

Richard G. Francois, asserted sheik who is said to have married three California women without having taken the necessary steps to divorce his legal mate in Chicago, is now being held in New York awaiting efforts of Los Angeles officers to obtain requisition papers for his removal here. It is said that he will be charged, if brought back, with bigamy.

While in Los Angeles last July, Francois is said to have married Mrs. A. J. Uniak after a courtship lasting two weeks. Mrs. Uniak charges that he lived with her for ten days, deserted her, and took with him $6000 worth of her jewelry. She then had the marriage annuled.

Francois was an official of the Adams-Beatty-Francois Appraising Corporation of Chicago and was being sought by police in connection with the asserted 1000 per cent "profit" the corporation made in appraising Chicago surface and elevated lines.

Francois was arrested in New York City last April on the advices of the Los Angeles Police Department, who were conducting an investigation and making a nation-wide search for him on behalf of Mrs. Uniak and other asserted "victims." Since his arrest Detective Lieutenants E. R. Cato and William Cahill have been gathering evidence on which they plan to start extradition proceedings.

Extradition papers are now being prepared by the District-Attorney's office, Cato said, and are expected to be ready for filing on the 12th inst. Unless the unforeseen happens, Cato and Cahill will leave for New York the following day to bring Francois back to this city to face charges of bigamy and embezzlement.

CHARLIE AND POLA MAKE UP

Film Idols Looking Forward to Wedding Day, Although Their Plans Are Indefinite

Turtle doves of the cinema are cooing again. Pola Negri and Charlie Chaplin have weathered another betrothal storm. The queen of tragedy and the king of comedy have patched up differences and once again are viewing matrimony from afar, but nevertheless nuptials between the couple are in prospect.

Three weeks ago at Del Monte the absence of the huge solitaire from its place on Pola's ring finger, where it had sparkled since the January day they proclaimed their betrothal, seemed to lend weight to the report that Pola and her "Sharlee" had parted, though she would not admit it.

Certain events transpiring yesterday at Pola's Beverly Hills home point a far different course for the love-boat. The Times reporter, upon being ushered into the tragedienne's living-room, was confronted with the Tade Styka portrait of Pola which Miss Negri gave to "Sharlee" on his birthday on April 16, last.

"How come?" was the query. "Has Mr. Chaplin returned his birthday present to Miss Negri?"

"No," answered Miss Negri's secretary, "Mr. Chaplin is just keeping it here until he can hang it in his new home."

A few minutes later in walked Charles Chaplin. He stalked out for a talk with Miss Negri as she was receiving the ministrations of her manicurist. Soon the front door slammed after him.

Later Miss Negri admitted that "Sharlee" and she were better friends than ever; that she was planning the gardens and other appointments that are to surround the home Mr. Chaplin is building.

"We both are busy. We cannot say when we are to marry," was her only statement.

Large Class of Nurses Receive Their Diplomas

Featured by an address by John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play, commencement exercises were conducted for seventy-six members of the 1923 class of the Los Angeles County Hospital School of Nursing in the Gamut Club last night.

Twenty-nine members received diplomas for the three-years' course and forty-seven members were graduated from the twenty-eight months' course.

With his characteristic touch of humor, Mr. McGroarty followed up his congratulations to the graduates with the injunction to them, "Be kind always to sick men." County Supervisor J. H. Bean delivered a brief address.

Prizes for being the best all-around nurses in their respective classes were awarded to Esther Newell Francis for the three-years' course, and to Lorena Edna Hanawalt for the short course. One male nurse, Franklin W. Schultz, was graduated with the class.

Norman R. Martin, to whom tribute was paid by both Mr. Bean and Mr. McGroarty, presented diplomas to a class for the last time, his resignation as superintendent of the hospital, handed in recently, to take effect before another class is graduated.

YOUTH RUSHED TO JAIL DENIES ATTACK

William B. Crane, 19 years of age, was arrested late yesterday afternoon in Nadeau by Deputy Sheriff Bright and rushed to the County Jail in fear of possible violence at the hands of friends of 9-year-old Harvey Branch, who was asserted to have been attacked by a man in a barn in Nadeau late Wednesday.

Following the arrest on complaint of persons in Nadeau, officers brought the boy before the prisoner. Crane was declared by officers to have been identified by the Branch boy as the man who attacked him.

Crane was charged with a statutory offense after the asserted identification by the boy. Crane denied any knowledge of the attack and maintained his innocence to officers.

Wilson Not to Spend Summer in California

Reports that Woodrow Wilson, former President, would spend the summer at Santa Barbara and might make it his permanent home, were denied in that city yesterday by William G. McAdoo, son-in-law of the former Executive, and former Secretary of the Treasury.

Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre will come to the Coast to visit her sister, Mrs. McAdoo, but the Wilsons have no intention of coming, Mr. McAdoo said.

The report concerning the former President gave as a reason his desire to be near the scene of the next Democratic national convention, expected to be in San Francisco, so that he may take an active part in it. He also hoped, the report said, to put a spoke in Mr. McAdoo's Presidential aspirations, and would attempt to prevent the California delegation from presenting Mr. McAdoo as its candidate.

With only the immediate members of the family present the couple were united at the home of the bride, with Rev. John E. The mother of the bride, Mrs. Sarah Ann Marshall lives at 1312 West Thirty-first street, where the wedding took place.

SUSPECT IN ATTACK ON WOMAN SOUGHT

MRS. LILY CHORT

A man suspected of having attacked Mrs. Lily Chort of 5104 Illinois street, Belvedere, was being hunted by Deputy Sheriffs yesterday and it is expected that his arrest will be announced within a short time.

Acting Chief Deputy Sheriff Wright stated yesterday that the man believed to have perpetrated the attack was arrested several months ago in connection with a similar attack, but was released when the complaining witness left the city.

She stated that she was waiting for a bus near her home Wednesday evening when a young man in a small car offered her a ride. Instead of driving her to her destination, he took her near Union Pacific Manor. When she repulsed him he drew a pistol and displayed an ancient brass badge, professing to be an officer. He told her that he would be able to produce an alibi in case of arrest, as his "brother officers" would testify in his behalf.

NOT CHINESE BANDITS; ONLY FOREST RANGERS

A sensational report brought to the Federal Building yesterday that a tribe of nomadic yellow men had been seen in the Forest Reserve, was much exaggerated. It turned out that the supposed members of the tribe were merely forest rangers, who had been handling the explosive TNT which is furnished by the War Department for road building work.
